Outlines Proposal to Conference.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt this evening told delegates called to a federal conference on economic security that he will present to the coming congress legislation providing for the immediate setting up of an unemployment insurance program in the United States.

The President, speaking to a selected group which he received in the White House, conceded to the separate states the right to decide what type of insurance plan they will proceed under.

But he declared unequivocally that he would reserve to the federal government the right to hold and invest and control all moneys which might be collected.

4 to 5 Billions Involved.

This was necessary, the President added, because of the magnitude of the funds, and "so that the use of these funds as a means of stabilization may be maintained in central management and employed on a national basis." It is expected that from 4 to 5 billion dollars would be raised in the course of several years.

Mr. Roosevelt insisted that unemployment insurance must be kept entirely apart from the dole, and that it should be managed strictly on an actuarially sound basis. He indicated that he favored legislation along the lines of the Wagner-Lewis bill introduced in the last congress, under which a 5 per cent federal tax would be put upon all commercial pay rolls, certain portions of the proceeds being paid back to such states as had adopted legislation for the working of an unemployment insurance program.

Uncertain on Other Proposals.

Speaking on other problems of economic security, Mr. Roosevelt said he was not certain that the time had yet arrived for federal legislation respecting old age pensions and health insurance. He added that whatever legislation is adopted now should not interfere with the general recovery program.

The President's remarks were the most concrete of many thousands of words which were spilled today by those who spoke before the general sessions of the conference, which was held at the Mayflower hotel.

The discussions were ranged in five groups, the subjects being unemployment insurance, child welfare, old age pensions, methods of providing employment, and medical care. The most widely divergent solutions for each of these problems were heard at all the meetings.

Two joint meetings, at luncheon and dinner, were addressed by members of the President's executive committee on economic security. Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator, speaking at the luncheon, called for treatment of relief and unemployment by a "bold stroke."

Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor and chairman of the committee, and Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper spoke at the evening session.

Sounds Note of Doubt.

Mr. Hopkins sounded the note of doubt and confusion which seemed to beset all the speakers in today's conference.

"Almost any one can qualify as an expert in this work," he began. "Most of us are quite a long way from home. You can't get two people in a room at the same time and get them to agree. You'll find that out if you talk to the members of our committee."

Declaring that no security program "worth its salt" would fail to provide for the families now on relief rolls, Mr. Hopkins with wide sweep of his arms envisioned a program "which would give not only cash benefits and work benefits but benefits in the use of land, in providing decent houses on decent lands, in moving people from lands on which they have no security onto new lands where it is theirs."

Discusses Cost of Program.

Going into the cost of a security program, the relief administrator said it could be borne out of the national income. He witheringly attacked the philosophy which found shame in the dole, declared that all college students had accepted a form of dole, and that the rich security holder, receiving an income of $500,000 a year without work, was on a dole no less than the poverty stricken recipient of public funds.

"I'd like to get these two groups

HOSTESS WHO DIED IN PLUNGE IS IDENTIFIED

Investigators last night accepted a theory that Louise Nolan, 22 years old, 61 East Goethe street, brown haired hostess at Chez Paree night club, went to her dramatic death at noon yesterday because she was jealous of an old suitor who had found a new girl.

Miss Nolan's broken body was found in an alley along the north side of the Medinah club in North Michigan avenue soon after she had plunged from a window on the seventeenth floor. Whether she leaped or was hurled out has not been determined.

Gambler, 2 Others Hunted.

The police early today were seeking Frank [Broadway] Jones, well known as a gambler and connected with the Chez Paree gambling, who had been identified as having been with Miss Nolan a short time before she leaped—or was hurled—from the window. A blonde woman who went to the club with Jones and was also in the room when the other girl went out the window also was sought. A third person, a permanent resident of the Medinah club, is being sought as a witness.

It was the belief of the investigators that Jones and the girl—there was a rumor that she was a student nurse about 19 years old—had remained in hiding since they hurriedly left the club immediately after the tragedy.

This much is known: Miss Nolan, at 7:30 a. m., had breakfast in room 1703 with Jones, who had registered at the Medinah club as "Frank Coe" and a woman who had entered the club with Jones at about 5 a. m. A waiter saw the three and remembered that Miss Nolan was sitting in a chair while the other occupants of the room were sitting on the bed.

Beer Sent to Room.

At 10 a. m. four bottles of beer were taken to the room by another waiter. He did not remember how many persons were present when he delivered the order, or whether any one had joined the three known to have been there.

After the death plunge the investigators went into the room. They found evidence of a struggle. There were scratches on the window sills, the shade was torn. Bottles and cigaret stubs lay in disarray. A woman's undergarments were scattered on the floor.

Long before the detectives arrived Jones and the other woman had left. Before going they had pulled down the window through which the night club hostess had dropped.

The man being sought as a witness is Ralph W. Pass, an employé of the Chez Paree. Pass entered the Medinah club, where he is a resident, at about 1 a. m. yesterday and reserved a room for "Coe." The clerk on the desk made the reservation.

Advances Cash to Guest.

The key was turned over to "Coe" when he applied for it. The clerk also advanced the new guest $5 to pay his taxicab bill.

Just how Miss Nolan arrived at the club, and when, is undetermined. Coroner Frank Walsh said he learned she had left her own hotel room at 61 East Goethe street at about 6 a. m. She did not enter room 1703 with Jones and the other woman.

Pass has disappeared. Mike Fritzel, who operates the Chez Paree, declared last night that Pass was formerly connected with his establishment, but that he had gone out about two weeks ago, when gambling in the place was discontinued. He remembered Miss Nolan as a hostess, but she also had been away from the café at least two weeks, he said.

Walsh Sure of Identity.

Coroner Walsh declared that there was no doubt about the identification of "Coe" as Broadway Jones and added that his investigators had learned Miss Nolan was an admirer of Jones.

The coroner's opinion is that Miss Nolan was notified by some friend that her sweetheart was in the Medinah club with another woman, that she went there to confront him, that there was a quarrel, and that this led to her death, probably in a leap from the window.

One club guest, the coroner's investigators learned, had heard a man and a woman quarreling in room 1703. The man was telling the woman he

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Eleven year old King Peter, Jugo-Slavia's boy sovereign, today turned over to his 6 year old brother, Tomislav, command of the nation's 250,000 Sokols, the Jugo-Slav equivalent of America's Boy Scouts.

Command of the gymnastic organization always devolves upon the crown prince, young Tommy having succeeded to that honor when Peter became king as the result of the assassination at Marseilles of his father, King Alexander.

After turning over the leadership of the nation's juvenile soldiers, King Peter saluted Tommy solemnly and wished him the greatest success as new commander in chief of the Sokols. Thereafter the assembled Sokols gave Peter three lusty cheers as he took leave of them to become head of Jugo-Slavia's regular army.

A further thrill came to the young ruler today when his mother told him he would be allowed to leave the nursery and hereafter occupy the palatial bed and spacious living room left vacant by his father's tragic death.

BROTHER LOSES ARM AS SHERIF DID IN THE WAR

Two years ago Lieut. James Meyering of the Morton Grove highway police station bruised his arm in a mishap as he was pursuing a speeding automobile on his motorcycle. Complications developed, and yesterday his left arm was amputated at the shoulder in the Ravenswood hospital. The lieutenant is a brother of Sherif William D. Meyering, who lost his right arm during the war.

BERLIN, Nov 14.—"We must not pay homage to the present craze for blondes to whom rivers of peroxide are sacrificed to enable them to shine from afar as pure Aryans," Ministerial Councilor Dr. Staehle today told a gathering of teachers at Stuttgart. He consoled the brunettes with the remark that "not every platinum blonde is inwardly pure Germanic and many who are dark-haired possess heroic souls."

Oppenheim to Pay; Tax Board Finds a Clew

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—E. Phillips Oppenheim, famous author of mystery stories, failed today to construct a "plot" which would satisfy the United States board of tax appeals.

Even the fact that Oppenheim conjured up a ghost—no less a ghost than that of Enrico Caruso, late world famous tenor—failed to stump or mystify the tax board.

Unfortunately, Mr. Oppenheim, who has juggled many an intricate plot, overlooked one little clew. The board leaped upon his tragic oversight, penetrated all other nuances of the case, and put its finger on the solution.

Claims $731 Tax Due.

In this case, which may be called "the disappearing tax case," the missing body was $731 in income taxes which the government claimed Mr. Oppenheim had failed to pay on his 1928 and 1929 incomes.

Mr. Oppenheim argued that $60,130 in royalties which the publishing house of Little, Brown & Co. paid him in 1928 and 1929 was earned income and, therefore, not taxable. The government insisted that the royalties were not earned income, but were the proceeds from the sale of property and subject to the $731 tax. Thereupon the plot began to thicken.

True to his background, Mr. Oppenheim opened the mystery by bringing out his ghost.

The late great Caruso, said Mr. Oppenheim, pointing at his ghost, was paid royalties on his phonograph records. The government judged these Caruso royalties earned income and not taxable. There was the mystery. Why should the Oppenheim royalties be taxed?

Clew Trips Him Up.

But here Mr. Oppenheim's one misplaced clew arose to trip him. The tax board grabbed it and used it to dispel the mystery. The board pointed out that Caruso had no property rights in the records and that his royalties were solely in payment of his personal services. Mr. Oppenheim, however, owned the copyright on all his novels. He merely sold Little, Brown & Co. the right to publish them in the United States and Canada. Therefore Mr. Oppenheim's royalties were payment for the sale of property rights. Poof! went the mystery and Mr. Oppenheim must hand over $731.

ART ON YACHT A GIFT, REPLIES OWNER TO SUIT

Commander Eugene F. McDonald, sportsman and president of the Zenith Radio corporation, filed answer yesterday in Superior court denying that he owes $2,800 to McClelland Barclay, New York artist, for art commissions which Barclay recently brought suit here to collect.

In his answer Commander McDonald asserts that the sketches made by Barclay were done for pastime while the artist was a guest on McDonald's yacht, the Mizpah, and were unsolicited. In fact, the answer states, McDonald unwillingly accepted one of the sketches "to keep from hurting Barclay's feelings."

The answer further alleges that on the other hand Barclay owes Mr. McDonald $1,650 for services performed by the sportsman and for commissions which Barclay failed to complete.

Commander McDonald said laughingly last night that future guests on board his yacht would be required to sign releases so that "if while on board they draw any pictures, make any photographs, play the piano, the piccolo, the accordion, or the bass viol, sing or dance, they will not later send me bills for the entertainment."

MR. O'DAY GETS A LIFT, BUT CAN'T THUMB STRAIGHT

John O'Day, Esq., 34 years old, 2168 Wilson avenue, stood for more than an hour yesterday at Dempster street and Ridge avenue, Evanston. Hundreds of automobiles passed by, but no kind motorist seemed to pay any attention to the industriously upraised thumb which Mr. O'Day was jerking from south to north.

At last came a car whose driver recognized the signal. He slowed down and another man in the car invitingly opened a door.

"My goodness," said Mr. O'Day, "they ought to educate the people hereabouts so they will know the ride signal when I give it."

His hosts said nothing. A little later they turned east and halted at the Evanston police station. Only when they told him to get out did Mr. O'Day realize that in Evanston only the police recognize the sign of the road. He was formally charged with soliciting a ride in violation of the city ordinances.

Cryptic Ruling Hides Fate of Little Gloria

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—When Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney completed their cases today in the Supreme court, Justice John F. Carew announced from the bench the principle on which he would decide tomorrow on their struggle for the custody of Mrs. Vanderbilt's 10 year old daughter.

"Mr. Justice Carew decided," he said, carefully dictating to the court stenographer, "that the child, Gloria Vanderbilt, is not to have, for the future, the life that it had from the death of its father up till June, 1932."

Neither to the contending attorneys nor to the press would he clarify this cryptic judgment. He told the attorneys to meet him tomorrow at 2 p. m. to submit for his consideration the Vanderbilt and the Whitney versions of a court order adjusted to this principle. He told the reporters he never wanted to meet them again.

What It Means.

"But what does it mean?" the reporters asked Justice Carew as he handed them typed transcripts of his judgment.

"Every word means exactly what it says and nothing else," said Justice Carew, reaching for the black felt hat which he wears in memory of his nineteen years as Democratic member of congress from New York.

"But it doesn't seem to mean very much," his questioners continued.

"It was designed," said the justice with evident irritation, "to keep you from finding out what it meant."

"Was it designed also to keep the lawyers from finding out?" he was asked as he walked toward the door.

Justice Carew stopped and glared as he formulated a withering answer: "It was designed for what it was designed for."

So far as could be observed, his displeasure arose from the confusion that attended his judgment in this case, which he has compared to the famous judicial problem which confronted Solomon when two mothers claimed the same child in Biblical times.

Principals Uncertain.

The judgment was sufficiently ambiguous to cause Mrs. Whitney and her attorney, Herbert C. Smyth, to break into jubilant smiles at first and to cause Mrs. Vanderbilt's twin sister, Lady Furness, who represented her in her absence, to wipe away the tears that rushed from her eyes. Yet, on second thought, Mrs. Whitney said apprehensively that nothing was certain until next day. Mrs. Vanderbilt's attorney, Nathan Burkan, rushed to Mrs. Vanderbilt's home, where she had collapsed after leaving the witness stand. His purpose was to draw up a program for the child's life in the belief that Justice Carew meant she was to have the child if she paid more attention to her than she did between 1925 and 1932. In the latter year she let the child Gloria go to Mrs. Whitney's home at Old Westbury, L. I., to convalesce after a tonsil operation.

See "Victory" for Widow.

In the light of the justice's own declaration that his judgment was to be construed strictly, those who have followed the case were convinced that

DEFENSE OPENS LAST BIG PUSH IN FRAUD TRIAL

Ex-Magnate's Son Speaks for All.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Samuel Insull Jr., 34 years old, went on the witness stand in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court late yesterday afternoon to defend himself from the government's accusation that in 1929 he entered into a scheme to defraud the public in the sale of Corporation Securities company stock.

He defends not only himself but his white-haired father, who leans forward, trembling with interest, as the narrative begins. He defends also the 15 other defendants who have sat in the courtroom for nearly seven weeks as the government has sought to establish a conspiracy on their part to swindle the people.

The Job of Young Insull.

This is one of the last big scenes of the financial drama in which the stock market mentality of 1929 has been brought to judgment. This is not only Samuel Insull's son who is talking, but an expert utilities engineer and business man.

His job is to convince the jury on behalf of all this group of defendants that their judgment of five years ago, in an age of stock market hysteria, although it now has been proved ruinous, had a sound basis at the time, or they thought it had.

The question of good or bad intent is the intangible atmosphere of the case, built on circumstances and to be decided by just such evidence as this.

Trial Approaches Its Finish.

When the younger Insull leaves the stand, after the prosecution has raked his testimony over their coals, the trial will approach its final curtain. The end of this week will find the defense resting, Attorney Floyd E. Thompson said last night. Next week will come the summations before the jury and the verdict.

Mr. Thompson was forced to call the younger Insull to the stand before he was quite ready. This was because of his failure to get in certain preliminary testimony from Byron T. Gifford, consulting engineer and utilities expert, as to valuations that could have been placed by an outside expert on the common stock of Insull operating companies in 1929, 1930, and 1931, the years with which this trial is concerned. Judge Wilkerson would not permit this opinion at the time.

Charles B. Stuart Testifies.

Charles B. Stuart, manager of the New York branch of Halsey, Stuart & Co. and brother of Harold L. Stuart, head of the bond house, was on the stand the greater part of the day. He and young Insull are the tenth and eleventh defendants to testify.

Stuart was called upon by his attorney, Harry Ditchburne, to explain the "blue sky" letter introduced by the government early in the trial. He explained it line by line, giving an opposite interpretation to that given by the prosecution. His intention, he said, in seeking a way to launch Corporation Securities without disclosing assets to the public was to keep the market from running wild.

His own investments in the Insull holding company were heavy, it was developed. He figured his loss in these securities at $140,000. He sold all this stock, however, before the final crash. His income from Halsey-Stuart in 1929 was $176,000 and in 1930 it was $139,000.

Gifford Testimony Blocked.

Expert Gifford, who has bought and sold some thirty or forty utility properties, not connected with the Insull group, was prepared to testify as to the value of Commonwealth Edison common shares, on the basis of reports in Moody's Annual, when Special Prosecutor Leslie E. Salter stepped in with an objection which postponed this until today at least. The point was that there was no person to be cross-examined on the company figures.

Mr. Thompson said he might have to call in the controler of the Commonwealth Edison and other companies, but in the meantime he would call the younger Insull to the stand.

"What we want to show," said Mr. Thompson during this argument, "is the real value of these properties, regardless of the stock market. The market put them up too high at one time and too low at another. They have a real and stable value, and this was the basis of Mr. Insull's judgment in 1929."

Like his father, the younger Insull was uneasy in the witness seat before the court and jury. He twisted and turned a good deal. He seemed to be letting out the tense, pent-up energy of weeks, like a current that is long dammed up and finally released. His words came swiftly but clearly and he frequently referred to a typewritten memorandum.

He is youthful looking, with smooth thick black hair, a little thin on the temples, glasses with keen and often smiling eyes behind them. He wore a plain gray suit with a band of black around one arm. His wife, he told the jury when asked about his family, died last February. He has a son three and a half years old.

He gave a brief outline of his youth. In 1917 he enlisted in the National Guard and was commissioned first lieutenant. In 1918, when he became of draft age, he enlisted in the regular army artillery school at Yale university. The armistice was signed while he was still at school. He continued with his engineering work at school and was graduated in 1921 as a bachelor of the science of mechanical engineering. He is now a lieutenant colonel in the engineering corps of the Illinois National Guard.

Studies Utilities in Europe.

"I was supposed to take post-graduate work in engineering," he continued his narrative, "but I couldn't get any further with books, and so I was sent to England and western Europe to study public utilities until the fall of 1922."

Q. [by Mr. Thompson].—What general information did you find there? A.—I found in Italy the development of a new type of underground cable for carrying high voltage lines into cities. I wrote my father, and engineers checked it for the Insull companies in Chicago and New York. They got a license to build cables of that type. There is one now on the north side of Chicago for carrying 132,000 volts.

Q.—Did you find anything else? A.—I found a new type of transformer apparatus in use in connection with traction lines, the mercury arc-rectifier. We couldn't get them in this country. We imported two from Switzerland and put them up in the Illinois Central electrification work. American machine manufacturers then started making them. The line between Chicago and South Bend is now so equipped.

Finds New Coal Mine Machine.

Q.—Anything else? A.—In England they were using a comprehensive machine for electrifying coal mines. These are now being built in America at a saving in safety and cost.

Q.—What did you do on your return? A.—I started my practical experience as assistant in the business department of Middle West Utilities company. I worked also at bookkeeping. I was then sent to Europe with a committee from the company to study engineering development there. In May, 1923, I was called back by my father to take a new job, that of unifying the utilities properties of northern Indiana.

"What was your experience there?" Attorney Thompson asked.

"There were three kinds of properties there, gas, electric and gas-electric, owned by Chicago and Philadelphia interests," Insull replied. "The Chicago company was long on supply and short on distribution and market. The Philadelphia company was long on market and short on supply. The job was that of interconnecting these.

Midland Utilities Formed.

"A holding company was formed for the purpose of better organization. This became the Midland Utilities company, with father as president. The resident operatives were left but it was all redistricted. I was the contact man between father and the local people and the engineers, with title of assistant to the president.

INSULL WITNESS

"I supervised the building of a trunk transmission line. In 1925 I was made vice president in charge of operation and started to build an engineering office. In 1926 I was made president of Midland, with father as chairman of the board.

"We developed gas in northern Indiana, cheap gas, with 275 lines of transmission. We reduced electrical plants from five to one, reduced wholesale rates in 35 communities, put wholesale rates into new rural communities, and made six domestic reductions."

Stocks Put in Portfolios.

Q.—The Midland United and Midland Utilities stocks were in the portfolios of Insull Utility Investments, Inc. and of Corporation Securities? A.—Yes.

Q.—And wasn't it your knowledge of these companies that helped form your judgment of the holding corporations? A.—Yes. It was my judgment of these companies that made me unduly optimistic. I had seen them rise from nothing but an idea and a plan to a group of large plants that were exceedingly prosperous. I guess I made mistakes, like everybody else did.

"Now tell us your Chicago problems," Mr. Thompson prompted.

"One of the chief problems in Chicago is the amount of water needed," Insull went on. "I might say that the city of Pittsburgh pumps the Ohio river through its power plants. It is pretty hard here in Chicago to get sufficient water for power purposes. We pump more than they do for domestic use. All the good power sites are preëmpted by park or residence restrictions.

Develop Central Power Plant.

"The Chicago company owned a waterfront site just across the Indiana state line. We decided to develop this site for a central power plant. It was to be a good deal like a union railroad station. Water for many plants was to be pumped here.

"Bonds were sold to the public and the common stock was held by the companies, the Commonwealth Edison company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. They took the electric output of the station at cost. In May, 1925, we started the design and construction of this plant. In October, 1929, we started to run it.

"Father was president and I was vice president. I supervised the construction and used to go down there even on week-ends. The plant is 270,000 horse power, I think the largest station in the world. Its power is as big as that of 65 engines of the type that pull the Twentieth Century."

Field of Activity Widened.

"What did you do next?" Mr. Thompson asked.

"Father urged me to take a more active part in the companies outside of Indiana. I opposed it at first because I thought it would take me out of the operating field. Father pointed out that I would not be responsible for financial policies, but that it would be my job to know the relationships between the companies, the people involved, the bankers, etc.

"So I became vice chairman of the two operating companies and of the Middle West Utilities company. Each company had a very complete and reasonably efficient staf. The properties were interconnected physically and had been for years.

"They had a great many joint problems that affected the pool costs. These had been handled through the president's conference, through subcommittees, but with no staf. Prior to 1930 father had done all the work and it was getting to be a burden.

He Becomes a Liaison Man.

"My job was with the machinery of joint problems, joint treatment, keeping it all running smoothly, with changes in methods and management. This has been my work ever since and is today."

"What was your work with Middle West Utilities?"

"The subsidiary companies were in charge of men of experience and judgment who were given a good deal of authority. My job was to know the executive personnel and as changes became necessary I advised on the promotion of younger men or changes in organization. I went with the executives on inspection trips, trying to size up the property, the man, and the way the man ran the property."

TESTIMONY OF STUART

The cross-examination of Charles B. Stuart by Prosecutor Salter provided one of the interesting parts of the day's session. The chief issue in Stuart's case is the "blue sky" letter which he wrote from New York to Frank K. Shrader, another of the defendants, on Aug. 21, 1929, shortly before the Corporation Securities company was organized.

In the letter Stuart asked whether Corporation Securities stock units could be listed on an exchange for sales without disclosing the contents of the company's portfolio. He stated that he was willing to forgo the qualifying of the stocks under the various states' blue sky laws unless this publicity could be avoided.

The government contends that this concealment of the portfolio was to prevent the public from learning that the assets of the company consisted of 304,000 shares of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., at the time of Corporation Securities formation in October, 1929.

Circulars issued by Corporation Securities stated that 90 per cent of its assets were in stocks of the Insull operating companies and this was a misrepresentation to the public, the government alleges.

Q. [by Mr. Salter]—You had no intention to violate the blue sky laws? A. [by Mr. Stuart]—No.

Q.—You just wanted to stay out of those states that would force you to qualify under their blue sky laws? A.—I was willing to limit our sales territory.

Q.—You have stated on direct examination that it would have defeated the purpose of the formation of Corporation Securities if its portfolio contents were known. Just why would the purpose be defeated if the public learned the holdings? A.—It was not a question of withholding the information from the public. In 1929 the market was booming, and if traders learned just what our asset stocks were they would buy these stocks on the market and raise the price, causing us to pay more to fill the portfolio.

Q.—Wasn't it generally known that Corporation Securities was to be an investment company for Insull stocks? A.—I don't think it was known when I wrote the letter.

Denies Prosecutor's Charge.

Q.—Wasn't your real reason for concealing the portfolio not to let it be known that the new company only had Utility Investments and later Middle West Utilities common stocks? A.—Certainly not.

Q.—You were afraid there would be a speculative fever in Insull stocks that would raise the price to you in filling the portfolio. Why didn't you stop this speculation by telling the contents? A.—I didn't know what was in the portfolio when the company was formed. The policy was going to be to acquire operating stocks from time to time at favorable prices for permanent investment. This was to be a continuing organization.

Stuart, who was a vice president and director of Corporation Securities during its entire career, said he was in New York most of the time but approved the actions of the company's executive committee.

Shows Stuart's Stock Deals.

Salter went on to show Stuart's personal stock dealings.

When Corporation Securities was formed Stuart contributed 5,750 shares of Utility Investments common stock, valuing them at $100 a share, the then market price. For this investment of $575,000 [the original cost to him had been $67,526] he received 7,667 units of the new company's stock, each unit consisting of one share of common and one of preferred, and offered to the public at $75 a share. On Nov. 1, 1930, he bought 3,000 more units, paying $225,000.

"Didn't you sell out all your Corporation Securities common stock holdings in 1930, 1931, and 1932?" Salter asked.

"I did," the witness answered, "but I don't remember just at what times in those years. I still have 700 shares of the preferred stocks."

The prosecutor showed that 2,100 of the units were sold in 1931, according to Stuart's income tax return, and that in 1932 he received $16,688 from the sale of more of the units.

The government contends that at the time Stuart was selling his stock it was worthless but was being offered to the public as a sound investment. When Salter attempted to bring this out from Stuart the court sustained objections by Defense Attorney Ditchburne.

The Direct Examination.

Stuart began his direct testimony in the morning with a recital of his career. He is 43 years old, ten years younger than his brother. He was educated in Chicago schools and at the University of Michigan, where he was graduated in 1915. During the war he was a captain in the field artillery and saw service in France, returning to go to work for Halsey-Stuart in 1919. He went to New York in 1921.

The "blue sky" letter was then brought up by Attorney Ditchburne, who examined Stuart.

"Was there ever any question of the ability of Corporation Securities to qualify its stock under the blue sky laws on any recognized exchange?" Mr. Ditchburne asked.

"No question whatever," was Stuart's reply.

Dr. Madden Again on Stand.

An earlier witness was Dr. John T. Madden, dean of the school of commerce, accounts, and finance of New York university, who began his testimony on Tuesday. He was asked a series of hypothetical questions by Attorney Thompson to show that Corporation Securities had a legitimate purpose in maintaining market support for its stock issues. The government contends that the supporting methods were illegal, involving "rigging" and "wash" sales to give the pretense of trading activity and urge the public to buy.

Dr. Madden said that the government had supported the market for its war Liberty loans and followed the practice in its other securities.

This year, he said, the federal reserve bank and its member banks held more than 11 billion dollars' worth of government securities, an increase of 6 billion since 1930.

"Wash sales and market rigging are indefensible," Dr. Madden said, "and are usually easy to detect." In response to the hypothetical queries, based on the defense's picture of the operations in Corporation Securities, he said the market support had been legitimate.

A Question from Prosecutor.

On cross-examination Prosecutor Salter asked Dr. Madden whether it was proper for the company to reacquire the stock at more than its asset value.

"That is a matter of business judgment," Dr. Madden answered, "for price and value are two different things. I know of no yardstick for value."

Criminal Court Sets Date for Trial of Martin Insull

In accordance with arrangements announced on Tuesday the trial of Martin J. Insull, charged with embezzling $344,000 from the Middle West Utilities company while he was its president, was formally set for Nov. 26 by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court yesterday.

LABATT ACCUSES U.S. GANGSTER AS KIDNAP LEADER

Rich Brewer Tells Story in Canadian Court.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 14.—John S. Labatt, millionaire London brewer, whose kidnaping for $150,000 ransom last August awakened international curiosity concerning what Canada will do to end the kidnaping menace, pointed an accusing finger in court today at David Meisner, Cincinnati gangster, and named him as the leader of the band.

On the evidence of Labatt alone, Meisner was committed for trial by Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw in the county police court and held without bail to await trial. No date was set for the trial.

Brewer Tells His Story.

Labatt testified that from the Tuesday morning when he was taken until Wednesday, when Meisner shaved him in the hideout in the Muskoka Lakes region, he was able to see because the court plaster which had been placed over his left eye became loose. He swore positively that Meisner led the three men who waylaid him and dictated the note he sent to his brother, Hugh, telling Hugh to "do as these men say and do not tell the police."

Meisner told him at the cottage on the second night that it was a good sign when the others had not returned, presumably from Toronto. It meant, said Meisner, they had made a contact. An hour later two men came, near midnight, saying the papers were full of it, the roads were blocked by police, wires to the Royal York hotel in Toronto where Hugh was directed to wait had been tapped by police, detectives and newspapermen had the place in seige.

Tells of Death Threat.

"We ought to do away with this man now," said one of the strangers in Labatt's hearing.

Labatt said a man named Pigram, also said to be an American gangster, was the driver of the kidnap car. He said he had identified Pigram from photographs.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED.

A verdict of suicide while despondent due to unemployment was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest into the death of Harold Colby, 28 years old, 4408 Monroe street, who shot himself before a mirror in his home Monday.

HOLD SALOONIST IN $2,000 ROBBERY OF DEAD WOMAN

John Glista, owner of a tavern at 4301 South Lincoln street, was charged last night with the theft of nearly $2,000 from Mrs. Anna Watenista, 45 years old, 4501 South Laflin street, who was found dead in his living quarters back of the tavern Tuesday. An inquest into her death was continued yesterday until Nov. 23, after Deputy Coroner Chris J. McGarigle ordered an analysis made to determine the cause of death.

The victim's son, John, signed the complaint against Glista. He said his mother had between $1,200 and $2,000 when she left home Tuesday night. When the police reached the tavern, summoned by Dr. Walter Kutas, 5040 Archer avenue, her purse was empty. Police found $1,670 in Glista's pockets. He told them Mrs. Watenista complained of feeling ill, and lay down on his couch.

Rumanian Police Dragnet Nets 5,000 Terror Suspects

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, Nov. 14.—Public trafic was suddenly stopped at noon today throughout Rumania. Police, gendarmes, and detectives established cordons in Bucharest and other cities and every one within the cardons was called upon to produce identification papers. More than 5,000 persons were reported detained because they failed satisfactorily to prove their identity. The cause of this wholesale raid was said to be a confidential report to police indicating that international terrorists were assembling in Bucharest for the opening of the Rumanian parliament tomorrow.

HUNT SLAYERS WHO KIDNAPED CHILD HEIRESS

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Search for the kidnap-murderers of 6 year old Dorothy Ann Distelhurst was spurred throughout Tennessee tonight following the identification, earlier in the day, of a body taken from a shallow grave on the outskirts of Nashville as that of the abducted child.

Attorney General J. Carlton Loser expressed the opinion that the perpetrators of the crime, whether one or more, were residents of Nashville or environs. He based his conclusion on what he said was the abductors' apparent familiarity with the city and the ability to find an isolated burying ground.

A baby tooth led to the dissipation of the mystery surrounding the child's strange disappearance on Sept. 19 while she was en route home from kindergarten. A physician and a dentist positively identified her by a small filling in the second upper molar.

Father Returns Home.

The body was found yesterday while the child's father, Alfred E. Distelhurst, was in New York trying to contact persons who had demanded $5,000 ransom for the return of his daughter. He returned home by plane tonight when apprised of the tragic ending of his two months' search.

Two Negro workmen discovered the nude little form in a shallow grave on the grounds of the Davidson County Tuberculosis hospital, in a desolate spot outside the Nashville city limits. It had apparently been there for about three weeks, making identification difficult.

The distraut mother was told of the discovery, but it was decided not to tell her of its identification as that of her chestnut haired girl. However, she surmised the truth and broke down.

Knows It's Her Baby.

"I know it's Dorothy Ann; who else can it be?" she sobbed.

Members of the family had kept newspapers and visitors from the Distelhursts' modern suburban home throughout last night lest she learn of the developments in the case.

The father had paced the floor of his hotel all last night after being told of the finding of the body, leaving this morning or a regular air lines ship.

He did not learn of the positive identification until reaching Cleveland at noon. Apparently on the verge of collapse, he refused replies to all questions except one concerning a motive for the crime. He said he knew of no other motive in the case except the abductors' desire for money.

Skull Crushed by Hammer.

In announcing the identification, Attorney General Loser revealed that the child's skull had been crushed on the left side by a hammer or other blunt instrument, and that she had been gagged with a rag, possibly to prevent an outcry.

Immediately upon its discovery, officials said the body resembled Dorothy Ann, but friends of the missing child had expressed doubt in the matter. The truth became known when Dr. Herman Spitz, pathologist and acting coroner's physician, and Dr. Leonard F. Pogue, children's dentist and orthodontist, made the identification certain.

Dr. Pogue had filled one of Dorothy Ann's teeth shortly before she disappeared. He said he recognized the filling in a tooth of the victim as his work.

Attorney General Loser linked his state investigation with the work of the United States department of justice operatives in an intensive search for the slayer and a motive.

LE HAVRE, France, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The 23,769 ton liner France, from whose decks thousands of American doughboys got their first view of France, has been sold for scrap iron.

The once luxurious ship will be towed to Dunkerque to be broken up. Most of the furniture in its first class rooms was transferred to the Maison de France in New York. Built in 1912, it was owned by the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique.

Two British Ships Junked.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Two trans-Atlantic liners well known to American travelers, the Minnetonka and the Minnewaska, have been sold for junk. This was announced today. The vessels are 10 and 11 years old, respectively. They had been laid up at Antwerp for nearly a year before their sale by the International Mercantile Marine. Both vessels were put into service by a British transport line. The Minnetonka is of 21,998 tons and the Minnewaska of 21,716 tons.

WARREN WRIGHT ARRAIGNED ON CHECK CHARGE

Warren E. Wright, who as the Republican nominee for congress in the 20th district was defeated on Nov. 6, was arraigned in the South State street court yesterday on a charge of passing a worthless check to the Morrison hotel. Mr. Wright was arrested by Chicago police Tuesday night.

In court he explained that he had given the check, for $180, to the hotel in good faith, and that only the closing of the bank on which it was drawn prevented prompt payment. He added that he had made good a portion of the amount and intended to settle the rest. At his request Judge Robert J. Dunne granted a continuance to Nov. 30. Mr. Wright's bond was fixed at $100, which he furnished in cash.

WIFE DIVORCES MARSHALL FIELD; FLIES TO EAST

Quick Court Action for British Beauty.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—In little more than an hour after her suit was filed today, Mrs. Audrey Coats Field, noted English beauty and friend of the royal British family, was granted a Reno divorce from Marshall Field III., and she had left for the east on a transport plane.

She charged the millionaire grandson of the late Chicago merchant with extreme mental cruelty, details of which were not disclosed. A private hearing was held before District Judge Thomas F. Moran. Field did not contest the case, although he was represented by counsel.

Agree on Property.

All property rights were settled by agreement, as was the case when Field's first wife, Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field, divorced him here in 1930. The first Mrs. Field was understood to have received a trust fund which assured her an income of $1,000,000 a year.

Terms of the settlement in today's divorce were not disclosed. Judge Moran approved the agreement which was defined by the decree as furnishing "a reasonable and proper basis or plan of provisions of alimony."

Mrs. Field wore a black suit, with black hat to match, and a bright green blouse. She was wearing a corsage bouquet when she left the trial with her red ribboned divorce decree.

King Her Godfather.

Before her marriage to Marshall Field in London on Aug. 19, 1930, two weeks after Field had been divorced by his first wife, she was Mrs. Dudley Coats, widow of the son of Sir Stewart Coats of the Coats thread fortune. She was a friend of the prince of Wales and King Edward VII. was her godfather.

ISSUE FIRST LIST OF COUNTY'S 1933 TAX RATES TODAY

The first announcement of 1933 tax rates in Cook county will be made today, J. C. Butler, chief rate clerk for the county clerk, said last night. Only a fraction of the 420 tax spending units in the county will be covered in today's announcement.

Publication of the rates will make it possible for the county treasurer's office to begin the task of computing and mailing out the 1933 tax bills. George C. Hagenauer, chief auditor for the treasurer, said that every effort would be made to have the bills in the mail by Dec. 1, so that taxpayers would receive their bills thirty days before the penalty date of Jan. 1, 1935.

The tax rates for Chicagoans are expected to show sizeable reductions as a result of the action of the major taxing bodies in trimming 30 million dollars in doubtful levies from their budgets.

RICH MAN'S WILL ASSAILS BRITAIN FOR HIGH TAXES

Calls Policy of Nation "Penal and Insane."

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Bitter reference to the "penal and insane taxation" of Great Britain is contained in the will, published today, of Samuel Samuel, member of parliament and junior partner of M. Samuel & Co., bankers and merchants.

Samuel, who died on Oct. 23, left an estate of $7,584,510 and the estate duty of more than $3,000,000 has already been paid to the exchequer.

Leaves No Legacies.

Samuel explained that he left no legacies to his nephews, nieces or charitable institutions, as he had made provisions for the former and gifts to the latter during his lifetime, in view of the "penal heights reached in the imposition of surtax and estate duty—the taking by the former of three-fifths of my income and by the latter of one-half of my estate at death."

The will said it required only half of the amount to make a provision for his nephews, nieces and gifts to charity during his lifetime that it would take to do so out of the estate after his death.

Predicts Ruin for Nation.

"The result of the imposition of such penal taxation, which forces me to this action, is to deprive the state of large sums during my lifetime and after death," the will added.

"The ultimate result of the present insane taxation must be to bring ruin to the nation and great suffering to the working classes."

FORCED INTO TNT BY THREATS, SAYS RACKET WITNESS

Defense Batters in Vain at Testimony.

The first direct evidence of a truck owner being forced into the Trucking and Transport exchange [the TNT] under what he considered direct threats was produced by the prosecution yesterday before a jury in Judge William V. Brothers' court, where 15 business men and labor union officials are on trial charged with racketeering conspiracy.

The witness was Joseph Biety, 1128 East 44th street, vice president of the Ready Coal and Construction company. Defense lawyers battered at his testimony on cross-examination, but the more he was questioned the more emphatic he became in his charges.

Promise to Involve Others.

Although Biety's testimony only directly involved Charles J. Wilson, secretary and treasurer of the TNT, the prosecution promised to connect it up later with the other defendants.

The witness said that on May 19, 1930, Al Weber, business agent for the coal teamsters' local, appeared at the yard of his company and for no reason ordered the men off the job. The men returned to work the next day, he said, under the same working conditions.

This testimony connects with previous evidence given by Michael Ready, president of the company, who testified that at the time he appealed to John M. Bransfield, prominent paving contractor and one of the defendants, to help settle the strike. Bransfield, he said, promised help if Ready would join the Associated Contractors' association, one of the alleged TNT affiliates.

Tells of Phone "Invitation."

Biety told of Wilson telephoning him about joining the TNT. He said he demurred, asking for time to think the matter over, but that Wilson insisted he come to the Bismarck hotel.

"When I met Wilson he asked if I brought along the check," testified the coal merchant. "I told him I wanted to think the matter over and he told me there was nothing to think about. He said the big companies were coming in and I would be sorry if I didn't join. He said that if we joined we would save 50 cents a day on our chauffeurs' wages."

Forced to Register Trucks.

Biety said he registered eight trucks and paid $10 per truck as registration fee. Later he said Wilson called him again and demanded to know why the other trucks of the company were not registered.

"Wilson said if we didn't register all the trucks we wouldn't get work," continued the witness, who said he then registered twelve more trucks at the same $10 fee. Thereafter he paid $1 per month dues for each truck.

Q.—Why did you join the TNT? A.—In order to continue to hire labor.

Judge Brothers at this point asked the witness two questions:

Q.—After you joined did you get the employés you wanted. A.—Yes.

Q.—So the purpose for which you joined was satisfied, is that correct? A.—I might say we got what we were offered.

Defense Battles Story.

Defense Attorney Michael Ahearn undertook to shake the testimony of the witness by cross-examination. He got Biety to admit that his company joined various associations, including the Independent Contractors association of which John P. Moriarty, cousin of prosecutor Courtney is a member. He also got him to admit that his firm belonged to the Coal Merchants' association and paid dues at a tonnage rate, which was more than the cost of the TNT.

Q.—Now isn't it a fact that the men walked off the job because of a pay dispute? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know of any other reason than that? A.—Yes. They were told to get off the job without any reason.

Pay Retroactive Raise.

The witness admitted that his company paid a retroactive wage increase of 50 cents per day to the teamsters after the walk out, but persisted that was not the reason for the strike.

Biety admitted he is a member of the code authority of the NRA. Attorney Ahern tried to get him to admit that the government project is for the purpose of making a uniform wage, regulate prices and stop unfair competition.

This is not the fact, said Biety, but is to set a minimum price of wages on this material.

Q.—Now getting back to Wilson's statement that you would be sorry if you did not join, did you consider that a threat? A.—I did.

Q.—Did he add anything to that statement? A.—No, but you can say please in three or four different ways.

Q.—Then because of an inflection of his voice you interpreted that as a threat? A.—I did.

Divorce Judges Decry Long 'Separate Maintenance' Evil

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

With "alimony row" in the county jail showing its usual late fall pickup in population, as the divorce calendar progresses and men continue to be committed for nonpayment of alimony, "temporary alimony," and separate maintenance, judges hearing divorce cases in Cook county were interviewed yesterday on the complicated question of administering the divorce laws.

Judge Rudolph F. Desort of the Superior court said he thought the divorce laws should be changed on separate maintenance. Under the present laws unscrupulous or vindictive women can obtain a decree of separate maintenance and continue to draw alimony from a man for years without allowing him his freedom and the right to marry again and establish another home.

Thirty Years Under the Yoke.

"After a period of years in which they have the opportunity to reflect on their situation, it should become statutory that either party can come into court and obtain a divorce," said Judge Desort. "It is a social problem. Under the present laws, men may be found who have paid alimony to wives for thirty years without being able to marry again."

Concerning alimony in general, Judge Desort takes the attitude that if there are no children born of a marriage and the woman is young enough and able to work, she should not be allowed permanent support, but should be given alimony over a period of weeks or months until she can obtain work.

Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti, who is having his first experience in a divorce court this term, has granted 412 decrees since Sept. 16. Judge Allegretti declared he regarded separate maintenance as a period of probation "in which a man supports his wife, suffers because he has done wrong, and keeps to the straight and narrow path."

Family Should Be Preserved.

"The separate maintenance period shouldn't be too long-drawn-out, however," he said. "There should be a definite end to it.

"A wife ought either to take an erring husband back or to divorce him. It is the province of the court to keep the family together. It is to the interest of the state to keep the stream of family life pure and unpolluted. The solidarity of the family is the state's biggest asset."

Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan declared that there were no set rules applicable to divorce actions, that they were social problems, each case distinct and calling for careful consideration of its various human elements.

If a husband refuses to pay alimony, and an examination shows him able to do so, the law requires that a judge send him to jail, he pointed out.

SCHOOL ENGINEER AGREES TO PAY BACK ALIMONY

Frank J. McAdams, chief engineer of the Englewood High school, who was 53 years old yesterday, avoided a jail sentence for contempt in the court of Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort when he agreed to pay $1,500 in alimony to his wife, Mrs. Eva Sullivan McAdams, 2860 East 76th street.

Judge Desort had indicated the previous day that he would be returned to the county jail, where he served six weeks last spring, unless he made a settlement with his wife, who was awarded a separate maintenance decree on March 31, 1933, by Superior Judges James J. Kelly.

Mrs. McAdams agreed to accept the $1,500 as wiping out his total arrearage in alimony, amounting to more than $2,800. The amount agreed upon is part of the engineer's salary accrued at the board of education and tied up by an injunction she obtained.

Judge Desort entered an order reducing the current alimony McAdams must pay his wife to one-third of his income, which he said was $4,400 annually. He had been ordered to pay $200 monthly by Judge Kelly.

Opens Up Restaurant and Is Robbed First Day

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—George Kistler, 60, purchased a local restaurant Tuesday and when he opened for business today his first customer was a bandit who took $24 from the new owner.

A. G. VANDERBILT'S FORMER WIFE WINS DIVORCE FROM AMORY

West Palm Beach, Fla., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Emerson Amory, the former Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, was granted a final decree of divorce in Circuit court here today from Charles Minot Amory, wealthy member of New York society.

Mrs. Amory, one of the richest women in America, is the mother of young Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and George Vanderbilt, who eventually will control the major part of the Cornelius Vanderbilt inheritance of the old "Commodore's" millions.

The divorce was granted on grounds of habitual intemperance, according to the court papers.

Although entitled to a resumption of the Vanderbilt name, Mrs. Amory declined and was permitted to resume her maiden name, Margaret Emerson. Through her father, the late Isaac Emerson of Baltimore, who amassed a fortune of many millions, Mrs. Amory inherited a great sum. Vanderbilt, one of the victims of the Lusitania, left her another fortune.

Mrs. Amory was first married to Dr. Smith Hollins McKim. Amory formerly was married to Gladys M. Munn, now the wife of Herbert Pulitzer.

WOMAN REALTY DEALER SUED BY SIX FOR $40,000

Suit for an accounting and to recover $40,000 obtained allegedly through misrepresentation in a real estate deal was filed yesterday in Circuit court against Julia M. Barker of Detroit, head of the Barker Realty Shares, Inc., which has offices at 173 West Madison street. The suit was filed in behalf of six employés of the Illinois Bell Telephone company who in 1927 bought shares in a syndicate of 305 acres of land south of the Arlington Heights race track and which was to be used for subdivision purposes. Miss Barker, who was served with notice of the suit while visiting in a loop hotel, explained that the transaction had failed as a result of the depression.

BLAST KILLS TWO MEN.

Morristown, Pa., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Two men were killed and a third was seriously injured today in an explosion which wrecked and set fire to the warehouse of the Valley Forge Chemical and Manufacturing company at King of Prussia, six miles south of Morristown.

POLICE HUNT 3 IN DEATH PLUNGE OF CLUB HOSTESS

Police Blame Tragedy on Girl's Jealousy.

didn't care for her and the woman was crying: "I don't care a whoop about you. I can stay here and I'll do it, too."

A name was suggested for the woman with "Jones." But when she was interviewed in another night club, where she is a hostess, this girl asserted that she had not seen Miss Nolan for weeks. Last night a relative of the missing Pass notified the police that Pass would appear at the inquest today and tell what he knows.

In Miss Nolan's room in the Goethe Shore apartments, 61 East Goethe street, were found a number of letters and a scrapbook. The letters threw light on her history. Some were from her foster-parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Huber of Joplin, Mo., and several of them contained pleas that the girl give up her life as an entertainer in the bright spots of Chicago and return to Joplin.

Came Here Nine Years Ago.

Before her adoption, when she was 11 years old, the girl resided in Coffeyville, Kas., and Monte Ne, Ark., where her father now lives. About nine years ago she came to Chicago with two of her sisters.

These sisters, Mrs. Marjorie Hill, 921 Eastwood avenue, and Miss Doris Mae Nolan of the Bernard hotel, 42d place and Drexel boulevard, went to an undertaking establishment at 200 East Erie street last night and identified the body.

They declared they had been on the best of terms with Louise and had visited her recently in her hotel room. They added they knew of no reason for her to end her life, nor did they know anything about her love affairs.

Find Letters from Men.

Some of the letters in the girl's room were from men. One, who signed himself George, related that he was a prisoner in Joliet penitentiary and suggested that she bring him some fruit and cigarets.

Her scrapbook also was revealing In it were pictures. Some were of women undraped. Others were of men There were many clippings from newspapers, pictures of well known actors and of the most notorious gangsters who have resided in Chicago in the last four or five years.

"Red" Barker in Scrapbook.

Under these were scribbled notes indicating that she knew them well George [Red] Barker, slain hoodlum and Murray Humphries, recently sent to the federal prison, were among them.

Significant, in view of the manner of her death, were newspaper stories on the tragic death, Feb. 5, 1933, of Miss Vera Hayburn. Miss Hayburn ended her life by leaping from the 33d floor of the Medinah club at the end of a prolonged party.

SHOOTING IS HELD MURDER.

Murder by persons unknown was the verdict of a coroner's jury at an inquest yesterday into the death of James Canzonere, 41 years old, tavern keeper. He was shot and killed on Oct. 26 at the rear of his home, 852 Fletcher street.

CRYPTIC VERDICT HIDES FATE OF VANDERBILT GIRL

Hearing Justice Veils His Decision.

he is prepared to give the child back to Mrs. Vanderbilt if provisions satisfactory to him can be worked out to make the child happy with her.

The principle which he announced from the bench as the essence of his judgment is regarded as eliminating Mrs. Whitney's charge that Mrs. Vanderbilt was morally unfit and reducing the decision to consideration required by the law for the preference already expressed to Justice Carew by the child herself, for the life she has led with Mrs. Whitney during the last two years.

It was regarded as significant that neither Mrs. Vanderbilt nor Mrs. Whitney nor their functions as mother and aunt is mentioned in the judgment, but only that the child is not to have the life she had before 1932. As she was then with her mother, this declaration by the justice is regarded simply as a summons to her mother to provide a different life for her.

Traveled a Great Deal.

According to uncontradicted evidence, after Mrs. Vanderbilt was left a widow by Reginald Vanderbilt in 1925, at the age of 20, she spent the years since then traveling from New York to London, to Paris, to the Riviera, to Switzerland, and back again, enjoying a round of parties with persons of her own age and tastes, while a nurse followed her with the child.

The nurse and Mrs. Vanderbilt's own mother have testified that they alone gave the child such maternal attention as she got in this travel period of her life until June, 1932, when her tonsils were removed. Thereafter she remained with Mrs. Whitney, while Mrs. Vanderbilt returned to her continental life, visiting the child occasionally at Old Westbury, but being persuaded by Mrs. Whitney that the child was better off there.

Attempts to Take Her.

The present habeas corpus action in the Supreme court arose when Mrs. Vanderbilt attempted to take her child back and petitioned the Surrogate's court at the same time for custody of the child's $2,800,000 estate. After two years with Mrs. Whitney, according to testimony, the child developed such a nervous upset at the prospect of being taken away that Mrs. Whitney decided, upon a doctor's advice, to hold onto her.

It is believed that the Vanderbilt side will submit tomorrow a program whereby Mrs. Vanderbilt will take a house on Long Island near Mrs. Whitney, so that the transfer may be effected gradually without taking the child out of the Greenvale school at Roslyn, or depriving her of her eight Whitney cousins.

Complete Official Vote Canvass by Tomorrow

The election board's canvass of votes cast in last week's election will be completed probably by tonight or tomorrow noon, Chief Clerk John S. Rusch said late yesterday. Fifty teams of three persons each have been busy for three days adding the tally sheets. Most interest centers in the legislative vote where several close races developed. These votes will be tallied today.

GERMANY OFFERS EUROPE PLAN TO END DEPRESSION

Would Barter Goods for Farm Surpluses.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GOSLAR, Germany, Nov. 14.—Nazi Germany today outlined a plan through which, it is claimed, it will be possible to restore prosperity to European farmers, and possibly to the world's farmers also.

The slogan for the plan is "farmers of Europe, unite," and it was best summed up in an appeal by Erich Winter, chief of the foreign relations department of Germany's national nutrition guild, giant organization combining farmers and all trades persons even remotely connected with the handling and production of food.

Outlines Nazi Claims.

"Farmers must become the front fighters for the revival of international trade," Winter said.

He told his listeners that German farmers have been given economic stability.

"We control our markets," he said. "We have eliminated price breaking international competition. We set prices at a level which enables farmers to live on a sound economic basis. Production in every district was regulated according to economic principles.

"The German farmer is not worrying about overproduction. On the contrary, Germany can import farm products and raw materials if farmers in neighboring countries come to an understanding with Germany. But if anti-German boycotts are continued and we remain short of foreign currency, Germany will seek absolute self-sufficiency."

Offers to Buy Surpluses.

Winter then addressed this statement to Germany's neighbors: "Bring your surplus to us, but only in quantities and shapes in which we can use it."

Regardless of the difference in currencies, he said, Germany will pay the same high prices to farmers of neighboring countries that it pays to its own farmers, but only for quotas allowed to enter Germany, and only if the neighbor agrees to buy German industrial products. The foreign farmer is expected to see that the surplus money he gets from Germany is invested in German goods.

The amounts of farm products to be imported into Germany and their prices are to be settled in negotiations between the farming chiefs of Germany and neighboring countries. Germany wants to pay "labor"—that is, to pay in industrial products—which calls for compensation agreements.

Pacts with Six Nations.

Germany has reached such agreements with Holland, Poland, Hungary, Jugo-Slavia, Latvia, and Denmark.

Winter would prefer plain barter agreements based on a stable ratio for the exchange of goods. He described Germany as the pivot of the whole international trade, since Germany alone used 7 per cent of the entire raw material production of the world. With its exports increased, he asserted, Germany's consumption of raw materials would also be increased and world trade would be restored.

HITLER PLEDGES LASTING PEACE WITH POLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—"The new relations between Germany and Poland are not only adapted to develop the interests of both countries, but also they are an important factor for assuring general peace," Chancellor Hitler today told Josef Lipski, who was presenting his credentials as ambassador of Poland, to which rank he was recently promoted.

Hitler stressed that the new relations had special importance in view of the present political situation in Europe. He said the "results hitherto achieved can only strengthen our determination to pursue this path to intensify our coöperation and to establish lasting friendly and neighborly relations between Germany and Poland on the basis of mutual respect and understanding."

Touching trade, Hitler assured Lipski that Germany is ready to do everything possible to overcome the difficulties arising from the economic crisis and to develop mutual exchange of wares.

GERMANS ACCUSE FRENCH OF PLOT TO SEIZE SAAR

Protest to League; Deny Illegal Activities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Territory, Nov. 14.—The German Front today accused the French separatist organization of scheming to pick a fight in the Saar so as to justify the calling in of foreign troops by Geoffrey Knox, league of nations commissioner for the territory.

The accusation was contained in a note sent the league of nations denying that the German organization has gone beyond the law in urging inhabitants of the Saar to vote for return of their land to Germany. A plebiscite will be held under the supervision of the league on Jan. 13 to determine whether the Saar is to revert to Germany, which owned the territory before the war, remain under the jurisdiction of the league, or be annexed to France.

In its memorial to the league the German Front asserted that it possesses documents to prove that France has sent arms into the Saar and that pro-French groups have been trained in the use of machine guns and inflammable liquids. This is for the purpose of executing a coup d'état late in November or early in December, the German note said.

The league of nations council will meet Nov. 21 to make final preparations for the holding of the plebiscite, which will be held in accordance with the terms of the Versailles treaty.

Trouble is anticipated over the fact that the treaty does not state specifically that a majority vote shall settle the issue for the territory as a whole. It is pointed out that the league council could, if it wished, merely take the vote as a general guide and allocate certain sections to France and others to Germany.

NANKING ORDERS REGISTRATION OF FOREIGN PRESS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

NANKING, Nov. 14.—The foreign office has sent new identic notes to all foreign legations requesting the foreign authorities to sanction the registration of all foreign press and newspaper concerns in China with the Chinese government.

The foreign owned and operated newspapers in the treaty ports are not now controled by the Chinese government. When the Chinese disapprove foreign press views, however, postal privileges are withdrawn, which prevents circulation beyond the foreign controled area in which the offending journal is published.

The foreign newspaper interests oppose registration, as they fear muzzling whenever opinions differ on petty political questions. The government notes give Feb. 1 as the registration limit, the course of action contemplated if the legations refuse the request is not stated.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 14.—The soviet government has allotted a 1,000 acre site in Silver forest, on the Moscow river, a ten minute drive from the capital, for a "medical city" designed to be the largest and most modern medical institute in the world, it was learned today. The plans are being drawn in consultation with a commission which recently studied the Columbia and Cornell centers and the Rockefeller institute of New York.

20,000 ENGAGE IN HEAVY FIGHTING IN CHACO BATTLE

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 14.—(AP)—An estimated 20,000 men today were engaged in heavy fighting in the Ingavi and Picuiba sectors of the Chaco boreal where activity was concentrated as result of Bolivia's latest offensive.

The Bolivian forces, aided by cavalry, were battering ahead in their drive to push Paraguay back from important Bolivian communications and supply centers. Already, reports reaching this capital said, they had regained 1,600 square miles of ground they lost in Paraguay's August drive.

A Paraguayan communique today said heavy fighting continued in the Ingari section, whereas the war ministry at La Paz claimed the capture of Fort Loma Vistosa.

SIXTH TYPHOON IN TEN WEEKS HITS PHILIPPINES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Nov 15 [Thursday]. —A typhoon—the sixth in ten weeks —swept with destructive force last night and today across the middle of the Philippine Islands. The vortex passed about 50 miles east of Manila, but torrential rains fell in the city. The wind here rose to 48 miles per hour and the lights flickered.

The disruption of radio and wire communications as the storm advanced curtained any estimate of the loss of life or number of homeless, but the typhoon is believed more severe than that of Oct. 16 which hit Manila at 57 miles per hour velocity, claiming 87 lives and making 21,000 homeless.

Rises to 80 Miles Per Hour.

On Oct. 20 another typhoon and flood hit the Naga area, taking 11 lives. Three earlier gales hit northern Luzon Island causing widespread damage. This fall typhoons have taken a toll of more than 100 lives and made more than 100,000 temporarily homeless.

The typhoon struck Leyte and Samar Islands last night and moved in a northwesterly direction across the southern provinces of Luzon. The gale rose to a velocity of 80 miles per hour, damaging the coconut and banana crops. It leveled frail houses and with the accompanying rain washed out roads and bridges.

Ship Torn from Moorings.

At Legaspi, fourth city of the Philippines, a steamer was torn from its moorings, was dashed against three wharves which it damaged, then was swept to sea. Another ship, the Daet, 150 miles from Manila, wirelessed that it was in a 75 mile gale. The American oil tanker Larry Doheny, which nearly foundered in the storm three weeks ago, sailed from Manila for Los Angeles only yesterday and presumably was in the storm area.

When the storm hit the archipelago last night Manila was kept informed by siren blasts and frequent warning bulletins reporting the advance of the typhoon.

Radio Contact Broken.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—The naval communications radio station here said tonight that United States contact with its station in the Philippine typhoon area had been broken.

At 10 p. m. officials said the Manila station had been out of contact for some time. They explained that the cause might be either the effort of the station personnel to guard equipment against water damage or actual damage by the typhoon.

Hold 3 Hotel Bandits as Suspects in Other Raids

Three young men, who were arrested an hour after they had taken $10 from the clerk of the Arena hotel, 2342 Madison stret, early in the day, were being held by the Warren avenue police last night as suspects in a number of hotel robberies throughout the city. They are Marvin Dennison, 24 years old, and Charles Shannon, 25 years old, who gave their address as the Ansonia hotel, 2709 West Washington boulevard, and Charles Boynton, 25 years old, 3106 West Monroe street, who has served a term in the Pontiac reformatory for an automobile theft.

Utopian Society Descends on N. Y. with Hazy Plan

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The Utopian society, a California cult with a wildly ambitious scheme for a new social order in the United States, has invaded New York. Headquarters have been set up in the congenial atmosphere of Greenwich village and a campaign is under way to spread the society's theories throughout the east.

The organization has obtained a state charter in the name of the Utopian Society of America [East] Inc. One of its directors is Chester A. Arthur Jr., a grandson of the 21st President of the United States. Eugene J. Reed, the founder, is leading the eastern campaign in person.

"We now have 600,000 members in the west," said Mr. Reed with some pride.

Initiation Fee and Dues.

Somewhat reluctantly he admitted that there was an initiation fee and dues. He refused to state what these would be in the east, but admitted that in California the initiation was $3 a head and the dues ten cents a month.

"We've been called Reds and Fascists and racketeers, too," he confessed. "But we are none of them. We get only a bare living out of it. Being opposed to the profit system, we couldn't very well make a profit out of it, could we?"

There seemed to be no answer to that one, and Mr. Reed went on to explain some of the philosophies which, if adopted, in his opinion will revolutionize society.

Cite Basic Principle.

The basic principle of Utopia, it seems, is that the owners of factories and large farms, all means of production, should merge in a national depository, for which the owner would receive a "life credit" from the government.

Under Utopia the monetary system would be based on purchasing certificates; there would be no wage or price system; working hours and leisure would be regulated by a central board of control; people would work in chosen fields and receive abundance for their efforts. There would be no banks, no credits, no debts, no mortgages, no property.

See Klan Analogy.

As Mr. Reed spoke of the secret ritual, the mysticism and "four cycles" through which members must go, it was apparent that in its appeal the Utopian society was somewhat similar to the Ku Klux Klan. But the Utopians, Mr. Reed said, carefully avoid offense to any religion or nationality.

Mr. Reed is 47 years old. He was formerly in the investment banking business in Denver. He is a slender, gray haired man with a small gray mustache, garbed in a gray suit and white shoes.

MARY M'CORMIC AND PRINCE MDIVANI TO BE FREE AFTER TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Mary McCormic, opera singer and Prince Serge M'Divani, who she once bragged was "the world's greatest lover," will become free agents of romance tomorrow when the interlocutory divorce Mary won here a year ago today becomes final.

The singer termed their marriage "a noble experiment, but it didn't work out," when she testified in support of her divorce petition last year "The great lover" called her terrible names, struck her, and made her pay all the household bills, she told the court.

The couple's marriage in Phoenix, Ariz., in April, 1931, was the second venture into matrimony for both of them. Only two weeks before the prince had been divorced by Pola Negri, the actress. Miss McCormic said she didn't remember the name of her first husband and expected soon to forget the name of her second.

Gets Bridewell Term for Taking Money in Job Fake

Ben Levine, 53 years old, 2935 Armitage avenue, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell and fined $100 yesterday by Judge J. William Brooks in the Felony court, on charges of having accepted money from two persons to obtain jobs that never materialized. The complainants were Frank Stec, 23 years old, 1863 Winnebago avenue, and Frank Bold, 23 years old, of the same address. They testified Levine had promised them jobs on a newspaper.

Son of Jim Tully Gets 6 Months; Woman Accuses

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Thomas Alton Tully was sentenced today to six months in jail following a plea of guilty to a charge of assault on Mrs. Violet Robey, who asserted he attempted to attack her. Tully is the son of Jim Tully, "hobo author."

THREE TO SWEAR HAUPTMANN WAS IN NEW JERSEY

Flemington, N. J., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The state of New Jersey, it was reliably reported today, has three surprise witnesses. They, it was said, will place Bruno Richard Hauptmann near the Lindbergh home in Hopewell shortly before the kidnaping.

One witness will testify, when Hauptmann goes to trial Jan. 2, charged with the murder of the baby, that Hauptmann is the man he saw lurking around the Lindbergh home in February, 1932, a month before the abduction.

Another will testify Hauptmann is the man he met on the road leading to the Lindbergh home. The third puts Hauptmann at the scene of the crime within a week of the kidnaping, March 1.

In Hauptmann's home police found a 1932 New Jersey hunting and fishing license, obtained through Max Ruthlatt, a sporting goods dealer at Passiac. The license was taken out Oct. 24, 1932, in the name of Richard Hauptmann of Garfield, N. J.

One of the surprise witnesses, a resident of Hopewell, it is understood, tried to help Hauptmann find a job, after meeting Hauptmann on the road leading to the Lindbergh house, and being asked to do so by Hauptmann. A job was arranged at an orphanage, but was not claimed, it is said.

MOST ELECTRIC DEATHS CURABLE, DOCTOR CLAIMS

Tells New Methods at Johns Hopkins.

New York, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Two treatments likely to bring back from death a majority of persons accidentally electrocuted were described tonight by Prof. W. B. Kouwenhoven of Johns Hopkins university before the New York Electrical society.

They are based on experiments revealing three kinds of death from electric shock. Only one of them is irrevocable. In the two other types, Dr. Kouwenhoven said, "death is only apparent." Those two types, he said, make up the majority of accidental electrocutions.

The two treatments he described are based upon seven years' experiments at Johns Hopkins, jointly by the electrical engineering, the medical and the hygiene departments.

Fatal Type of Shock.

The electrocution for which there is no remedy comes when the current flows directly through the nerves and brain, destroying nerve cells.

Another form of shock death, which at first is only apparent, affects the lungs. When, for example, contact is made at two points on the same arm or leg, no current reaches the brain. But the nerves themselves set up a series of stimuli of their own. These reach the brain and block the regular nerve dispatching system.

Then the brain may cease sending its automatic signals to the lungs. Breathing thereupon stops. Upsets of this sort, Dr. Kouwenhoven said, have been clearly demonstrated in experiments.

Artificial respiration, if prompt enough, brings such persons back to life. It has to be continued until the nerves get over their upset.

Another Seeming Death.

The third form of electric death which is only apparent affects the heart. Experiments have shown, Dr. Kouwenhoven said, a usually harmless current of only one-tenth of an ampere, when flowing between hands and feet, may produce this heart death.

In traversing this route the electricity passes through the heart and upsets the rhythmic beating of the ventricle, the chamber which pumps blood into the arteries. It happens that the beat of this chamber is piloted from the other side of the heart, by some "pacemaker" cells in the auricle. Even the mild current puts the ventricle out of step with its pacemaker.

One emergency method of restoring the heart pace described by Dr. Kouwenhoven is the "counter shock." This is use of a large current, carrying a shock so heavy that it completely stops all heart movement

FOUR U. S. SENATORS SAIL FOR HONOLULU ON INSULAR JUNKET

San Pedro, Cal., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—United States Senator W. G. McAdoo of California, Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, Ernest Gibbons of Vermont and Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, composing a delegation from the committee on insular affairs, sailed tonight for Hawaii and the Philippines on the S. S. Monterey.

"The purpose of the trip is strictly government business," Senator Tydings declared and declined to go into detail.

Rumors that Senator McAdoo planned a further investigation into the racial antecedents of his son-in-law, Rafael Lopez de Onate, were quashed by Senator Tydings, who said the senatorial party will spend three days in Honolulu and arrive in Manila Dec. 9. They will return via the Indian ocean and Suez to New York, leaving the Philippines after Christmas and spending no time in Japan.

HENRI JASPAR IS NAMED TO FORM BELGIAN CABINET

BRUSSELS, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Henri Jaspar, former minister of foreign affairs, today was named premier of Belgium by King Leopold and invited to form the new government.

Jaspar, while not formally accepting the premiership, immediately started formation of his new cabinet. Announcement of its membership was expected tomorrow. The government of Count Charles De Broqueville resigned yesterday after two of its economic expert members resigned over a reported disagreement with the gold policy.

Jaspar is known to be resolutely opposed to the devaluation of the belga. If he accepts the premiership, he will have the backing of the powerful Catholic and Liberal coalition groups who have united against an inflationist policy. One of the first problems with which the incoming government will have to deal is the question of reducing salaries, pensions, and subsidies, which financial experts have warned is necessary if the present gold basis of the currency is to be maintained.

Woman Slugged and Raped Near Home, She Reports

Mrs. Gladys Keating, 31 years old, 1709 North Tripp avenue, told Cragin police yesterday that she was slugged and raped Tuesday night on a vacant tract near her home by a man about 30 years old.

FRANCE REVEALS EXTENT OF SOME STAVISKY FRAUDS

PARIS, Nov. 14. — (AP) — France learned in part today just how vast were the swindles of the late Serge Stavisky as new financial scandals threatened to provide major problems for Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin's new government.

A report of the chamber investigating commission revealed that Stavisky, whose activities caused cabinets to crash and Frenchmen to riot madly in Paris streets, unloaded 173,000,000 francs worth [about $11,250,000] of the notorious Bayonne Pawnshop bonds on financial institutions alone.

Figures for the arch swindler's many other ventures, in the course of which hundreds of millions of francs in securities were stolen, have not yet been made public.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that holders of one billion francs worth [about $65,000,000] of bonds in the companies of Charles and Joseph Levy, cousins, face heavy losses in the recent crackup of those enterprises.

Says Yarn Maker's Yarn Convinced Her; Sues Him

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—George Hoffman Hatch, who was married on April 21 last to Dorothea Angela Ruddy, daughter of Joseph A. Ruddy, was sued in the Supreme court today for $500,000 damages for breach of promise by Mary Schirp. The plaintif is the daughter of Dr. Francis M. Schirp, who figured in the graft case against former Magistrate George F. Ewald. The defendant, who is a son of T. Edward Hatch of Brookline, Mass., is associated with his father's yarn business here.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" —bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache caused by constipation —you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

HUEY WHIPS HIS 44 BILLS IN AND OUT BOTH HOUSES

Takes Dais Himself in His Fight to Be King.

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long put his hog-tied legislature through its paces today and by evening was assured of complete passage of his 44 dictator bills by Friday morning.

By nightfall the "Kingfish" had whipped his measures though a docile house of representatives and sped them to the senate, which referred them to the finance committee in short order.

Takes Speaker's Platform.

Not content with his usual rôle of storming from behind the railing back of the members' desks in the house, the senator ascended the speaker's dais and assumed the duties of Allen J. Ellender, who ordinarily presided. His debt moratorium bill, written by his own hand like the other 43 passed without a negative vote according to the senator's announcement from the rostrum.

Taking up the bills passed by the house, the senate, later in the evening, suspended the rules, and quickly passed the bills to second and third reading, referring them to the finance committee, before adjourning until 8 o'clock tomorrow night. At 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the committee will report the bills.

During the senate's short session, Long rambled about the hall, laughed at his own jokes, and talked loudly with members as they followed his dictates without a murmur.

Bars Water on Dais.

Senator Long indicated as soon as the house convened what he intended to do. On the clerk's desk was a pitcher of water and a full glass beside it. On the speaker's table sat another glass of water.

"Hand me them glasses of water," he said to the clerk. "There ain't going to be no reading of bills and no speaking around here. I wrote these bills and I know they are o. k. The people want them and are going to get them. You won't need any water to wet your whistles. If anybody wants to get anything off his chest he can do it when we get outside."

There was a little horse play following this, but the senator instructed the speaker to pound his desk with the gavel and announce: "Bill is passed."

One Representative Protests.

One representative, George W. Lester, had the temerity to insist that the members should know what they were voting on and what the bills contained. He was allowed to file a formal protest that 19 of the bills had not been printed and placed on the speaker's desk. He had the following statement inserted in the record:

"In the present conception of government in Louisiana the minority has been ignored and democratic government has been perverted to mean rule of the majority and for the majority only."

As he finished reading his statement Senator Long emitted a raucous "ha-ha-ha."

"This don't make no difference," said Senator Long, "we'll just go ahead and pass them just the same. If it does the boys any good to protest over the people's wishes, why let 'em do it. That's all it will amount to."

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

SUES FOR DIVORCE

L. Montefiore Stein of the Ambassador East hotel, La Salle street broker, was sued for divorce in the Superior court yesterday by his wife, the former Florence Eisendrath, who charged him with cruelty.

Mrs. Stein, who lives at 1304 Astor street, is the daughter of Sigmund Eisendrath and a niece of the late Julius Rosenwald. Her marriage to Stein on Nov. 17, 1913, in the Blackstone hotel was a social event. The Steins have twin sons, Frederick and Richard, 20 years old.

Mrs. Stein's bill alleges four acts of cruelty. She charges her husband struck and shook her first on Oct. 14, 1933, and subsequently last June, last July, and on Oct. 9 when they separated.

Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr., immediately filed an answer for Stein, denying the allegations of cruelty, but stipulating that the divorce would not be contested.

While Mrs. Stein in her bill asks alimony and attorneys' fees, it was reported that a substantial out of court settlement is being arranged.

BAINS FILE BRIEF TO SUPPORT PLEA FOR REHEARING

John Bain, his son, John H. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, filed with the Illinois Supreme court yesterday a brief in support of their request for rehearing of a recent decision. On Oct. 24 the high court ordered a new trial of the men on charges of illegally accepting deposits in the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank. The brief filed yesterday argues that the Supreme court should properly have reversed the judgment and cleared them. It holds the Criminal court that convicted them erred in refusing them permission to withdraw their plea in bar, which was based on the defendants' previous acquittal of similar charges in another case. The brief asks the high court to rule that prosecution cannot be sustained, which would enable the three to avoid retrial.

HORNER DOES NOT REFER TO SALES TAX; QUITS SPA

His Silence Surprise to Party Leaders.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner left here for Springfield today without even asking for support for his sales tax program, which goes before the special session of the legislature next Monday.

Cook county leaders particularly were surprised that he did not ask that the maximum votes be on hand for his five day schedule, especially because the 2 cent levy has grown unpopular in Chicago with the dawning realization that Cook county is bearing twice as much of the load as all the rest of the state.

Some Prefer General Levy.

The law was passed largely because of its original appearance as a relief measure in an emergency, but now that it has been converted into a substitute for general taxes which hit Cook county less disproportionately, some of the members feel that a return to the old system of a general levy on real estate and personal property for state purposes is preferable to the sales tax, which, it is alleged, is turning the profits of many business houses into losses.

That the governor did not present the arguments for his case to any of the metropolitan leaders was construed by some as an indication of his confidence that he will obtain 77 house votes next Wednesday or Thursday without difficulty. On the other hand his silence is also said to have been forced on him by his announced refusal to discuss the selection of a speaker for the new assembly.

Believes It Discourteous.

His public statement on the latter score was in effect that it would be discourteous to the legislators themselves to attempt in advance to settle the outcome of the Democratic caucus at organization time; but it is understood that he gave greater weight to the belief that a discussion of the speakership at this time might have an injurious effect on his program for the session which opens on Monday. The Chicagoans wanted to talk to him about backing a Cook county man, preferably James P. Boyle, for the rostrum vacated by Speaker Arthur Roe.

Mayor Kelly was the last leader of the first importance left here after the night train pulled out for Chicago. He expressed regret that he had not been able to persuade Gov. Horner to call another special session immediately to consider his proposal for the elimination of the supplemental registration of voters before the February primaries now required in cities having election boards.

"I am told," said the mayor, "that the other cities facing this unnecessary expense also are becoming interested in this subject and that the saving to the taxpayers of the entire state probably would amount to $1,000,000. It would not affect territory outside election board territory, so there could be no objection to it from that source.

"I have not given up hope of another special session, as the regular session could not act upon this matter in time to bring about this big economy."

Mayor Kelly and his party, which includes Mrs. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hague of New Jersey, and a few others plan to leave for Chicago tomorrow night.

EX-CHICAGO REALTOR ACQUITTED AT TRIAL ON MORALS CHARGES

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Albert Fuchs, 72 year old former wealthy Chicagoan, today was acquitted after a trial on morals charges in Supreme Judge William Aggeler's court.

Once rated as a millionaire with Chicago interests in real estate and florist business, Fuchs appeared in court here penniless and unable to employ an attorney. He was represented during the trial by George Benedict, deputy public defender. The defendant told the court that he had lost his wealth through civil action and financial reverses.

A Santa Monica mansion with back yard displays of tropical fish and hundreds of caged birds, which is all that is left to Fuchs, was the scene of a celebration by a few intimate friends tonight. Ownership of the house became an issue in the early part of Fuchs' trial when he pleaded inability to raise funds for an attorney. He explained that the mansion stood in the name of his wife, Johanna, who received it as a wedding present four years ago.

ARIZONA HALTS TROOPS ON WAY TO PARKER DAM

Phoeniz, Ariz., Nov. 14.—(AP)—National Guard machine gunners, riflemen, and "observers" were recalled from Arizona's "western front" today.

Gov. B. B. Moeur ordered the troops back to Prescott and Phoenix in view of the United States bureau of reclamation's stoppage of construction work in Arizona territory at Parker Dam site, pending determination of the respective rights of interested states. Secretary Ickes has called a hearing on the matter to open today.

The stop order involved only activities on the Arizona side. Construction work on the California side continued, and Yates said it could go on for perhaps a month more without serious handicap.

RICHMAN BROTHERS OVERCOATS $22.50

R. B. R. . . . never fails to bring his wife to RICHMAN BROTHERS. She seems to enjoy his purchases as much as he does. They find the subsiantial savings very useful too

A Portrait of a Richman Brothers Overcoat

Even the camera has its limitations. No photograph can give you the feel of thick, warm, all wool fabrics, the snug embrace of generous shoulders, or that sense of complete protection against winter's worst weather.

No photograph can picture the honest fabric quality, the sturdy tailoring, the large variety of styles and patterns and colors, or the marvelous value that you get in Richman Brothers overcoats.

All this you will feel and see and sense when you try on a Richman Brothers overcoat.

The ample and obvious superiority of Richman Brothers values is easy to understand. We make our own clothes in our own shops; we sell them in our own stores; we sell for cash; we have no delivery system; we don't have to mark prices up because we have no cut-price sales. All these savings enable us to offer you the commanding overcoat values of the town.

You are sure to receive perfect fit because our selection includes sizes and proportions for every type of figure. All Richman Brothers suits, topcoats, overcoats and dress clothes are $22.50.

ITALIANS ACCUSE JAPS OF MISRULE IN PACIFIC ISLES

Roman Press Launches Attack on Tokio.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 14.—A smashing attack on Japan's alleged maladministration of Pacific islands of the Caroline, Marianne and Marshall groups and demands for the right to investigate what is going on in the islands were launched tonight in the Roman press.

Italian papers, which get most of their information from official sources, say Japan has no intention of giving up its mandate over the islands, although Japan is no longer a member of the league of nations. The semi-official Giornale d'Italia in a long article from its correspondent in Geneva charges that the inhabitants of the islands are living in a state of squalid misery, with a high rate of infantile mortality and deplorable hygienic conditions because of Japanese neglect.

Charges Islands Are Fortified.

The paper says there is little doubt but that Japan's refusal to allow foreigners to land in the islands cloaks the construction of naval fortifications which, under the mandate confided in Japan by the league, was forbidden.

Giornale d'Italia says that not only American merchant ships but also an Italian ship was refused the right to come into the Pacific island ports by the Japanese.

Figures on the alleged expenditure for fortifications and port improvements in the islands by the Japanese are given as follows:

For the port of Saipan, in the Marianne group, 300,000 yen [$87,540] was spent in 1932, and 60,000 yen [$17,508] in 1933. About 215,000 yen [$62,737] was spent in fortifications at a port of the Palau islands, a group of the Carolines, and 115,000 yen [$33,557] at Rota.

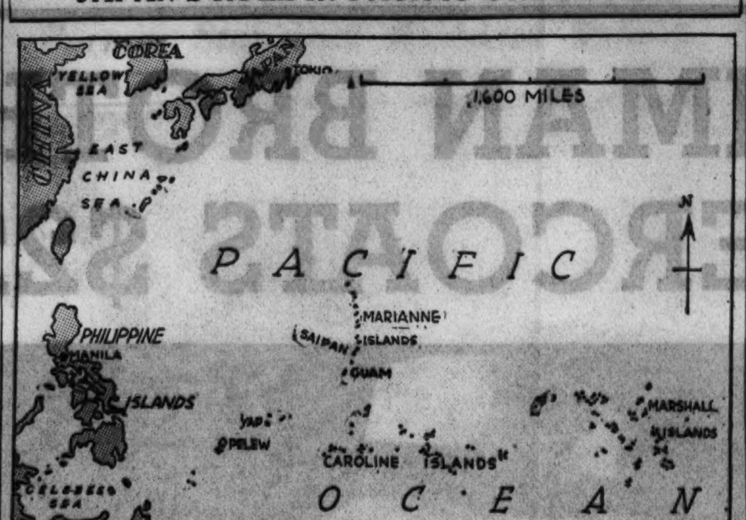
Objects to Jap Communique.

The Italian paper also takes exception to the communique of the official Japanese news agency sent out on Nov. 7 denying that the islands were being fortified. In this communique the Japanese news agency referred to "Japan's sovereignty over the islands."

On the contrary, says Giornale d'Italia, the league of nations mandates do not confer sovereignty, but only a commission to administrate the mandated territories.

Giornale d'Italia also cites documents from ship captains who ply the Pacific which contain phrases such as "immense fortified territory in heart of Pacific," and "how the United States is being chased out of Asia."

JAPAN'S RULE IN PACIFIC UNDER FIRE



Map shows Marianne, Caroline, and Marshall islands, governed by Japan under a mandate from the league of nations. The Italian press yesterday launched a bitter attack on the Japanese administration of the islands, charging that the Tokio government is building fortifications in violation of its agreements.

REPORTS WEAKNESS OF COSMIC RAYS IN PERU AFTER RECORD ASCENT

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 14.—(AP)—A weakness in cosmic rays over Peru was reported today by Prof. S. A. Korff of California Institute of Technology, who Monday flew with his cosmic instruments to a new altitude record for Peru of 25,500 feet. He now seeks authorization to make an ascension over Lima in an American made stratosphere balloon.

Prof. Korff said that at 20,000 feet he found the cosmic rays more than 30 per cent weaker than at similar altitudes in California and Canada. At sea level here he found them 7 per cent weaker than in those two higher altitudes. Lima is 800 miles south of the equator, but within the tropical belt where some scientists have said cosmic rays should not be so numerous as nearer the poles.

This difference is not ascribed to higher temperatures of the tropics, but to the earth's magnetic field. Under the theory that the rays are highly charged electrical particles, they would tend to be deflected from the equator toward the earth's magnetic poles. Dr. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago recently cited similar findings in support of the idea that the rays are electrified particles. The ultimate solution hinges partly on measuring the rays all the way to the top of the atmosphere.

MYSTERY VEILS PARLEY

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 14.—What is happening behind the scenes in the three power naval conversations? That question is being asked in diplomatic circles in London and elsewhere, but the veil of mystery, instead of clearing, gets thicker.

Today, after nearly a week of apparent somnolence, the British and American delegations woke up and got together and talked for three hours in the British prime minister's room in the house of commons. If the spokesmen on both sides are to be believed, they talked about nothing in particular.

It was stated that it had occurred to the British and American delegates that while waiting for the Japanese reply to the latest British proposals the time could be usefully spent in discussing odds and ends of technical questions left over from the Anglo-American talks last summer.

United States Stands Pat.

On the specific question of Great Britain's suggestion of recognizing the Japanese right to equality and securing in return an exposé of the Japanese naval program, THE TRIBUNE learns that the British are hopeful of an American agreement if the suggestion is accepted by the Japanese.

In American circles, however, there is no indication of any such spirit. The United States still seems to be insisting on definite maintenance of the 5-5-3 ratio. As far as can be learned no reply has as yet been received from Tokio and until one is received it is considered useless to continue the conversations with them.

TWO EX-CONVICTS GET 99 YEARS IN ROBBERY SLAYING

CRIMINAL COURT.

Ralph Denning and Elmer Schwalge, murder, sentenced to 99 years each in the penitentiary, and two consecutive sentences of 1 year to life each on two robbery charges by Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

Frank Skuplen, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Leroy Oliff, arson, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Two former convicts pleaded guilty to murder yesterday before Judge Donald S. McKinlay in the Criminal court and were sentenced to ninety-nine years each in prison and given two additional sentences of one year to life for robbery. The sentences were ordered to run consecutively.

The men were Ralph Denning, 23 years old, and Elmer Schwalge, also 23. They were named in the slaying on Feb. 8, 1934, of Jack Vanders in a delicatessen store owned by Vanders' sister, Mrs. Marie Matson, at 5010 Ferdinand street. Vanders was shot down as he entered the store during a robbery, which netted the holdup men $60.

Determined to bring justice to her brother's murderers, Mrs. Matson made a practice of visiting detective bureau showups. On Sept. 14 she identified Schwalge as the man who had killed Vanders. Schwalge implicated Denning.

RELIEF PRINTING JUNKED; POLICY TICKETS MADE

Five Tons of Forms Go to Waste; Cost $2,500.

Approximately five tons of unused printed forms intended for office business of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission have found their way into junk and are being salvaged and cut up for lottery tickets by south side policy gamblers, according to disclosures yesterday.

How these forms, whose printing is estimated to have cost in the neighborhood of $2,500, became junk, was not fully explained last night. At the office of the commission it was said yesterday that printed stationery totaling 5,115 pounds was sold as waste paper between June 13 and Aug. 25.

Conform to Red Cross Ideas.

An official of the commission explained that the Red Cross had recommended a certain form for applicants seeking clothing. When the forms were delivered, he said, it was discovered that they did not comply with the Red Cross specifications and were junked. He said that he did not have the exact figures but the printed forms did not cost more than $300.

E. C. Zimmerman, head of the Zimmerman Brothers Printing company, 4020 South Michigan boulevard, who specialize in the printing of bank and office stationery, admitted yesterday that he had purchased five tons of the discarded stationery for $50.

He obtained unused forms of the Civil Works administration and the Cook county bureau of public welfare, as well as those of the relief commission.

Mr. Zimmerman admitted that the stationery was cut down into small size pads, but for what purpose they were put to he said that he did not know. Other sources revealed that the pads were used by gamblers for printing policy tickets.

Death Takes Parrot Pet of James Whitcomb Riley

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 14.—(AP)—"Polly," last surviving pet of James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, is dead. It was 76 years old. Death occurred at the home of Theodore M. Weiss who has cared for "Polly" since Riley's death in 1916. "Polly's" grave will be outside the bedroom window of the Riley home on Lockerbie street near the remains of the poet's pet poodle.

COURTNEY, NELSON, AND HORAN NAMED IN JANITORS' SUITS

Five members and former members of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union filed suit yesterday in United States District court seeking damages totaling $100,000 from State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, Ald. Oscar F. Nelson, former president and now attorney of the union, Jerry Horan, union president, and 12 other of its officials and agents.

The suit, which charged a "reign of terror" in the affairs of the union since 1927, was based on the principle that the plaintifs have been deprived of their constitutional rights to work. They are Albert Anderson, Theodore Lindstrom, Louis DeVries, William Vanselow, and Swan Hakinson. Each seeks $20,000 damages.

While State's Attorney Courtney is excepted from a number of charges in the bill, he is accused of aiding and abetting the alleged terrorists by preventing plaintifs from obtaining a state charter for an organization of their own. Courtney also is named as having refused to bring the charges of the plaintifs before the grand jury.

A can of benzine thoughtlessly set on a hot stove at 1119 South Mozart street exploded yesterday. Mrs. Antoinette Cozzi, 33 years old, was burned to death, and three of her five children were burned, one critically.

The injured children are Elsie, 11 years old, dangerously burned about the face and body while trying to save her mother's life; Albert, 10, suffering from minor burns; and Orlando, 5, burned about the face and hands. All were taken to Mount Sinai hospital.

Albert told investigators he had cleaned a pair of trousers with the benzine, and without thinking set it on the kitchen stove.

"I forgot about it," he said, "and was playing on the floor with Orlando when the can exploded."

Mrs. Cozzi was showered with the flaming liquid and died almost immediately despite her daughter's efforts to beat out the flames.

An announcement said the contest will be run "over a course sprinkled with hard natural and artificial obstacles, demanding steering skill, promptness of decision, and great courage in the officers competing."

Premier Mussolini, under whose auspices the meet is being held, probably will attend.

ELGIN HOSPITAL SETS RECORD IN NOV. WITH 4,462

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 14.—(AP)—With 4,462 patients on Nov. 3 the Elgin state hospital set an all-time record for Illinois institutions for the mentally ill, Public Welfare Director A. L. Bowen announced today.

The state hospitals at Chicago and Kankakee also have more than 4,000 patients each, Bowen said, with facilities throughout the state being taxed by the increase of more than 11,000 inmates in the last 20 years, of which a 4,108 increase was during the five years ended June 30.

NEW ENGLAND'S KITCHEN THRIFT IS TOLD TO 6,000

One Dish Meal Featured at Cooking School.

Some 6,000 housewives learned the secrets of New England kitchen thrift yesterday when Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, home economics expert, demonstrated the dish-a-meal cooking of wily New Englanders before a west side session of the fourth annual TRIBUNE cooking school.

Working as rapidly as an animated automaton in her shining kitchen on the stage of Guyon's Paradise ballroom, 128 North Pulaski road, Mrs. Chitwood prepared two New England dishes, each of which may serve, she said, as a complete meal.

First came the New England boiled dinner, made of corned beef, cabbage, turnips, beets, and other mixed vegetables—"a whole meal on one platter," according to Mrs. Chitwood.

Luncheon Sandwich Explained.

"Boil your corned beef, preferably the brisket, slowly," she directed. "Boil your turnips and cabbage in the beef stock, but boil your beets separately so as not to discolor the cabbage. Over this pour your sauce of butter and vinegar and arrange them all on the platter."

As a further economical measure, she suggested that the liquid in which the meat, cabbage, and turnips are boiled be saved and used for soup stock—"for another complete meal on another hungry day."

A second New England dish was a luncheon sandwich which had baked beans as its basic ingredient. The sandwich consisted of baked beans and asparagus, placed on toast, over which was poured a cheese sauce and a garnish of bacon and olives.

"This little sandwich is a time saver and a pocketbook protector," Mrs. Chitwood said. "With a cup of coffee it makes a filling and a nutritious lunch."

Gives 100 Year Old Recipe.

Other unusual recipes divulged by Mrs. Chitwood included bananas baked in cranberry juice, sausage stuffing for chicken, jellied cabbage and cheese relish, creamed oysters and mushrooms, and a 100 year old recipe for white loaf cake.

Intermingled with the recipes was a program of enthusiastically applauded entertainment, introduced by Phil Maxwell, master of ceremonies.

First, there was community singing of "It's Time We Get Together," led by Frank Bennett, with Cathryne Bennett at the piano. Then appeared Lum and Abner, W-G-N's famous hillbilly pair, followed by Dr. Harlan Tarbell, "mystery scientist," with a demonstration of "eyeless vision."

Sophie Tucker Appears.

Finally, just before Mary Meade, cooking editor of THE TRIBUNE, appeared to introduce Mrs. Chitwood, on came the triumph of the day, Sophie Tucker, star of stage and screen, who did her first cooking and her first singing alike in her father's restaurant in Hartford, Conn.

"O," breathed Miss Tucker in her ultrahusky voice as she surveyed the audience. "I think this is wonderful! Imagine so many women really wanting to improve their cooking!"

She then sang, drawn back to the stage again and again by applause.

Others on the program were Art Millet, W-G-N staf announcer; Kenneth Stevens, tenor; Miss Frances Peck, food expert; the Cathryne Bennett Songbirds, and Eleanor Nangle, Nancy Cabot, and June Provines, TRIBUNE women writers.

The school for west side women will close Friday and sessions for north side women will begin Tuesday in the Aragon ballroom.

BRITAIN REVEALS PLAN TO REVIVE ITS 'DULL AREAS'

Proposes a Number of Development Schemes.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The government's plans to revive industry and assist the unemployed in "depressed areas" of Great Britain were disclosed in the house of commons tonight by Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain.

Two commissioners were appointed, one to deal with England and Wales and the other with Scotland. They will begin in a few days to organize development schemes and social improvements in the four areas of West Cumberland, Durham and Tyneside, South Wales, and Scotland where industry is stagnant and unemployment is rife.

Stewart Heads One Section.

Percy Malcolm Stewart, chairman and managing director of the Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers, Ltd., is responsible for England and Wales and Sir Arthur Rose, leading Scottish educationist and director of several Scottish companies, will devote his attention to Scotland.

Both commissioners are giving their services voluntarily, but each will have a number of paid assistants.

Chamberlain also announced a plan to divert $10,000,000 from current revenues into a depressed areas fund with which schemes to alleviate distress can be started immediately.

Will Move Workers About.

Plans to transfer workers from depressed areas to more prosperous districts will be extended, the chancellor asserted. The commissioners were given power to acquire land compulsorily so that the unemployed can be settled on coöperative holdings.

An amenities trust will be formed to acquire untidy derelict sites which will be laid out and made attractive for new industries and housing. Occupational centers for the workless will be developed and the government intends to increase grants for land drainage and road construction.

The government's plans failed to satisfy the opposition, both Laborites and Liberals complaining that the $10,000,000 grant is utterly inadequate.

GIRL AVERS SHE SHOT DRY AGENT DURING RUM RAID

State Clears Her; Bond for Brother.

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Seeking to exonerate her brother Charles, who is charged with murder, Anna Melli, 16 year old Kenosha high school student, told Circuit Judge E. B. Belden here this afternoon that she shot Matt Schumacher, 33, state dry agent. The killing was on the night of Sept. 21, during a raid on the Melli home. The judge released the girl's brother on $10,000 bonds, setting the trial for Jan. 21.

The girl's story was told as her brother, Charles Melli, 20, was given a hearing on an application for bond, pending his trial. Her narrative, introduced by Attorney Chris A. Juliani, counsel for Charles Melli, was sensational news to the public for a time, but later in his reply Assistant District Attorney John P. McEvoy said her story already had been discredited, as far as the state was concerned, after an inquiry.

But prior to that statement, as she sat between her mother and father, the brother's lawyer spoke, and the girl arose and said:

"I fired the shot—not my brother."

Juliani recited the details as they had been given to him by the girl. She heard a noise in her home on the night of the raid. She slipped on her overcoat and went to the bedroom door. She opened it and saw several strange men pushing past her mother and father, searching the rooms. Believing the place was being robbed, she rushed back to her bed and took a revolver from under her pillow and went outside. She saw several more men pushing her mother and brother ahead of them and she fired the gun.

A moment later her brother, Charles, stopped to pick up the gun and at that moment John Roach, who was the leader of the dry agents, pounced on him. After a terrific struggle, and with the aid of two other agents, the gun was taken from Melli's hand. Roach arrested Charles Melli for the shooting, and when Schumacher died of a bullet wound through his heart a few minutes later Melli was charged with the murder.

The entire Melli family was taken to the police station that night and all were questioned. Melli denied the shooting. The girl denied any knowledge of the shooting.

COAL SHIP IS DRIVEN DEEP INTO THE SAND BY STORM ON LAKE

Sheboygan, Wis., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Shoved deep into the sand during a violent storm on Lake Michigan, the steamer William A. Reiss with a cargo of 7,000 tons of coal was aground off the south pier in the Sheboygan harbor today.

Though the steamer was believed to be in no immediate danger of being wrecked, inasmuch as the storm had passed and the high waves were subsiding, the coast guard cutter Wolcott lay alongside for any emergency.

The crew of about 35 men remained aboard through the night after the Reiss went ashore while attempting to enter the harbor while the storm was at its height. A particularly violent gust swept the steamer hard aground, coast guardsmen said.

Half a dozen sailors came ashore in a coast guard lifeboat for mail and supplies today, but immediately returned to the ship.

DOG BITES HAND OF SAMARITAN BINDING WOUNDS

Thomas Huff, 4010 North Paulina street, an engraver, saw a motorist run over a dog and speed away in front of 1636 Irving Park boulevard last evening. Huff carried the injured animal to the parkway and was trying to tend its wounds when the dog turned and bit his hand. Huff had his injury treated at a doctor's office, and called the police who shot the dog. They sent its head to the health department for rabies tests.

BOARD APPROVES ERECTION OF NEW SO. SIDE SCHOOL

Construction of a $250,000 building to replace the fourteen portable structures comprising the Oakenwald school at 41st street and Lake Park avenue was approved by the board of education at its meeting yesterday. The new structure will provide accommodations for 768 pupils.

The board also approved the acceptance by Supt. William J. Bogan of the voluntary retirements of five teachers who have completed forty or more years of service. The five, their schools, and their terms of service are:

Nora P. Grogan, 65 years old, teacher at the Dixon elementary school, 41 years; Helen F. Sheehy, 65, teacher in the Hay school, 45 years; Jessie L. Stone, 65, teacher in the Shepard school, 45 years; Frank W. Rieder, 70, principal of the Bennett school, 45 years, and Belle Wilson, 65, teacher at the Kershaw school, 40 years. The first three will retire Saturday and the others on Dec. 1.

The board also announced that, starting today, the 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other school employés will receive checks totaling $1,958,500 for their salaries for the first half of November. The money comes from the sale of more than $3,500,000 in tax anticipation warants.

THE RATHSKELLER was opened recently in response to the wishes of patrons, active in business affairs, who at noontime prefer Eitel's Old Heidelberg Inn standards of food, service and environment with a minimum of formality.

EACH NOON, at prices even more moderate than those of the main floor, there are served, in the RATHSKELLER, foods (also beer, fine wines and liquors) of quality unexcelled anywhere.

AMPLE IN variety, and substantial in nature, the full, man-sized portions in the RATHSKELLER are as exactly suited to the liking of men as are the surroundings there.

WHEN A MAN comes to the RATHSKELLER alone he does not feel alone. And before long he is likely to find himself at a table of business acquaintances, daily. Men who know foods and values are finding out about the RATHSKELLER — as you should today.

For leisurely lunching you may prefer the main floor—especially when accompanied by ladies. Every night, from dinner time throughout the late supper hours to closing time, there is unique, clean, spirited entertainment — including, on the main floor, the Heidelberg Students Octette and orchestra, while Herr Louie and The Weasel hold forth with The Original Hungry Five and other features in the RATHSKELLER.

Outlines Proposals for Conference.

on the dole a little closer together," he declared. "That's all I want."

"I'm convinced that now is the hour," he continued. "But it's got to be a bold stroke. This is no child's play. I can't see why we should wait for kingdom come to give security to the peoples of America."

Employment Discussion.

In the separate "round table" discussions, there was general agreement expressed in the one on unemployment insurance that a coöperative federal-state program should be worked out, and this view was shared by President Roosevelt.

The discussion on methods of creating employment was featured by suggestions from federal officials that a federal work relief program, similar to the Civil Works administration of last year, should be provided.

Speakers on the problem of old age pensions showed wide divergence of opinion as to how it might be solved, although there was a preponderance of opinion that the federal government ought to control the collection and preservation of funds for this purpose. Much the same tenor of thought prevailed in the symposium on child welfare, which was presided over by Miss Grace Abbott of the University of Chicago.

Dramatic Incident.

The most dramatic incident of the day, perhaps, occurred in the discussion on medical care.

Here, after the veteran leaders of the American Medical association had pleaded to be left alone in the solution of medical problems, a prominent Georgia physician arose and lashed the association as having betrayed the people.

This "rebel" in the ranks of medicine, Dr. Stuart R. Roberts of Atlanta, is a member of the advisory committee of physicians named by Miss Perkins to aid the economic security committee and was for five years a member of the national committee on the cost of medical care headed by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur.

"As I sat here listening to these speakers," he cried out passionately, "I am reminded of the words of my Master on the cross: 'My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?' I served five long years on the committee which was to solve this problem, and we've done nothing.

Says Something Must Be Done.

"But gentlemen, there is something going to be done! We doctors in America are on trial. If we delay longer we are going to receive the contempt of the American people, and we shall deserve it.

"We can obstruct no longer! The people are going to get medical care."

Dr. Roberts told with feeling how people in his own state have incomes as low as $75 a year.

"And you say," he shouted defiantly to the representatives of the American Medical association, "you say that these people have adequate medical care! They have none, but they are going to get it now!"

Says Credit Is Needed.

The medical discussion was opened by Dr. Henry A. Luce of Detroit, who declared that the average working man does not want charity, but credit. This was the tenor adopted by other A. M. A. speakers, their view being that the cost of medical care could not be reduced without sacrificing its quality, and therefore some method should be found for making it more possible for people to pay doctor and hospital bills.

Dr. Luce insisted that any federal legislation should not invade principles such as the right of a patient to a physician of his own choice; exclusion of the profit motive in medicine; control of any plan by physicians themselves and the limitation of benefits to medical service.

Dr. Michael Davis of Chicago, medical director of the Rosenwald Foundation, who is not a medical doctor and therefore not a member of the A. M. A., agreed on part with the previous speakers, but he declared that half of the people of the country go without adequate medical care. These, he declared, must be reached, and he advocated further study, with medical coöperation, of methods of bringing proper care to the great numbers.

Abel Davis Recovers from Arthritis Attack

Abel Davis, 60 years old, chairman of the board of the Chicago Title and Trust company, returned to his home at 600 Sheridan road, Glencoe, yesterday from the Michael Reese hospital where he had been confined several weeks with arthritis. According to Dr. D. H. Levinthal, Mr. Davis' physician, the patient has recovered, and for some time has been conducting his business affairs from his hospital bed.

President's Address on Economic Security

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's address to the National Conference on Economic Security follows:

"I am glad to welcome you to the White House and to tell you that I am happy that there is so much interest in the problem of economic security.

"Last June I said that this winter we might well make a beginning in the great task of providing social insurance for the citizen and his family.

"I have not changed my opinion. I shall have recommendations on this subject to present to the incoming congress.

"Many details are still to be settled. The committee on economic security was created to advise me on this matter. It will bring to me, not any preconceived views, but a mature judgment after careful study of the problem and after consultation with the advisory conference and the coöperating committees.

Unemployment Insurance Included.

"On some points it is possible to be definite. Unemployment insurance will be in the program. I am still of the opinion expressed in my message of June 8 that this part of social insurance should be a coöperative federal-state undertaking.

"It is important that the federal government encourage states which are ready to take this progressive step. It is no less important that all unemployment insurance reserve funds be held and invested by the federal government, so that the use of these funds as a means of stabilization may be maintained in central management and employed on a national basis.

"Unemployment insurance must be set up with the purpose of decreasing rather than increasing unemployment. It is, of course, clear that because of their magnitude the investment and liquidation of reserve funds must be within control of the government itself.

Administration with States.

"For the administration of insurance benefits the states are the most logical units. At this stage, while unemployment insurance is still untried in this country and there is such a great diversity of opinion on many details, there is room for some degree of difference in methods, though not in principles.

"That would be impossible under an exclusively national system. And so I can say to you who have come from all parts of the country that not only will there have to be a federal law on unemployment insurance but state laws will also be needed.

"In January the great majority of the state legislatures will convene, as well as congress. You who are interested in seeing that unemployment insurance is established on a nation-wide basis should make your plans accordingly.

For Contributing System.

"We must not allow this type of insurance to become a dole through the mingling of insurance and relief. It is not charity. It must be financed by contributions, not taxes.

"What I have said must not be understood as implying that we should do nothing further for the people now on relief. On the contrary, they must be our first concern. We must get them back into productive employment and as we do we can bring them under the protection of the insurance system. Let us profit by the mistakes of foreign countries and keep out of unemployment insurance every element which is actuarially unsound.

"There are other matters with which we must deal before we shall give adequate protection to the individual against the many economic hazards. Old age is at once the most certain, and for many people the most tragic of all hazards. There is no tragedy in growing old, but there is tragedy in growing old without means of support.

Favors Old Age Pensions.

"As governor of New York, it was my pleasure to recommend passage of the old age pension act which, I am told, is still generally regarded as the most liberal in the country.

"In approving the bill I expressed my opinion that full solution of this problem is possible only on insurance principles. It takes so very much money to provide even a moderate pension for everybody that when the funds are raised from taxation only a 'means test' must necessarily be made a condition of the grant of pensions.

"I do not know whether this is the time for any federal legislation on old age security. Organizations promoting fantastic schemes have aroused hopes which cannot possibly be fulfilled. Through their activities they have increased the difficulties of getting sound legislation; but I hope that in time we may be able to provide security for the aged—a sound and a uniform system which will provide true security.

Disability Insurance.

"There is also the problem of economic loss due to sickness—a very serious matter for many families with and without incomes, and therefore an unfair burden upon the medical profession.

"Whether we come to this form of insurance soon or later on I am confident that we can devise a system which will enhance and not hinder the remarkable progress which has been made and is being made in the practice of the professions of medicine and surgery in the United States.

"In developing each component part of the broad program for economic security we must not lose sight of the fact that there can be no security for the individual in the midst of general insecurity.

General Security Foremost.

"Our first task is to get the economic system to function so that there will be a greater general security. Everything that we do with intent to increase the security of the individual will, I am confident, be a stimulus to recovery.

"At this time we are deciding on long time objectives. We are developing a plan of administration into which can be fitted the various parts of the security program when it is time to do so.

"We cannot work miracles or solve all our problems at once. What we can do is to lay a sound foundation on which we can build a structure to give a greater measure of safety and happiness to the individual than any we have ever known. In this task you can greatly help."

ROOSEVELT WILL UNVEIL CENOTAPH IN PIONEER RITES

Harrodsburg, Ky., Nov. 14.—(AP)—In this colonial town, "the Jamestown of the west," where white settlers and red men fought for mastery of the wilderness 160 years ago, thousands of Kentuckians traveling by automobile over modern highways will converge Friday for dedication by President Roosevelt of a pioneer monument.

Picturesque pioneer Memorial state park with its reproduction of the wooden stockade, blockhouses and log gates of old Fort Harrod will be the setting for the unveiling of the government's $100,000 granite monument. It commemorates the first permanent Anglo-Saxon settlement west of the Alleghenies and where George Rogers Clark of Virginia planned his conquest of the old northwest territory.

President Roosevelt is scheduled to speak at 9 a. m. [C. S. T.] and immediately after the ceremonies he will continue his trip to Tennessee to inspect the work of the Tennessee valley development project.

President Roosevelt will spend three busy days on his southern trip. He will reach Warm Springs on Sunday and will stay until Dec. 4 to take baths at the institution founded by himself to aid victims of infantile paralysis.

N. Y. BUILDING OWNERS HAVE UNTIL TODAY TO MEET UNION DEMANDS

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Unless the 60 building owners in the garment center who have refused to deal with the building service employès international union, local 32B, meet the workers' recognition, wage and hour demands by 9 a. m. tomorrow, a new strike will be called, James J. Bambrick, union president of the local, announced early today.

He also intimated that, in the event of the calling of a new strike of elevator operators and other building employès the walkout zone will be widened to include other business buildings and possibly apartment houses and hotels. For several days the union has held the threat of strike over the building owners in the financial district. Yesterday forty large buildings in the Wall street area were patroled by extra guards, among them the buildings of J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City bank, the Stock exchange, the Equitable Trust company and the Bank of Manhattan company.

LANDIS' NEPHEW RACING TO SIDE OF SICK FATHER

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Kenesaw Mountain Landis II. was racing here tonight by airplane and automobile to join his family at the bedside of his father, Frederick Landis, congressman elect from the Second district. The elder Landis, a Republican, who was elected to congress from his state in the recent election, is near death after a three week siege of pneumonia in the Case county hospital.

Kenesaw II. left the National Jewish hospital in Denver, where he himself had been undergoing treatment late this afternoon, when physicians reported there was small hope for his father's life. He boarded a United Airline place to Chicago and was to meet relatives there to motor to Logansport.

Physicians here said they were administering oxygen in a desperate final effort to save their patient's life.

RELIEF CLIENTS OF COUNTY WILL GET FREE MEAT

Five million pounds of fresh frozen veal and beef will be distributed to relief "clients" in Cook county within the next 60 days, in addition to the food purchased by relief families on their regular grocery and meat tickets, it was learned yesterday when the Illinois Emergency Relief commission signed a delivery contract with the Willett Company.

The meat has been kept in a cold storage plant by the Federal Surplus Relief corporation, and will be distributed to 300 retail meat markets to be turned over to the "clients." The markets make no charge for the service, hoping thus to attract the relief trade to their stores.

The Willett Company was the low bidder, offering to deliver the meat for 12½ cents per hundred pounds or a total of $6,250. In recent months the relief commission has similarly given away 3,000,000 pounds of slaughter house products received from the FSRC.

RUSSIA CALLS ALL MEN OF 22 YEARS TO SERVE IN ARMY

1,500,000 to Appear for Medical Examination.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 4.—[By courier and mail.]—In every city, town and village of soviet Russia from the Polish border to the Pacific and from the Arctic to the shores of the Black and Caspian seas, the borders of Persia, Afghanistan, British India, Chinese Turkestan, and Mongolia, are displayed red banners. They order all men who were born in 1912 to appear at the recruiting stations for military service. The banners were put up Sept. 1 and will remain there until the end of November.

In this period about 1,500,000 men, representing nearly 200 different nationalities or tribes and speaking 150 languages and dialects, will appear for examination. From this number the military authorities will select the most physically fit for military service.

Various Exemptions Listed.

The number selected usually averages about one-fifth of those examined, or in the present instance about 300,000. Aside from the physical test there are various exemptions, such as students in higher technical schools and men engaged in certain essential trades or professions. In cases where the man is the sole support of a family he may receive an exemption of one year, but rare is the case where total exemption may be obtained.

These recruits or conscripts, hundreds of whom now appear in the streets in their new, gray, long German style overcoats, constitute the raw material from which the soviet union builds its army. This army is officially stated as having a strength of 552,000 men. It is claimed that the number of men in uniform, including regular army, territorials, police militia, special G. P. U. [secret police], and frontier guards exceeds one million men. It is the most powerful force in Europe and Asia.

The period of service varies from three years in the infantry to four or five years in special branches such as artillery, air service, and the tank corps. Those in the more technical services receive higher pay.

Far East Troops' Pay Higher.

At the present soldiers in the far eastern army receive considerably higher pay than those stationed in the European division. Soviet military officers proudly declare that their scheme of military service makes a general mobilization unnecessary in the event of war. They insist the nation is mobilized at all times and on a war footing. This is obviously a singular situation in a communistic state, but the Russians claim they are surrounded and menaced by capitalistic class enemies, making preparedness necessary.

The soviet military authorities also claim that the mechanization of the Red army exceeds that of the United States and France, and possibly England. The tremendous concentration on the development of heavy industries to the neglect of almost everything else is concerned largely with the mechanization of the army and the perfection of the military machine.

The chief interest now and for some time in the future will be concerned with the strength and efficiency of the Red army in the far east due to the crisis with Japan. For practically a year following the Japanese occupation of Manchuria in September, 1931, it was stated in Moscow that since the soviet army was not sufficiently strong to oppose Japan in the east, the Russians, in consequence, would only put up nominal resistance in the event that the Japanese Kwantung army decided to take Vladivostok and the Amur and maritime provinces.

Strengthens Positions.

This probably is an exaggeration because Gen. Blucher, commander of the Red forces in the far east, began strengthening his position along the border immediately following the clash with the Chinese Manchurian forces in 1929. However, he did not receive much support from Moscow, only a free hand to do the best he could with material already available in Siberia.

The Japanese drive into the northeastern Chinese provinces in the fall of 1931 provided the shock that stirred Moscow officialdom to action. K. E. Voroshilov, commissar of war, hurried to the far east and conducted an investigation. In a short time Gen. Blucher had about 200,000 men, materials, and money.

Voroshilov, while in Vladivostok, investigated the little ship repairing and iron works that had existed there for many years but which had practically ceased operating. He decided that this establishment constituted one of the keys to Russia's defense plans. Hence, it was not long before this plant was humming with activity.

Engineering and technical talent and several brigades of so-called "shock" laborers were rushed to Vladivostok and the management, including communist party officials in the city, were promised rewards if the plant was brought up to the required state of efficiency as a military establishment. There also was the threat of punishment for all concerned in the event of failure. The reorganization was completed, according to the "plan," and the rewards were distributed.

The name of the plant was changed to the Voroshilov Iron works and a large autographed photograph of the war commissar was installed in the main office along with pictures of the local triumvirate that operates the plant—namely: the director, the secretary of the branch of the communist party and the secretary of the local labor union. The plant now employs a minimum of 3,000 laborers, under direct orders from the war ministry.

Four or five of the fifteen Red army divisions in the far east are stationed in the Vladivostok-Khabarovsk sector. The remainder is scattered. There are a dozen batteries of heavy artillery and each regiment has a minimum of ten field guns.

This army is equipped with fifty heavy guns, 500 field guns, 500 light mortars, about 400 light and a few heavy tanks, between 4,000 and 5,000 machine guns, and close to 500 airplanes.

Large Border Defense Guard.

In addition there is at least one division of G. P. U. special border defense guards. Most of them wear black lether uniforms. Many are mounted.

Then, too, there are a number of oriental troops in the army, particularly Coreans in the Vladivostok sector. There also is at least one division of Mongolian cavalry further west in the Chita-Irkutsk sector. Large reserves of fuel oil are stored at secret bases along the frontier. It also is rumored that several chemical plants for the production of poison gas have been erected.

The seriousness of the war crisis is best exemplified in the almost continuous "gas defense" drills held in Vladivostok, Khabarovsk, Blagoveschchensk and other border towns and villages. In Vladivostok and Khabarovsk every man and woman and each child above the age of 10 must have a gas mask which is purchased from the government. When night air defense maneuvers are held in the Vladivostok sector residents found on the streets after the warning signal of an attack has been given are regarded as having been "gassed" by Japanese planes. Every such person is picked up by a Red Cross detachment and taken to a field hospital for the remainder of the night.

There are many sailors between Vladivostok harbor and the Ussuri, Sungari, and Amur river boundaries and even as far inland as the Lake Baikal district. They constitute the evidence of soviet naval power. There are said to be many speedy torpedo boats on all the navigable streams.

Even the women may be regarded as potential soldiers. All youths of both sexes are instructed in the use of arms. There are groups of the so-called Voroshilov "sharpshooters" in the far east, comprising young men and women.

In this manner, plus an extensive agricultural and industrial development auxiliary to the military establishment, Russia has overcome its strategical handicaps in the far east.

False Securities Sale Is Alleged.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Union Trust company of Pittsburgh, known as a Mellon institution, today was charged by the government with filing "a false and fraudulent income tax return" for 1930 in a tax action demanding a $218,333 payment plus a 50 per cent penalty.

In supporting its claim, the government listed eight transactions in 1931 as evidence that all were "a part of a false and fraudulent course of conduct on the part of said Union Trust company." Among the 1931 transactions were two "accommodation" deals with Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, whom the government already has charged with income tax frauds.

Wash Sales Charged.

Officials said the Union Trust action was the first fraud case brought against an institution. The fraud charge was made in an answer today before the board of tax appeals to the trust company's denial of an additional assessment of $218,333 levied against the Pittsburgh concern during the Hoover administration. With the addition of the fraud allegation went the treasury's claim for a 50 per cent penalty.

The treasury, through Robert H. Jackson, counsel for the internal revenue bureau, said that in 1930, with a net income approximating $4,500,000 meaning an income tax of $540,000, the Union Trust company "devised a scheme to conduct a fictitious sale and repurchase of certain securities . . . for the purpose of creating an appearance of a loss theron and to report the same to the government as a real loss for the purpose of deceiving the government and thereby evading its income tax liability."

Names 16 Directors.

The scheme referred to was the sale of securities to the Union Savings bank "in form only." The treasury said the savings bank was 98 per cent owned by the Trust company, that H. C. McEldowney, $130,000 a year president of the Union Trust, served without added compensation as president of the savings bank and that R. B. Mellon was vice president of both institutions.

The treasury said these 16 directors of the savings bank also were directors of the trust company: R. B. Mellon, W. L. Mellon, Richard K. Mellon, Senator David A. Reed, J. Frederick Byers, Arthur V. Davis, Childs Frick, James H. Lockhart, Lewis A. Park, William B. Schiller, George W. Crawford, Henry C. Fownes, Roy A. Hunt, J. Marshall Lockhart, Henry C. McEldowney, and George E. Shaw.

55 COTTON FARMERS FACE DEATH IN RUSSIA FOR CROP SABOTAGE

TASHKENT, U. S. S. R., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Fifty-five cotton farmers were ordered to trial today before the Supreme court of Uzbekistan for alleged contra-revolution and sabotage in connection with the state of the cotton crop.

The court order followed an investigation by the people's commissariat of domestic affairs. The accused will be tried under a law which provides the death penalty for the misappropriation or destruction of state property. Under this law several Kulaks who interfered with the operation of collective farms in Siberia and European Russia have already been shot this year.

Uzbekistan has fulfilled only 60 per cent of the cotton plan for this year, chiefly because, it was alleged, men had refused to pick cotton, claiming it was woman's work.

Turkestan Rebels Renew Fight; General Wounded

LANCHOW, Kansu Province, China, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Reports from Chinese sources here today said serious internal disturbances have broken out in eastern Sinkiang, or Chinese Turkestan. They said that Gen. Kaszeling, governor of Kashgar, was seriously wounded when insurgents attempted to slay him. Gen. Kaszeling's troops were said to have begun moving against the rebels.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Remedy at Home

No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

A TRIUMPH OF CENSORSHIP.

The fourth volume of Lloyd George's memoirs has aroused bitter controversy in England. Four hundred thousand British lives were squandered at Passchendaele in 1917, the war-time premier says, merely to satisfy the "vanity and insane egotism" of the late Field Marshal Haig, the British commander.

Lloyd George says Haig promised that the losses in the operation would not be heavy. The cabinet was willfully and skilfully kept in the dark and thus was unable to prevent or stop the carnage. Haig after a time realized that he had blundered, Lloyd George intimates, but persisted in the attack, hoping that the Germans would break and he would then not have to confess his ghastly error.

Naturally Earl Haig's friends have sought to defend him, but their task has not been an easy one. The prospects of success were none too bright at the jump-off at Passchendaele. The continuation of the futile assault day after day when the front was a sea of mud in which men and equipment were hopelessly mired seems today to have been sheer madness.

It was no accident that the public, and for that matter the British government itself, did not know the facts in 1917. Lloyd George says Haig concealed the truth. Lloyd George might have gone a step farther and said that the British military censorship was organized with a view to preventing the truth from being known then or at any other time during the war. The British army was cursed with an aristocratic tradition. The high command fancied itself composed of the best brains and purest spirits in the nation. It, therefore, could not tolerate the idea of subservience to a government composed of mere civilians.

To preserve its freedom of action, the high command surrounded the front with an impenetrable wall of silence. The American censorship was bad enough though designed only to prevent important information from reaching the enemy. The British censorship was devised to keep information from the British public and government first and the enemy incidentally.

The 400,000 lives sacrificed at Passchendaele are the measure of success of the censorship. Without the censorship the slaughter never could have continued. If the enemy had known every secret of the British dispositions, he could have inflicted no such losses on the British army as were exacted by the censor.

TOLEDO AND ITS NEW GOVERNMENT.

The voters of Toledo, O., have decided in favor of the city manager form of government. The decision seems to have been based partly on the inability of the mayor and city council to reestablish the city's finances on a sound basis and partly on the success of Cincinnati's city manager experiment.

Toledo's venture will succeed provided the spirit as well as the form of Cincinnati's new model government is copied. Cincinnati has good government because its decent citizens have been organized to support good administration. Given such an organization of citizens, any form of government is likely to perform acceptably.

The character of a city's government is determined by the character of the managing committee of the party which names the government officials. The executive committee of the Charter party in Cincinnati is composed of able and honorable men who have succeeded in holding a fighting organization together and getting out the vote on election days. That is why Cincinnati has good government and it is the only important reason. The election of the councilmen at large and by proportional voting has been helpful, but without the Charter party organization the reforms would have been meaningless.

THE FRONTIER NUISANCE.

Our Canadian neighbors have made a very friendly gesture recently. Hereafter an American tourist when entering Canada may carry with him, duty free, a carton or box of his favorite brand of cigarets or cigars. The previous limit was just half of this amount. Further, he may take along a camera, either the still or moving picture type, with a reasonable supply of films or plates; a typewriter, camp equipment, hunting dogs, ammunition, gasoline for 300 miles or even two or three days' supply of food. Formerly [illegible] was required to make cash deposit at the frontier equal to the duty and taxes on all cameras, camp equipment, etc., and pay duty on ammunition. The deposit system also applied to firearms, but under the new arrangement it is merely necessary to obtain a permit to carry arms. The single exception is the automatic pistol, the importation or possession of which has always been prohibited even to Canadian citizens.

The skeptic probably will insist that the objective is to encourage tourists to enter Canada for the benefit of Canadian industry—hotels, transportation facilities, and the like—but this is beside the question. The fact remains that a frontier nuisance will be largely removed for those who wish to vacation under the flag of our northern neighbor.

Now that liquor is no longer contraband, we wonder if the inconvenience and indignity of search could not be virtually abandoned save in cases where a person is carrying a suspiciously large supply of baggage. There is very little incentive for amateur smuggling, and the handbag route scarcely would pay the professional. The average passenger will not object to displaying the grips he is carrying nor to answering the usual question, "Have you anything to declare?" He does object, however, to the rummage through his personal belongings, the obvious intent of which is to disprove his statement. We are not suggesting that the right of search be taken from the officers. That should be retained as a threat, but the routine inspection of the contents of every piece of baggage might well be discontinued on both sides of the border.

HOLC CASH GIVES OUT.

The Home Owners' Loan corporation is out of money or will be by the time it has granted a million of the 1,760,000 applications on file or acted upon. The corporation had three billion dollars and with this great fund cannot go much more than half the distance. Distressed home owners who fail to get the relief their neighbors got, and who feel that in justice they should, will naturally insist that there is no excuse for the discrimination. If what the corporation has already done is any measuring stick for what it can be urged to do, another three billion would be required to remove the inequalities as between citizens and give B what has been given to A.

This is the predicament of the government everywhere. It faces the demand of the veterans, whom it cannot answer logically, for two billions. Mr. Hopkins of the Federal Emergency relief has 17,025,000 men, women and children on his lists receiving federal, state or local aid. This is one-sixth of the population and the government is faced with the continuance of that.

Although the exhaustion of available resources can be pretty well estimated in point of time, the satisfaction of the demands upon the public funds cannot be. The demands increase as the funds diminish.

REQUEST FOR INFORMATION.

It is a truism of political science that the budget is the essence of government. It follows that a knowledge of the financial condition of the government is the essence of intelligent citizenship in a democracy. No citizen can hope to make an appraisal of public officials who does not know what they have done and are doing with respect to revenue and expenditures.

So far as the local governments of Chicago are concerned, the county treasurer has issued frequent statements of taxes received and delinquencies, but, valuable as these statements have been, they have not supplied all the information required. In addition, the controler of each of the principal governments within the county should issue a monthly or weekly statement showing total revenue received and expenditures in the fiscal year. Both items should be broken down under convenient classifications. Comparisons with the previous year might be added for good measure.

The county treasurer's figures have served to inform the citizen on the operations of the revenue system, but they do not show receipts of the individual governments from fees and borrowing and they do not show whether expenditure by the governments has been kept in harmony with receipts. These facts are of immense importance and should be published regularly. In addition, at least twice a year an inventory of trust fund investments should be made public.

What has been said here should not be read as a reflection upon the financial management of any or all of the local governments in Cook county. Certainly their financial statements are vastly superior to those of the federal government, which have become very nearly meaningless thanks to the deceptive accounting system now employed. Chicago in recent years has provided an object lesson in sound financial management to other governments, federal, state, and local, and should maintain its leadership by providing frequent and easily understood statements of its financial position.

PRAGMATISM QUESTIONED.

[Baltimore Sun.]

The technique of "learning by doing" has become so much a part of our educational equipment that it is something of a shock to discover that it has its critics. Among them is Prof. William E. Hocking of Harvard, who in a recent lecture in Cleveland took exception to the current assumption that training can be complete if it is confined to practice in doing things, assuming that feelings and ideas will follow as a matter of course. Mr. Hocking does not believe that this is true. "Learning by doing," he insists, "is the subhuman method of learning; animals must learn that way, for they have no other way. They cannot live in the world of ideas. But man can."

This is not to say, of course, that there is any antithesis between learning to build a boat and the "world of ideas." Prof. Hocking merely means to say that the "learning by doing" method is not enough. He believes, for example, that, as between "the dull statement that Columbus sailed with three caravels" and an elaborate construction of three model caravels by the class, the former is better, because the building of the models is likely to engross the interest to the exclusion of an imaginative concern for the voyage of Columbus. "The effort to import action into school for each step in learning was a psychological mistake," Dr. Hocking believes, because it "interfered with the development of that mental power which nature gave to man as a substitute for universal activity, his imagination."

Dr. Hocking has the courage of his convictions. He believes that "arithmetic is the worst spoiled subject in the modern curriculum and the most devastated by the literalities of doing," and that even the necessary rudimentary training in the "three R's" can be so conducted that "a sense of the total significance of life and of the world" is kept alive. If we cannot do that we would do better to close our schools altogether, he thinks. And, when one recalls what delight the Greeks and philosophers generally have found in "numbers," it is extraordinary that arithmetic should ever have become dull. Perhaps the Harvard professor is right and we work too many sums and talk too little about these fascinating ratios.

IN WHICH ALADDIN CHUCKS HIS LAMP.

He was prowling along the shore of good old Lake Michigan when I saw him. He looked strange and somewhat disheveled as though he had been sleeping all night on a bench in Lincoln Park. He came up to me and I deliberated whether he was a panhandler and I would give him a suspender button, or if he was a deserving case and should have a dime to get a small snort of hootch.

"Good morning!" said the stranger; "you may not recognize me, but I am Aladdin, the very same Aladdin you read about in the Arabian Nights. I have come back for a visit to the earth and I have brought with me my famous lamp and ring. You remember, all you have to do to get any wish you care to make is to rub the ring against the lamp and two lovely genii bob right up out of the ground and get you anything you want. It's pretty cold here these nights, but I don't want to rub the lamp with the ring any more; it bores me to tears. So I'll sell it to you for a thousand pieces of gold."

"Mind your eye, Aladdin!" said I. "If the government hears you talking about gold you'll go to a federal jail. I don't want your old lamp, anyhow. It may have been hot stuff in the old days, but nowadays we do magic without it."

"But listen," said Aladdin. "This is a big country of yours; it must take days to travel, let's say, from New York to Miami, down in Florida. How would you like to leave New York right after breakfast one morning and be in Miami for breakfast the next? Now with my lamp and ring and the two faithful genii you could easily do it in twenty-four hours. What say?"

"You give a pain, Aladdin," I told him; "a guy did that in an aeroplane Tuesday in six and a half hours."

"Gosh!" said Aladdin; "well, after all that's an easy trip. But suppose you wanted to go away out west. Think of the high mountains, the vast plains, and the great deserts. It would take you weeks to do it. How'd you like to tell my genii to pick you up and have you walking down a street in San Francisco by breakfast time tomorrow? Now how about it?"

"Too slow," I said: "we do it now in seven hours."

"You amaze me!" gasped Aladdin. "But let me think of some other trick my two cunning little genii lads can do. Ah! listen. Suppose you got hungry and yearned about catching a delicious salmon away out where rolls the Oregon. Think of the journey it would take to get there, the long time it would take to catch the salmon and scale it and clean it and cook it. Now with the magic lamp when you wanted to dine on salmon——"

"When I want to dine on salmon," said I. "I go to a shelf in the kitchen, take down a can, open it up and eat all I want."

"Gee, gosh!" said Aladdin a little discouraged. "But suppose you wanted to talk to somebody in London or Paris or Timbuctoo. And talk to him just as though he was as close to you as I am. Now with my lamp and ring——"

"Don't need 'em," said I. "I'd just go to the telephone and tell central and I'd be talking with 'em in no time at all."

"You amaze me," said Aladdin, "but I've thought of a place where you could use my lamp to great advantage. Suppose you are sitting alone in your home. All is quiet, none of your friends have come in to see you——"

"All right by me," I said. "When they come they drink up my gin."

"That isn't the point," said Aladdin. "Here's what I was getting at. Suppose you didn't want to leave your house, you didn't even want to get out of your easy chair, and yet you would like to hear, let us say, a great symphonic concert away off in Cincinnati or in Minneapolis or Philadelphia, or a grand opera company singing in New York, or the king of England speaking in London, or——"

"I'd turn the dial of the radio," said I, "and I'd get any of those right away. And I wouldn't have to bother about rubbing your silly old lamp and feel sure that your two genii boys were in the back room drinking up all my Scotch."

"Well," sighed Aladdin, "I can't seem to interest you in my wonderful lamp. But here, wait a minute! Let's get away from little personal things and get to the big stuff. Suppose you wanted to move mountains, to make great lakes of water appear where there were forests and fields before——"

"You mean the Tennessee Valley authority thing," I interrupted. "The government's doing what you said right now, but it doesn't want your lamp, they don't want your genii doing it. They want to put thousands of boys on the job so as to spend a lot of easy money."

"Listen!" said Aladdin; "my two cute little genii summoned by the magical lamp and ring would think up all sorts of wonderful things—how to abolish mortgages and debts and poor crops and low prices, and likewise they would dream marvelous dreams and make them all come true. How about it?"

"Oh, the Brain Trust down in Washington," said I, "can dream more dreams in a minute than your two slaves of the lamp could dream in a hundred years. And they've abolished everything except death and taxes. I'd like to have 'em abolish taxes but not death. That seems about the only escape we've got left."

"Well," admitted Aladdin sadly, "my magic lamp used to be the cat's eyebrows, but it doesn't seem to be of much use these days. To hell with it!" And he threw the lamp into the lake.

HOME CARE OF TUBERCULOSIS.

THE recent onslaught on the white plague made by educational forces, physicians, and health agencies has borne abundant fruit. Not only has it been demonstrated that tuberculosis can be cured, but it has been shown conclusively that sanitarium treatment is in most instances preferable to home management.

The sanitarium provides daily training of the patient in the type of care that he needs. It centers on him the activities of physicians, nurses, and specially trained attendants. It removes the patient from social excitement, worries of the home, and constant anxiety about members of the family. Furthermore, in the sanitarium complete control of the patient is possible. In the home the patient sometimes asserts his will power at the expense of his welfare.

Following the lead of a few notable centers in the treatment of the disease, tuberculosis sanitaria have been established in many states and in most of our cities. These care for an aggregate of tens of thousands of cases. Nevertheless there are probably as many, if not more, patients known to be suffering from tuberculosis who are cared for in their homes.

The principles of treatment are the same whether the patient is in a sanitarium or in his home. If home care is undertaken [1] patient and family must adjust themselves to a situation that will last for months or even years; [2] household and business cares must be arranged so that the patient will be freed from all anxiety and responsibility; [3] the patient must have a comfortable room where he can be isolated from the balance of the family; the room should be made as attractive as possible and be well ventilated; [4] intelligent nursing is necessary and published information is available for the patient's family regarding disposal of sputum, sterilization of utensils, care of the bed linen, etc.; [5] children must not be permitted access to the patient's room.

Naturally instructions from the physician will include a general outline of treatment. It is rest, more rest, and complete rest. Instruction will need to be given in the recognition of certain symptoms. Fever, loss of weight and appetite, and nervous irritability are usually evidences of the absorption of toxins incident to the growth of the tubercle bacilli and the destruction of tissue. Absorption is increased by activity and decreased by quiet.

Rest for the body usually means rest for the lungs. In the average individual the lungs expand 25,000 times or more in each 24 hours. The more frequent the expansion and the more vigorous th stretching of the air sacs the slower will healing proceed. Excessive respiration, due to excitement or activity, may sweep tubercle bacilli from old foci into new areas, thus spreading the disease. Rest in bed flat on the back or on the affected side is the rule. The patient is not permitted to read or write, and may have but few visitors. He must not feed himself as long as there is fever. The arms must not be raised away from the chest even to permit the patient to comb his hair or brush his teeth.

As toxic symptoms disappear, and then only when the physician advises, the patient may feed himself. Gradually, after improvement has begun, there may be a limited amount of reading, writing, or some type of occupational therapy. Activity on the part of the patient is one of the chief factors in retarding recovery.

The public is reasonably well informed on the value of a nutritious diet, one that appeals to the patient and includes all varieties of food. Sufficient food should be given to maintain the patient at more than his standard weight.

Even though ideal conditions may be set up in the home, many patients will do better in the long run in a sanitarium. Nevertheless, tuberculosis can be managed in the home with intelligence and with as strict attention to details as is the rule in sanitarium management.

GEOGRAPHIC TONGUE.

B. P. writes: What is geographic tongue? My tongue has an area on one side where the coating comes off and in a week or ten days it is normal. What can correct this?

REPLY.

The name geographic tongue has been used whenever patches on the tongue are set off by irregular raised lines. The cause is due to hot or irritating foods or to infection with a fungus. The remedy lies in the use of mouth washes such as hydrogen peroxide or sodium perborate. Sometimes tannate of glycerin applied to the affected areas helps. Bismuth subnitrate in powder form may be dusted on the area several times daily. These substances are harmless if swallowed.

Greek literature gives us pictures of rodeos which were as exciting as any we have today. Riding steers and throwing the lariat were popular sports; and horseback riding was an ancient art. The Greeks threw steers and bulls with their bare hands, just as the rodeo cowboys do today, while cheering audiences spurred them on.

CRY OF DISTRESS.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—I want buckwheat cakes. I require buckwheat cakes. I must have buckwheat cakes! Where can I get them?

I go daily into a restaurant—a different restaurant—and I order buckwheat cakes and I pay for buckwheat cakes and I don't get buckwheat cakes. And why not? Because the real article no longer seems available. It seems to be lost in history. It seems extinct.

The buckwheat cakes I get today are of two kinds—sponge rubber and a fair quality of soft lether. I will admit that occasionally I really do have use for these products. But I don't go into a restaurant for them and order buckwheat cakes!

Where are the buckwheat cakes of yesteryear? Lost in antiquity. Lost up on the old farm. Lost irretrievably; and no reward offered in the "Lost and Found" column will bring them back.

Mr. Editor: Can you do anything about it? Can the farm board do anything about it? Can the Washington brain trust do anything about it?

I am getting pretty desperate. If you cannot help, I am going to try just one thing more: I am going to write Gertrude Stein for her recipe for buckwheat cakes and eat whatever comes of it.

PENETRATING CARTOONS.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—I noticed in the Nov. 10 issue you allowed several of the New Dealers to run off at the mouth and give Carey Orr a good tongue lashing. In view of this evidence that Orr is able to get under the skin of these dumb clucks, I think he deserves a raise in salary.

I have yet to meet a New Dealer of the rank and file who knows anything about how our liberties were won, nor the hundreds of years it took to wrest them one by one from a very reluctant government. Nor have I met one who realizes how cheaply but how surely he is frittering them away. From this it is proof that their reading must be confined to pictures; therefore more power to the point of Carey's pencil. H. E. P.

WHY NOT?

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Why not move the national capitol of the United States to Chicago, and make Washington, D. C., an auxiliary capitol? The ideal place for it would be in Grant park.

INEXCUSABLE ERRORS.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Has THE TRIBUNE formulated a rule against ever giving Washington and Lee university a break or credit when credit is due?

A while back I noticed your belittling remarks regarding the Princeton-Washington and Lee game, and was pleased that you had the courtesy to publish the protest of Harry E. Godwin in this column.

If you will look over Princeton's very impressive victory list for this season to date you will not find an opponent which so nearly clipped the Tiger's claws as did the Generals from Washington and Lee.

Now here is what I consider ample grounds for another big loud squawk: In today's sport section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE appears an article entitled "Maryland at Indiana," which states that the Old Liners of Maryland have played four games to date, Navy, Virginia Tech, Florida, and Virginia, losing a close one to Navy, 9 to 6, and that, by pictures, Navy's winning touchdown was proven to have been made on an out of bounds play.

And here are two glaring errors against your editorial staf which should be penalized about 15 yards: In the first place, the score of the Navy-Maryland game was 16 to 13 instead of 9 to 6, and in the second place, on Oct. 6, 1934, Washington and Lee played Maryland and licked them 7 to 0, and there were no motion picture protests of that touchdown being made on an out of bounds play.

If you step on our toes about once more, I guess we will have to come down there and spell Washington and Lee across the sitting portions of your staf with a paddle or somethin'.

THE MICROVIVARIUM.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—Recent issues of your paper have informed me of a lively interest in Chicago in the possibility of keeping the Microvivarium, one of the best of the science features in the recent Century of Progress, as a permanent installation, possibly in one of the museums. It is to be hoped that this may be made possible somehow, for the Microvivarium is not only one of the best things ever devised for the popularization of science, but can also be used as a most powerful instrument in high school and college education in biology. In its way it is as important a development as the Planetarium. It would be a fine thing if the city that got the first planetarium in America should also add the distinction of having the first permanently installed microvivarium.

RADIO DIRECTOR IS JAILED FOR AN ATTACK ON JUDGE

Seek Announcer on Same Contempt Charge.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Roy L. Albertson, managing director of radio station WEBR, was in Erie county jail tonight after being found guilty of criminal contempt for a verbal attack on a Supreme court justice. Police were seeking Joseph Glass, an announcer, on the same charge.

Albertson was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $250 this morning by Justice Alonzo G. Hinkley after the latter ordered his arrest for statements broadcast Nov. 5. The court also ordered Albertson to serve 30 days additional if the fine is not paid.

Held Guilty of Contempt.

The justice, after hearing the testimony of Frank H. Kohler that he took stenographic notes of the broadcast, held that Albertson was guilty of contempt for charging Hinkley with "mishandling" a 148 million dollar suit involving the Niagara Share Corporation of Maryland.

Michael Cahill of Corning, attorney for Albertson, announced he would appeal after his motion for a dismissal was denied.

"Thank you," Albertson said when sentenced.

"You are welcome," the jurist replied.

Tells What He Said.

At the opening of the court session Justice Hinkley read the warant accusing Albertson of causing to be published over WEBR this comment:

"Positive proof that the power trust controls our Supreme courts was given last fall when Justice Alonzo G. Hinkley, who a few days before had been given a bipartisan nomination through the power trust attorney, Daniel J. Kenefick, shocked the intelligence of the people of this community by his gross misconduct on the bench in presiding at the trial of the Niagara Share lawsuit.

"Ye Olde Town Crier has been threatened with contempt of court unless I abandon my criticism of this Supreme court judge.

"This community would be treated to a real sensation if Ye Olde Town Crier ever was cited for contempt in connection with the way Justice Hinkley deliberately mishandled the Niagara Share case."

The case was brought by stockholders who charged "fraudulent and illegal acts by the management and board of directors" of Niagara Share. A total of 300 million dollars was asked originally, but this was reduced to 148 millions.

TWO OF FIRST ELGIN GRADS TO ATTEND GAME

Among Elgin academy alumni who will attend a homecoming celebration tomorrow and Saturday, built around the most successful football season in the school's history, will be two "old grads" over 90 years old who entered the school when it opened in 1854.

They are Walter H. Kimball, the second white child born in Elgin, and Frank B. Perkins, who was born near Barrington. After graduation from the academy, both men fought on the Union side in the civil war.

The homecoming program will include a bonfire rally on the campus tomorrow night, and a parade Saturday preceding the football game with Lake Forest academy, a traditional rival. A tea and art exhibition are to follow the game, and in the evening the homecoming dinner dance.

GINGER ROGERS AND LEW AYRES WED AT HOLLYWOOD CHURCH

The ceremony was simple. No motion picture cameras recorded the event; no parade of flower girls and pages preceded the march to the altar where the Rev. David Huber of the First Lutheran church read the ceremony.

O'KEEFE ASKS FEEDER BUSES FOR "L" LINES

State Representative Raymond T. O'Keefe of the 25th district yesterday filed with the Illinois Commerce commission a petition for an order requiring installation of an elaborate system of feeder buses by the elevated lines in the northwest area of the city and county. Under O'Keefe's plan the buses would operate from elevated stations.

Main thoroughfares on which the buses would run, enumerated in the petition, are: Oak Park, Austin, Laramie, Kostner, Central Park, Kimball, Wabansia, Sunnyside avenues, and Palmer and Roscoe streets. The buses would run also on connecting streets.

The petition said the service provided by the surface lines is not wholly adequate, and that the elevated lines have put in no extensions since 1908, except the special bus service which operated from the Roosevelt and Cermak road stations to the World's Fair.

The commission was asked to hold a hearing on Nov. 27.

GUARDIAN NAMED FOR GIRL WHO KILLED PARENTS

Miss Helen Friend, a social service worker, was appointed by Judge Frank H. Bicek in the Juvenile court yesterday as the permanent guardian of Anna Maietta, 15 years old. Anna shot both her parents to death while trying to protect her mother during a quarrel in their home at 1109 South Damen avenue last Aug. 29.

"Anna has recovered from the shock of her experience," Miss Friend told the court, "and is now a model child."

After she was exonerated by a coroner's jury Anna was placed under supervision in the home of her uncle Joseph Tortorici, 1960 Ogden avenue Yesterday she asked Judge Bicek to let her live with her three sisters and three brothers in the home of their grandmother, Mrs. Anna Tufano, at 757 South Damen avenue. Her plea was granted.

WOMAN STORE OWNER JAILED FOR GAS FRAUD

Convicted of defrauding the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company through use of a "jumper" on her gas meter, Mrs. Clara Bazarnick, 37 years old, owner of a candy store at 1332 North Lincoln avenue, was fined $100 by Municipal Judge Edward S. Scheffler in the Women's court yesterday. Unable to pay the fine, Mrs. Bazarnick was ordered to serve it out in the Bridewell.

The fraud was revealed Oct. 30 in the investigation of a fire that followed an explosion in the store a month earlier. Battalion Chief James Cowhey, Lieut. Patrick Dawson, and Fireman Leo Kelly were burned severely in the blast. The explosion, it was learned, resulted from ignition of accumulated gas that had escaped from a rubber hose that bypassed gas around the meter.

NEW DEALERS FIGHT UTILITIES FOR PROPAGANDA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The New Dealers today bit their own tails on the question of partisan propaganda at public expense.

The federal trade commission denounced private utility companies for using money "collected from the public" to pay for a propaganda campaign in favor of private ownership of utilities. But the commission itself is just completing a ruthless crusade against the practices of private utilities and it has paid for all its own propaganda out of taxes collected from the public.

In addition the Tennessee Valley authority and similar government bodies are continually using public tax money to propagandize their own type of government owned utility as against private utilities. The White House itself recently has published at public expense a New York state document purporting to show how much another TVA in that state might save consumers of electricity.

Free Speech Issue Raised.

Besides denouncing a practice of which every New Deal agency is guilty, the trade commission in the course of its crusade is held by some of its victims to have infringed the constitutional freedom of speech by heckling and quizzing persons who wrote articles in defense of private utilities.

Howell Wright, Cleveland attorney and former manager of the Cleveland Municipal Electric plant, challenged the commission's right to inquire too closely into his writing of articles attacking that plant.

Although the commission allegedly was trying to discover whether private utilities "inspired" his articles, many of the examiner's questions were aimed directly at his defense of private utilities. Mr. Wright took this as an infringement of his right to speak or write what he pleases.

"I frankly concede your right to write anything you please," William F. Hudson, presiding for the commission, told Mr. Wright when he objected to questions, "but I do not concede your immunity from questioning in regard to anything you have written."

For Quiz on Opinions.

W. T. Chatland, one of the examiners most active in the crusade against private utility propaganda, told reporters that he believed freedom of speech was not involved.

The commission, however, made no investigation of lobbies formed to fight private utilities or favor public utility ownership. At one stage the commission expressly forbade the utility companies from showing in their own defense the type and scope of propaganda which their enemies direct against them and which they had to fight.

"Who pays for all the government propaganda agencies?" Joel T. Baker, trade commission press representative, was asked.

ICKES URGES MORE BILLIONS FOR WORK AS OPPOSED TO DOLE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—A many billioned expansion of the public works program, designed eventually to absorb all direct relief roles, was strongly hinted today by Secretary Ickes.

As to the future, reports that as high as twelve billion dollars might be asked have drawn smiles from the President and repeated statements that no definite figures had been determined.

Writing "Jobs versus Dole" in the current issue of the magazine Today, Ickes said:

"Careful studies of the practical nature are now being made of the possibility of still further enlarging the public works program in a renewed drive against the depression, in a continued effort to take men from relief and put them into industry."

Ickes pictured three "great dreams" of public improvements: A transcontinental superhighway, better housing for the nation, and the conservation of soil and water resources by means of a program to prevent flood, drouth, and erosion.

"A public works program on some such basis," he asserted, "could absorb the energies of all our people on a self-respecting basis in widespread economic activity."

Hunt 25 Missing Ships; Gone from Fair Exhibit

Search was begun yesterday for twenty-five missing ships. The vessels are miniatures used in the display of water progress staged by the Casson-Craft Sales company in the Travel and Transport building at the World's Fair. The searchers are members of the public protection department of the Fair under Chief Charles H. Thurman. Disappearance of the four inch miniatures came to light when the Casson-Craft company filed a claim for $2,500 with its insurance company.

SEEK SCIENTISTS' HELP ON BONES FOUND IN BOXES

Pathologists at the University of Michigan may furnish a clew to the mystery of portions of a human skeleton found in a box within a larger box Tuesday on a sand dune near Frankfort, Mich.

Dr. F. J. Larue, coroner of Benzie county, ordered that the bones, which appeared to be from ten to fifteen years old, be sent to Ann Arbor for scrutiny by pathologists. He believed the bones were those of a person about 30 years old, of undetermined sex, about 5 feet 2 inches tall.

Dr. Alice Wynekoop, whose summer cottage is little more than a mile from where the box was found, was interviewed yesterday at Dwight reformatory, where she is serving twenty-five years for the murder of her daughter-in-law. Dr. Wynekoop said she could throw no light on the mystery.

SUPER AIRLINER BEING DESIGNED WILL CARRY 48

Double Power Plant Is One of Features.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—An airliner of the early future, a supership capable of intercontinental as well as transcontinental passenger, mail, and express service at high altitudes and with cruising speed of approximately 250 miles an hour, is taking shape on the drawing boards of engineers at the Curtiss-Wright Airplane company plant here. Wind tunnel tests of the model already have been made and stress calculations are now under way.

Has Double Power Plant.

Four engines providing power for high speed flight and safety for passengers, since the plane has been designed to fly on any two of the power plants, a sealed cabin for soaring to altitudes between 20,000 and 30,000 feet, and roomy seating or sleeping accommodations for 24 to 48 passengers are a few of the immediately outstanding points in the plans. The plane will land at no greater speed than the Douglas transport of today, and will have a decidedly more acute angle of climb.

This airliner will be no freak, nor are any untried theories or radical departures in design to be incorporated, say George Page, chief engineer, and C. W. Scott, his assistant, at the Curtiss-Wright factory on Lambert field. It is, they assert, simply a conservative development along lines made possible by new knowledge in aerodynamics, in metallurgy, in manufacture of internal combustion engines. Under the most favorable conditions it will be two years before the factory will be in position to put the ship on the market.

Delayed by Airmail Tactics.

Factory officials said plans for construction were proceeding slowly because of the "uncertain" airmail situation. The contracts under which airline operators are carrying airmail—the basis of their revenue—expire next May, and while they do not know what the New Dealers, who abrogated all existing contracts last February, will do in the near future, the operators are not purchasing new equipment. An observer who heard this explanation said: "Just another instance of the New Deal's benefits for American aviation."

In its exterior the superliner will be very similiar to the Boeing 247 or the Douglas DC2. It is a low wing monoplane. The engines will be faired into the wing, two on each side of the fuselage. The fuselage itself will be nearly round—a shape which best will bear the strain of flying stresses and of the expansion stresses occasioned by the sealed cabin. The landing gear will retract until it is completely concealed within the wing.

Wind Resistance Cut.

The ship will have a wing span of approximately 130 feet, the entire wing to be braced from within to eliminate the drag of external bracing. The fuselage will be approximately 90 feet long. Spars and skin will be of metal, probably 24ST allclad—an aluminum, steel compound. Flush riveting will be used to reduce drag.

Built airtight, the cabin will be fitted with air conditioning apparatus and with an oxygen pump which will maintain a pressure equal to approximately five pounds per square inch—the air pressure at 10,000 feet. Engineers have found that this pressure, although ten pounds less than sea level air pressure, is very comfortable for passengers.

The pilots' cockpit, in the nose of the fuselage, probably will not be sealed. It is essential that they be able to open windows for flight through bad weather, and it will be virtually impossible to seal the cockpit anyway because of the maze of control lines, and instrument lines leading into and out of the "office." Individual oxygen masks will be provided for pilot and co-pilot, and the cockpit will be heated and insulated against the cold as will the cabin.

Two Types Are Considered.

Each of the four engines is expected to deliver from 1,000 to 1,200 horse power. Two types are under consideration. One is the Vee type, chemicallly cooled motor, the other the standard radial type now so extensively used. Several motor manufacturers are already building suitable motors. The Gnome-Rhone company of France has already produced a 14 cylinder, double row radial engine which delivers 1,160 horse power.

Because of the extreme range of temperatures from the ground to 30,000 feet, even the radial motors, now air cooled, probably would be provided with chemical cooling systems to be used when flying at low altitudes.

These motors will raise a total load of 45,000 pounds. This includes a "pay load" of mail, passengers, and express of 8,000 pounds, nearly double that of the best transports in service today. It also will include gas and oil for a flight of 1,500 miles. As a sleeper plane the ship will carry 24 passengers, as a day "coach," 36.

One idea of the designers, according to Engineer Page, was that this ship should be able to take off and climb to cruising altitude on all four motors, then stop two of these motors and maintain a cruising speed on these two of nearly 200 miles an hour over a range of 2,400 miles.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The first installment of the British government's program for development of civil aviation was disclosed tonight by Sir Kingsley Wood, postmaster general.

Effective Saturday, a flat rate of 12 cents per half ounce will be introduced for letters dispatched over existing main empire air routes. This will mean a substantial reduction in most instances, notably correspondence destined for Malaya and South Africa, where the present charges are 24 and 20 cents, respectively.

In the cases of Palestine, Transjordan, Sudan, Egypt, Iraq, Syria, and Persia, the new rates will be 6 cents per half ounce.

Sir Kingsley said the postoffice has decided to adopt a broad policy of sending all first class internal mail by air wherever a saving in time can be achieved. Daily service in both directions will begin on Dec. 1 between London, Liverpool, Belfast, and Glasgow, and will be extended if successful.

KIDNAP HOAXER WINS FREEDOM ON COURT ORDER

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Rev. R. H. Askew, young "Four-Square Gospel" evangelist of Goldsboro, was acquitted by a directed verdict in federal court here today of charges of using the mails, telephone, and telegraph in attempting to collect $25,000 ransom for his own release last August after he had disappeared.

Judge I. M. Meekins dismissed the case after three defense witnesses had testified as to the mental capacity of the evangelist at the time he dropped from sight.

District Attorney J. O. Carr told Judge Meekins the government was not in position to refute the testimony of medical witnesses produced by the defense, especially the assertions yesterday by Dr. R. B. Miller of Golsboro that in his opinion Askew "was not responsible for what he was doing" at the time of his kidnaping hoax on Aug. 14.

BRITISH VESSEL RUNS AGROUND OFF CUBAN COAST

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 15 [Thursday].—(AP)—The British steamship Seven Seas Trader reported to the coast guard here early today it was aground off the Cuban coast and needed assistance. The position given by the ship was Southeast point, Long Island, in Crooked passage off Cuba.

The coast guard here said it had no information as to the number of persons aboard the ship. Officers of the coast guard said they referred the request for assistance to their headquarters and were informed the ship was out of their jurisdiction. They were not authorized to send a cutter to aid the steamer.

YOUTH PINNED BENEATH AUTO'S WRECKAGE DIES

Chester Bykowski, 21 years old, 2115 Haddon avenue, died at the county hospital last night of injuries he suffered Monday afternoon when the automobile on which he was riding overturned at West 40th street and South Artesian avenue, pinning him under the wreckage.

Bykowski was standing on the running board of a car driven by Richard Sheehan, 18 years old, 1519 West 51st street, when Sheehan attempted to turn a corner at a high rate of speed.

Sheehan was not held following the accident, but was ordered taken into custody by the Brighton Park police last night.

The death of Bykowski brought the 1934 Cook county trafic toll to 1,082.

PHONE BOOK LEVY IS ADMITTED BY CODE DIRECTOR

S. F. Beatty, director of the graphic arts code authority, admitted yesterday that the "telephone book method" is used in billing printers for code expenses when they fail to submit pay roll figures as a basis for the bills. He was replying to the statements made by E. C. Zimmerman of Zimmerman Brothers & Co., 4020 South Michigan avenue, who protested against the procedure.

"We have repeatedly asked all printing companies to submit to us their pay roll figures," Mr. Beatty said. "When they do not, we bill them on our estimate of their pay roll for a share of the cost of administering the code.

"If they are not satisfied with the estimate, all they have to do is to submit the correct figures to us and they will be sent a bill which has been altered accordingly. We want to give everybody all the chance in the world to comply with all code provisions. The penalty for nonpayment of code assessments is a fine of not more than $500, or up to six months imprisonment, or both."

ARMY ASKS 800 AIRPLANES, NAVY A NEW DIRIGIBLE

Military Budget Plans Are Bared.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—An expanded American air defense program took form today as the army air corps submitted budget requests for 800 new airplanes and the navy disclosed that it was considering construction of a new, but small, airship.

If approved, the air corps' plan would give the United States the largest and most up to date military aerial armada in the world. It envisions eventual acquisition of 2,400 new airplanes, 800 in the 1936 fiscal year.

At the same time there were indications that the war department wanted budget approval of $20,000,000 for mechanization and modernization of army equipment and $11,000,000 for anti-aircraft material to equip fully air defense regiments in the United States, Hawaii, Panama, and the Philippines.

500 Planes Replacement.

Of the army's 800 new planes, around 500 would be required annually to replace obsolescent or wornout ships. The remaining 300 would be the actual increase. Spreading purchases over three years, as the air corps plans, would give the army 2,400 planes of all types, against the present 1,400 fit for actual wartime use.

All 2,400 would cost around 100 million dollars, with estimates placing the outlay for the first year's program at about 36 million dollars. The high unit cost of approximately $45,000 was used in the figuring because of a preponderance of combat planes which would have to be fully equipped with armament, radio, and night flying devices.

Ask Training Dirigible.

In the navy, there was the usual division of opinion over the merit of aircraft. The bureau of aeronautics wanted a big airship to replace the Akron. The general board, so far, had failed to approve such a craft, limiting its recommendation to construction of a small dirigible for training.

Of about 2,500,000 cubic feet capacity, the training ship would be only slightly larger than the condemned Los Angeles and less than half the size of the Macon, the navy's only active airship.

Secretary of the Navy Swanson disclosed at a press conference that the navy was prepared to speed up its treaty strength construction program as much as 50 per cent should it become necessary.

Observers attached appreciable significance to the statement in view of negotiations now under way in London between spokesmen of the United States, Great Britain, and Japan preparatory to a general naval conference in 1935.

Push Building Program.

The navy secretary said his department was adhering to its program of laying down twenty-four more ships in the coming fiscal year as part of its plan to reach full treaty power by 1942. He said, however, that plans did not extend to increasing the navy beyond treaty limits and that even if there were such a plan he thought it would be unwise to discuss it.

More airplanes, surface ships, and men were held by the secretary to be of greater importance than replacing the Akron, sister ship of the Macon, which was destroyed at sea last year.

Swanson said the navy might send the Macon to Hawaii as part of fleet maneuvers next summer in the Hawaii-Alaska-Puget Sound area.

ROBBED FOR THE FIFTH TIME, STORE MANAGER FIGHTS; FATALLY SHOT

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Facing two guns held by a pair of robbers Clarence C. Drake, 44, manager of an A. & P. chain store in Ridgewood, Queens, was killed today. He had determined a year ago never to be robbed again. Drake had been held up on four previous occasions. This time the thieves fled empty handed.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company offered a reward of $5,000 for the capture and conviction of the gunmen, who had entered soon after Drake opened the store this morning. As one of them walked around the counter to the cash register Drake leaped upon the other. They fought. The second gunman joined against Drake. Drake fell back under a heavy blow and one of the robbers fired, wounding him in the abdomen. He died.

Thieves Get 7,400 Gun Shells at Onwentsia Club

Perhaps they were merely hunters with larcenous proclivities. But Chief of Police Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest fears they were shotgun bandits laying in a winter supply of ammunition. At any rate, they broke into the small building on the grounds of the exclusive Onwentsia club, on North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, used by the Lake Forest Gun club, and stole 7,425 shotgun shells. None of the other hunting equipment was disturbed. The club members do not keep their guns in the building.

BARNUM'S CIRCUS STRONG MAN IS DEAD AT AGE 85

'Sig. Lawanda' Proud of Physique to End.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Hughie Evans, 85 years old, known to circus goers as Sig. Lawanda, died early today at his Detroit home, 2714 12th street. Lawanda, the great, strong man, was so named by none other than Phineas T. Barnum, and his last illness was of but a few days' duration. He was the strong man to the very end and took pride in his physique.

Born in Bethlehem, Pa., he developed his wonderful strength as a young man while employed in the slate quarries of his native state.

Appeared First in Halls.

Early in life he capitalized his power by appearing in town halls, and later by joining wagon shows. It was in one of these small circuses that Barnum found him and staged a feature in which Lawanda lifted a horse by his teeth.

That was more than 50 years ago, Sig. Lawanda living in the intervening years as the greatest strong man of them all, although in later years he toured the country as a vaudeville artist. He led the "big top" in the latter years of his professional life after coming in contact with E. W. "Pop" Wiggins of Detroit, well known showman of the middle west. Wiggins' World of Wonders was touring the country and Sig. Lawanda was the outstanding headliner.

Never Loses Ability.

The years treated him kindly and he never lost the desire or ability to show his friends how he could touch the floor with the palms of his hands without bending his knees.

For many years before Detroit's old, well-known "Wonderland" was discontinued, Lawanda was a fixture, and for many years exhibited his power to thousands upon thousands of patrons.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Saturday morning, with burial in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

EX-TEACHER DIES AT 83.

MAJ. CARLOS AMES NAMED BY EX-WIFE IN ALIMONY CHARGE

Maj. Carlos Ames, former president of the city civil service commission, was accused yesterday by his divorced wife, Beulah, 5125 Kenwood avenue, before Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti of falling $5,500 behind in his alimony payments. The court gave Ames two weeks to answer a contempt citation and the next hearing was set for Dec. 6.

Mrs. Ames said that when she obtained a divorce Oct. 27, 1926, Ames was ordered to pay $225 a month alimony, in addition to a $5,000 cash settlement. In March, 1931, she said, he reduced the payments to $125 a month without court sanction. She was accompanied to court by her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Skecher, 22 years old, of Streator.

Ames' lawyer, Harold Schradzky, said his client had paid Mrs. Ames more alimony than she was granted. He will admit reduction of his payments, but will contend that he paid $100 a month to his daughter, the lawyer said.

Ames was a major in the world war. He was appointed civil service head in 1929 and was Republican candidate for sherif in 1930. He was married June 18, 1927, to Mrs. Mary Robertson of Owenton, Ky.

MRS. ANDREJKO DOESN'T GIVE A RIP FOR WRITS

William Andrejko, who owns a barber shop at 1600 Belmont avenue, sued his wife, Julia, for divorce in Circuit Judge Finnegan's court Tuesday, alleging she struck him on the head with a piece of gas pipe as he slept. Yesterday he got an injunction from Judge Finnegan, restraining his wife from molesting him.

The bandaged Andrejko and his lawyer, Benjamin H. Vanderveld, went to the barber shop to serve the writ, but returned almost immediately. They told Judge Finnegan that Mrs. Andrejko looked at the injunction, yelled, "To hell with the judge," struck her husband, bit his finger, and chased both out of the shop. Judge Finnegan issued a contempt order against the woman, returnable today.

L. WELLS FARGO OF EXPRESS CO. FAMILY IS DEAD

Seized with Heart Attack at Chicago Club.

Livingston Wells Fargo, 74 years old, whose family founded the historic Wells-Fargo Express company in the gold rush days of '49, died suddenly last night in his rooms at the Chicago club, where he had lived for more than thirty years.

Until his retirement twenty years ago to manage his extensive mining properties in the Mesabe iron range in northeastern Minnesota, Mr. Fargo was vice president of the old American Express company, successor to the Wells-Fargo company. His father, Charles Fargo, had held the same position. During the war the company and several others merged into the Railway Express Agency when the government took over management of the railroads.

Fails to Answer Phone.

Mr. Fargo was found dead in his rooms at 7 o'clock last night by an attendant after he failed to answer the telephone. He apparently had been seized with a heart attack. The manager of the club said that Mr. Fargo apparently anticipated such an attack, as he recently had given him the name of a sister to notify.

Mr. Fargo was born in Detroit, Mich., and moved here with his parents at the age of 7. He graduated from Williams college in 1882, and spent the next few years touring Europe. Returning he joined the American Express company, which was then headed by his father and two uncles, William G., at Buffalo, and James C., in New York.

Named for Founders.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Frederick R. Wheeler of Redwood City, Cal., and Mrs. Henry G. Lord of Brookline, Mass., and a niece, Mrs. William Bayard Sturgis, wife of the president of the Sturgis Engineering company.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Mrs. Sturgis following the arrival Sunday of Mrs. Wheeler.

BROTHER TO SAY MASS AT MOTHER SUPERIOR'S RITES

Funeral services for Mother Superior Francis Edward of St. Felicitas convent, 1516 East 84th street, will be held this morning at 9 o'clock from her home in Monroe, Mich. A brother, Father Joseph Quinlan will say mass.

The mother superior had begun her fifth year at the convent. When she became ill on Nov. 4 it was the first time she had missed a day from her duties in twenty-four years of teaching in parochial schools. She came here from Detroit, Mich., where she taught at St. Agnes and Annunciation schools. Mother Francis Edward also taught at St. Matthew's school, Flint, Mich., and St. Vincent's in Akron, O.

Two sisters also survive. They are Sister Bertrand and Sister Patricia of the order of St. Joseph.

J. J. Winters, Ex-Mayor of Carbondale, Ill., Dies

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The University of Chicago and the Northwestern university are to resume competition—not on the gridiron but at the microphone. Kay Kyser, orchestra leader at the Blackhawk, is planning a Campus Radio contest with the coöperation of the student newspapers of the two universities. There will be separate contests for men and women and the winners will receive loving cups and make an appearance on Kay Kyser's Saturday night "Big Ten" broadcasts over W-G-N.

Preliminary auditions will be held on Monday afternoons. A half dozen aspirants will be selected to compete on Friday evening, the audience to determine the favorites by appaluse. The two institutions are to alternate on successive Friday evenings. On the night Northwestern is competing the Chicago winners for the preceding week will appear with Kyser, and vice versa. Duration of the contest will depend on the interest.

Herbie Kay's orchestra will return to the air locally over WBBM-CBS from the Edgewater Beach hotel on Dec. 15, succeeding Clyde Lucas. Kay has been engaged for the holiday season because of his popularity with students and young people generally. Bernie Cummins, a former W-G-N favorite, will follow Kay early in the new year.

Joe Penner's radio show will originate in Chicago on Sunday, Nov. 25. Penner has been engaged for an appearance at the Chicago theater the week of Nov. 23. Joe will appear in person during the same week that his first full length picture, "College Rhythm," is shown at the theater. Picture also features Lanny Ross.

Walter Wilson, known familiarly to thousands of children as Uncle Bob, will move his "Curb Is the Limit" safety club to WIND on Dec. 3, when KYW moves to Philadelphia. Wilson is one of the real pioneers of radio. He has conducted his children's program for twelve years and during that time has enrolled more than 765,000 boys and girls in his club. His program of four S's—smiles, stories, songs, safety—has been widely indorsed by parental, civic, and religious organizations.

Paul Whiteman is to introduce a network newcomer on his Music Hall broadcast tonight. He is Charles John Sullivan, a young Irish tenor. . . . India's famed Taj Mahal is the locale of a new series of oriental mysteries entitled, "The Phantom Spoilers," to make its appearance next Monday at 9:45 p. m. over WBBM. . . . Phil Baker will not return to Chicago for his NBC broadcasts. He has been engaged to appear in the Broadway production, "Calling All Stars."

Mr. Martinelli at Record Best in 'Trovatore'

"Il Trovatore," opera in four acts and eight scenes by Verdi; presented by the Chicago Grand Opera company at the Civic Opera house Wednesday, Nov. 14.

THE CAST:

Leonora	Franca Somigli
Inez	Ruth Mills
Count Di Luna	Carlo Morelli
Manrico	Giovanni Martinelli
Azucena	Eleanor La Mance
Ferrando	Guido Guidi [début]
Ruiz, in Manrico's S'vice	Lodovico Oliviero
An Old Gypsy	Maurice Sciapio
Conductor	Gennaro Papi

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Back to the days where opera meant fine, wholesome melody, and an operatic performance meant a dramatic and fiery rendition of the same. For "Il Trovatore" is nearly eighty-one years old. According to dating it is quite a time since its first performance. According to spirit, it is in its jocund youth, as the Chicago Grand Opera company proceeded to prove last night.

You will walk into many performances of opera in many lands before you find an artist able to come anywhere near Mr. Martinelli when it comes to singing dramatic tenor rôles. His throat seems to rejoice in the task, no matter how difficult, as his audiences rejoice in the performances thereof. Verdi had a dream of glory, and Martinelli is its present day interpreter.

And you would have found last night that there are American artists entirely fit to sing Verdi's music as Verdi himself would undoubtedly have liked to hear it. Miss Somigli was one; Miss La Mance was another. Miss Somigli won the audience when she sang one of the famous soprano arias of all time, "Tacea la notte;" Miss La Mance was entirely at the level of her associates in the cast when she sang the contralto "Stride la vampa."

In fact the principals of the cast formed themselves into a quintet of high order, because Mr. Morelli confirmed all the good opinions formed of him in previous performances, and Mr. Guidi was promptly given a high rating when he sang his basso excerpt in the first scene.

LARGE SOCIETY PARTIES

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Socially as well as artistically the 1934 season of the Chicago Grand Opera company continued at an important tempo last night. Large parties, formally but conservatively clad, filled the main floor and the chromium box tiers.

Oldest in years and one of the most distinguished members of the audience was lovely, white haired Cornelia Gray Lunt, who celebrated her 91st birthday last March. Pleasantly titled Evanston's "first lady," Miss Lunt occupied a place in the box of John C. Shaffer, who is an Evanstonian, and reminisced with him of the operas she has heard in bygone years. Gowned in white satin and a white ermine wrap, she wore a tiara of large pearls.

Other guests of Mr. Shaffer were Mrs. Lunt Gardner, Prof. and Mrs. John A. Scott, and John W. Brashears. In a box near by Admiral and Mrs. Wat T. Cluverius were host and hostess to Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Small. . . . Mrs. Small wore a lovely gown of vivid green crêpe . . . and Capt. and Mrs. Edwin A. Wolleson.

One of the most enthusiastic of the young opera goers has been Miss Jean Schweppe, daughter of the Charles H. Schweppes. Striking, in a floor length brown velvet wrap caped in dyed ermine, she hurried, with her escort, to main floor seats last night just before the first curtain. Other young members of the audience were the Talcott Griswolds. Mrs. Griswold covered her black lace gown with a brocade wrap. Miss Janet Fairbank, who is backstage as much as she is in the audience, since she is a soprano member of this year's company, was wearing a short wrap of lavender velvet.

In his main floor box Abner J. Stilwell was host to Mr. and Mrs. John Hogan and the John Allens. Mrs. Allen's white satin gown, very décolleté, was in striking contrast to the black gown of Mrs. Hogan.

Music

Grisha Goluboff, a youthful violinist of extraordinary talent, gave a recital at Orchestra hall last night under the auspices of the Zionist organization Avukah. It was his first Chicago recital, though not his first Chicago appearance, for he created a lot of excitement when he played during the concert of the Jewish celebration at Soldiers' field last summer.

That the interest did not come from a mere flash in the pan was made manifest last night. The young artist, another of the startling youngsters of the violin to have been born in San Francisco, would seem to have put himself alongside his predecessors of only a few years, Menuhin and Ricci. He has the tone to make almost anything sound favorable, he has the musical sense to deal understandingly with Chausson's "Poeme," and the technical mastery to open your eyes in astonishment with Ravel's "Tzigane."

The Musical Guild, an organization making a practice of searching out promising talent and displaying it to the public, presented Barbara Balke, cellist, and Dorothy Wright, pianist, in a debut recital at Kimball hall last night.

It was a program to justify fully the guild in its efforts. E. M.

Masquerade Party at White House; First on Record

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt broke another precedent today when her secretaries mailed invitations for the first White House masquerade party on record.

The party, on Dec. 8, will be to console the distaff side of the New Deal for being barred from the satires staged by newspaper men of the Gridiron club. To these "Gridiron widows" went cards saying:

"You are invited to come in costume with a mask. Prizes will be awarded for the three costumes judged best by a committee. Those winning prizes will be called upon to perform on a stage in any way they wish."

The early mailing was to give cabinet wives, women of high federal positions, wives of Gridiron club members, and the women who cover Mrs. Roosevelt's press conferences plenty of time to think up costumes and "stunts."

Hold Premiere of Reinhardt Play Tonight

Performance Benefit for Passavant Board.

BY JUDITH CASS.

SOCIALITES put their stamp of approval and expressed their delight in the condensed version of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" as given in Elizabethan style in the old Globe theater in Merrie England at the Fair last summer by going again and again to see that rollicking comedy.

Tonight they are to see the play produced in magnificent style according to Max Reinhardt's vision of it, with the fantasy and its almost unlimited possibilities for beauty stressed so that the slapstick humor is not the outstanding feature, as it was at the old Globe.

The two productions could not be compared, of course, but it will be interesting to have seen them both so near together. The première tonight is a benefit for the woman's board of the Passavant Memorial hospital, which annually gives an entertainment to raise funds. In previous years the proceeds have been given to the free bed fund, but this year they will be divided between the departments of the hospital that need it.

Every box holder is entertaining at dinner before the performance at the Auditorium and they all are to be fairly early parties, for the curtain is to rise promptly at 8:20 o'clock and every one wants to be there on time.

Mrs. Francis Johnson, president of the board, is to have as her guests Mrs. Albert L. Smith of New York, Frank McNair, Harold F. McCormick, and the John Alden Carpenters. Also Dr. Reinhardt if he is able to leave backstage long enough to sit in a box. Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, honorary president, will be a hostess in a box.

Mrs. George Nichols to Give Dinner Party.

Mrs. George R. Nichols has just issued invitations for one of the large dinner parties that will precede the annual Assembly ball to be held on Dec. 14 in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. The ball invitations were in last week's mail.

The Service club has sent out cards to its members warning them that nonattendance at the coming meeting, next Monday morning, or failure to appoint a proxy, will be considered a forfeiture of membership. The meeting will be held at 11 o'clock at the Casino and reorganization of the membership will be discussed.

Those intrepid young travelers, the William Allan Robinsons, who are not daunted by shipwreck or broken appendices, will be arriving in Chicago this morning on their way to the west coast, where they will board the Makwa on Nov. 21 for far off Tahiti and the Galapagos islands. With them on their arrival this morning will be Mrs. Robinson's mother, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr.

Now that Mr. Robinson has recovered from the appendectomy he underwent so suddenly last spring down in the South seas, he and his attractive young wife, the former Florence Crane, have determined to go back to the Galapagos that they may gather the rest of the material for Mr. Robinson's new book and finish some reels of motion pictures that have Hollywood significance.

Their visit this week-end in Chicago will be their first since their marriage at the Crane home a year and a half ago.

Albert B. Dicks Return Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blake Dick Jr. will arrive at home this morning from New York. They have been in Europe for the last few months.

Baron and Baroness Ruprecht von Becklin will arrive in New York tomorrow aboard the S. S. Albert Ballin from an extended wedding trip abroad. It was in the late summer that the former Jane Brand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Armin W. Brand, became the bride of the German baron from Rust, Baden, Germany, in a quiet ceremony at the Brand home in Lake Geneva. Upon their return to this country they will make their home at 3 Gracie square, New York City.

Miss Harriet Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wyatt Moore of Winnetka, has just arrived in Russia as a research assistant with the Institute of Pacific Relations. Miss Moore re-

A PARAGRAPH from Bertita Harding's book, "The Phantom Crown," about the ill-fated Maximilian, emperor of Mexico, and his empress, brought to mind a sunny Spanish morning in 1931, less than a week after Alfonso III. had abdicated and fled to Fontainebleau. Motoring to El Escorial, not far from Madrid, we visited the tombs of the Spanish kings. Entering the marble and bronze portals of the Pantheon, built by Philip II. for his Hapsburg forbears and successors, we saw to the left of the altar the tombs of kings from Charles V., including that of Isabella II., and to the right the tombs of queens who had been mothers of kings. At the time we wondered whether the republic of Spain, which had driven its last Hapsburg ruler from the country, would permit him to be brought to the tomb of his ancestors upon his death, to fill the last crypt and complete the roster of dead Spanish Hapsburgs. We wondered, finished our sight-seeing, and departed, to eat luncheon and linger over Spanish wine in the sunny window of a little café and watch the Sunday promenade.

Prophecy—
Wasted—Variation—
Meteorite.

WHAT we did not know was that Philip II. apparently had prophesied the number of his family that would hold the throne. Miss Harding writes:

"After providing accommodation for ten defunct forbears, he [Philip II.] had added, with dreadful insight, space for as many crowned successors to himself as he deemed probable. Tier upon tier the marble coffins stood, thirty in all. And only three were empty. . . . But the queen, Isabella II., was fitting up a nursery in her palace at Madrid for the expected heir, Alfonso XII. Would there then be but one more Alfonso? A thirteenth? . . . The archduke [Maximilian, at that time visiting in Spain] sank into uncomfortable reflection while a phlegmatic guard rattled a bunch of keys.

"When they are all full," the man said, pointing to the coffins, "we will get the republic."

VARIATIONS on an old theme. A Chicago woman sent a copy of "Anthony Adverse" to a friend in the hospital. When she went to visit her she asked her how she liked it.

"It's awfully heavy," said the patient.

"I suppose so," the woman agreed, a little doubtfully, wondering if the historical reference were too much for her.

"It hurts my stomach," added the patient.

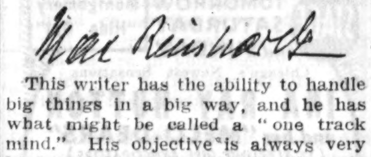
A SOUTH MICHIGAN AVENUE jewelry company is packing its stock preparatory to moving to an upper avenue location, and prowling about in the vaults, identifying packages that have been there for many years, an old box was discovered. When opened a great ball of glasslike substance was revealed, carefully wrapped. Gordon Lang, president of the firm, was notified of the queer contents of the box, and, after some discussion of the matter, some experts were called in, also a Northwestern university professor. It was decided, after due formalities, that the queer glasslike ball was a meteorite. It was placed in storage in the vaults fifteen years ago, and for three years the storage charges were paid. No one came to claim the package and it has been there ever since. Probably will be moved to the new quarters, too.

Writing Shows Reserve, Skill of Reinhardt

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

Occasionally a graphologist comes across a handwriting that is so outstanding and above the average that it astounds her with its implications.

This happened to me last Tuesday when I read the handwriting of Dr. Max Reinhardt, who is in Chicago to present "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The qualities revealed are contradictory to a great extent. Let us study the writing for a moment.



Dear Miss Stafford
Max Reinhardt

This writer has the ability to handle big things in a big way, and he has what might be called a "one track mind." His objective is always very high and he works towards that objective intensely, persistently, implacably. He cannot be distracted nor dissuaded.

Max Reinhardt has undoubtedly heard of the problem of the "irresistible force and the immovable object," but he does not believe in immovable objects, especially along mental lines. His keen mind and unwavering decisions carry him straight ahead. He knows what he wants and he gets what he wants and, strangest of all, he says nothing!

In spite of the things I have said, the handwriting of this amazing man shows that he is shy, self-conscious and over-modest to an extreme. He is intensely fond of people, but can never express his feelings in words. His best friends find him hard to understand. When I said these things to Dr. Reinhardt many of his friends were present and they agreed enthusiastically. Dr. Reinhardt smiled and nodded: "That's true."

For your graphology lesson glance first of all at the way the a's and o's are made in this specimen of handwriting. They are not simply closed. They are locked up with double loops. I have never seen a more reserved nature shown in any handwriting. The letters are high but so narrow they seem pressed together. Such people do not mix easily with everybody. The m's and n's are just the opposite in width from the ones I discussed yesterday.

Dr. Reinhardt expresses himself in what he does rather than in what he says. He is an artist, a man of action and a recluse all at one time. He really hates the limelight. Even too many people can make him uncomfortable because of his extreme reserve.

Hundreds See Adams Paint McCutcheon

Cheer Portrait Completed In Two Hours.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Artist Wayman Adams of New York, who paints princes and presidents and others of consequence, slipped off his dinner coat and into a knee length cream colored smock last night and showed 500 or more patrons of art, including a number of society folk gathered in the Drake hotel, how one goes about painting a portrait.

His subject was Cartoonist John McCutcheon of THE TRIBUNE. At the end of two hours the framed likeness of Mr. McCutcheon stood completed on its easel and a cheering audience surged forward overwhelming the artist and cartoonist with congratulations.

The Hoosier Salon Patrons' association conducted the sitting in connection with an exhibition of Mr. Adams' work, as a benefit for needy Indiana artists.

George T. Buckingham, vice president of the association, in introducing the artist and his subject said: "You will witness the painting of a portrait of one great artist by another and both are Hoosiers, one born in Indiana in the '80s and the other some time before that. One artist belongs to about all the art societies and has taken about all the prizes there are. The other one is a great cartoonist, adventurer, and about anything else you want to call him. As for the audience, do anything you wish. The artist will pay no attention to you."

Bright lights flashed on the stage at one end of the room. Mr. McCutcheon, wearing a brown suit and red necktie with white dots, and smiling a bit sheepishly, mounted a platform and sat in front of a dark brown backdrop. Mr. Adams squeezed paint on his palette from some black, blue, white, yellow, and red tubes.

He then stepped to the easel where the canvas was already in its frame. The audience grew quiet. In a few seconds Mr. Adams with swift strokes had shaped Mr. McCutcheon's face, given him eyebrows, two dark dots for eyes, then ears, and mouth turned up at the corners in his characteristic humorous smile. Then came more shadows near the eyes, the lapels of his coat, and a dab of red for the necktie.

The background, almost a mulberry color, followed, brushed in carelessly as a child might have done it. Once in a while he conversed with Mr. McCutcheon jokingly. Then more filling in of the face, more background. Within twenty minutes the oils bore a striking resemblance to the cartoonist. With brief rests, at which time the watchers took opportunity to applaud, the painting progressed.

The onlookers in the back of the room crowded to the front and sat on the platform steps and on the floor near the artist's feet, but Mr. Adams worked on as if the room were empty.

A few rows back sat a small boy who smiled now and then as he eyed the portrait's progress. He was Wayman Adams Jr.

"What do you think of it so far?" he was asked.

Her hair is in a topknot and she's due for a scrubbing, but Christelle doesn't care. The soap animals have embarked one by one from the red, white, and blue ark and animals, ark, and all will float in her tub.

We'd rather be six than a scintillating matron if some one would buy us the Noah's ark that's recently come to town. Have you seen it?

A handsome barge, by golly, with plenty of surprises hidden in its red, white and blue middle. On it you can see two ducks, under parasols, gravely inspecting the weather report, which dolefully reports rain. All round its side the animals are having a grand lark, particularly the blithesome little monkeys who're cavorting along the stern. And up above a yellow, red lettered flag flies bravely.

It's a sound ship, too—practically unsinkable in the roughest bath waters. You can slosh until the white caps come but it floats on.

And it's is the most interesting cargo that ever embarked to lighten the heart of a youngster who must be bathed. There's Mr. Duck, a dashing fellow so out of the ordinary that his broad bill and his webbed feet are a glorious pink. He himself is buttercup yellow. Mr. Pig is more jovial. He smiles all over his bright red snout.

The pink elephant is a pretty somber chap at first glance but his eyes have a quiet twinkle in their china blue depths and his long curling trunk has gay, unorthodox touches of the same engaging blue. Mr. Zebra is unbelievably fierce. His black stripes fairly bristle.

But they're only made of soap so there's nothing in the world to fear from any of them; they're all playmates who frolic like mad with their young owners once they hit the high seas.

This soap-laden ark is an inspiration for children and mothers alike. The soap is of excellent quality, which is probably what mothers will care most about—but the presentation is the most captivating you've ever seen. It's most inexpensive and should be prominent on your gift lists if you've children to play fairy godmother to. If you can resist the thing your own staid self you're made of pretty stern stuff. You'll find them in a couple of Chicago shops. ELEANOR NANGLE.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Major Ralph Stornack, of apparent position and wealth, is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Brierley, who is in jail for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a table knife. Chief witness against Colin was Major Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. He plots Colin's escape by taking Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and warders are frequently changed. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon in Wales. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited a fortune of a Canadian relative. The solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Stornack calls on Caermaen and they quarrel. Jack suspects Stornack of the crime for which Colin was convicted. Rhoda, who is expecting a baby, leaves home and stays with friends of Caermaen's, the Rawlings, in London. Her mother follows with a court order placing Rhoda under her charge. Caermaen and his solicitor, Jarroman, plan to investigate Stornack. Mrs. Cornboise takes Rhoda to France, where they take rooms with a private family, the Gougets. A son is born to Rhoda. Her mother sends the baby away.

ASSURED OF HER BABY'S WELFARE.

It was actually Mrs. Cornboise herself who suggested to Mme. Gouget that perhaps Estelle might be kind enough to go and sit with her daughter for a little while, as she was naturally feeling rather depressed.

"Ah, Estelle, my dear friend, it is nice of you to come and see me. But I am afraid I am poor company."

Rhoda spoke in French. After six months of constant practice she could speak very nearly as well as if she had been in France all her life.

"It appears that you are leaving soon, and I shall be desolated," said Estelle.

Rhoda hesitated a moment, then decided to plunge. "Estelle—I promise you that I will pay all expenses and will give you ten pounds clear for yourself—if you will take me to see my baby."

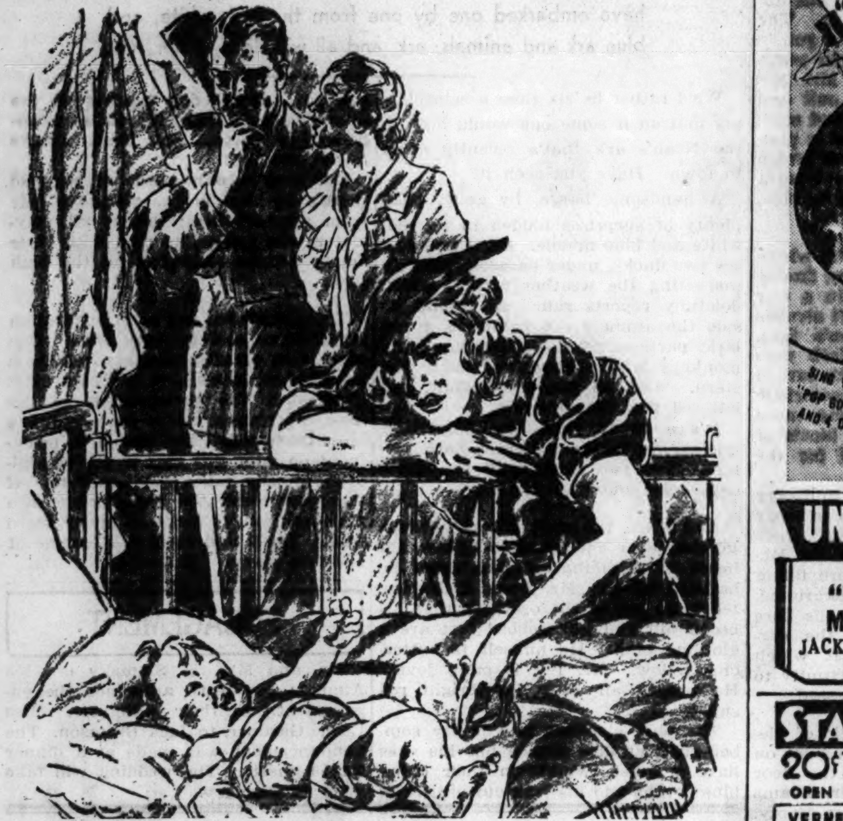
"I did not know they had not told you where your baby is," said Estelle. "It is cruel, that. It is my duty to help you. Now we must consider. It is too far for us to walk—and on the tram or the train we shall be seen and they may telephone and interfere with us. We must hire an automobile. Now listen, my little one, and it is I who will say what must be done."

. . . .

"You had better lie down after lunch, as you will need all your strength for tomorrow," said Mrs. Cornboise on the following day. "You can go in my room and I'll get through the bulk of your packing by tea time."

At two o'clock Rhoda went into her mother's room. At five minutes past she slipped out of it and down the stairs.

The car was waiting at the corner of the road—in it was Estelle, who had obtained the afternoon off.



She ran towards him with a little cry.

"You intend to bring the little one back?" she asked. "I shall be glad, for I have the instincts of a mother."

"No," said Rhoda. "I intend to make what arrangements I can. And then, of course, I shall not wish my mother to know what I have done."

There was no means of openly defying her mother. Capt. Caermaen, in one of the letters that had reached her through Estelle, had explained her legal position. True that the ruling of the British magistrates did not obtain in France. But Mrs. Cornboise had only to show it to the authorities and Rhoda would at once be sent back to Britain, as no country will allow a lunatic foreigner to stay.

The car drove for some dozen miles in the direction of Paris, then stopped in an outer suburb. Rhoda looked at a modern villa with a small strip of garden, of the kind that would be rented for about fifteen shillings or a pound a week in Britain.

"The little one is in there in the charge of M. Dubois. He was once a merchant-captain and is very respectable."

"Thanks!" said Rhoda. "If my baby is really here, I want you to leave me. I'll hire another car to take me back."

Mme. Dubois, a kindly, middle aged woman, herself opened the door.

"Madame, I think you have a baby in the house. If so, I must tell you that I am the mother of the baby. Will you allow me to see him?"

"Assuredly, madame! But I think you understand that arrangements have been made." Madame's tone was severe.

"Please let me see him!" entreated Rhoda.

Mme. Dubois invited her to enter. A bearded giant of a man shuffled into the hallway. Madame explained and he bowed gravely to Rhoda. They treated her with cold politeness. They did not approve of young women who parted with their babies.

She ran towards him with a little cry that made the middle-aged couple look at each other in surprise. Some minutes later they were all talking together again, the cold element in their politeness had quite disappeared.

"But, madame, it is astonishing!" said the man. "Yesterday a lady, who made it understood she was your mother—she spoke to us through an interpreter—said that you were anxious to be rid of your little one."

"Perhaps my mother believed it to be so—perhaps the interpreter partly misunderstood her!" said Rhoda. "I assure you, I do not wish to lose my baby. I love him—and I love his father, who is my husband."

"Then this is a distressing mistake," said madame. "We have always wished for a child, my husband and I, and it was arranged that we should adopt him. And your mother insisted that later she should help to pay for his education and we did not protest, and perhaps it would be better for him, as we have not too much money. It was legally arranged but in such a case one does not invoke the law. Do you wish to take your baby away, madame?"

Tears sprang to Rhoda's eyes and impulsively she seized the Frenchwoman's hand and kissed it.

"You are so good to me, madame. I want my baby, but I cannot take him at once. O, it is difficult to explain! And you have been so kind that I cannot tell you just some story that I have made up."

"We have eyes, madame. It is not necessary to tell us anything that you do not wish." It was the man who spoke.

"Then will you let me say this, monsieur? For the present it is not possible for me to live openly with my husband and my mother will not allow me to have my baby. In a little while perhaps my husband will be free—free to tell every one that we are married, you understand. If that is not to be so, I myself have a little money—enough to help me to earn my living. And then, even if my husband cannot come to me, I want to have my baby."

For another five minutes they left her alone with Colin Jack while they conferred in another room. When they came back it was the man who summed up the situation.

"We are desirous to help you, madame. But you will understand that I cannot permit my wife to grow fond of a child who may be taken away from her at any time. We will keep the adoption papers which give us authority over your baby, and with your approval we will place the child in one of the private nurseries. You are perhaps aware that many respectable Parisians who live in small flats place their children out in the suburbs for the first two or three years." He named a sum equivalent to thirty shillings a week. "If you are able to pay that amount, we will go at once to arrange it."

Rhoda eagerly accepted. Ten minutes later she was herself carrying Colin Jack into a hired car. For Estelle had obediently gone home.

They drove a couple of miles northwards so that they were still some six or seven miles out of Paris when they arrived at what had once been a country house with a short avenue in its own grounds and a liberal garden. Several young children were crawling about on a lawn under the care of a prepossessing nurse.

There were, Rhoda learned, some twenty babies in the house—the children of young and struggling professional people in Paris. She saw two or three parents visiting their children. The sight of them reassured her.

M. Dubois introduced Rhoda to the matron, and explained that in a short while she would wish to remove her child. In a businesslike way the matron took Rhoda's signature and noted in the same book that Colin Jack had a tiny distinguishing mark above his left elbow.

Open Lincoln Shrine Room Today.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne is to talk about her rooms in miniature and show lantern slides of some of them tonight at 8 o'clock in the assembly room of the Harper Memorial library to the Friends of the Library of the University of Chicago, after which the shrine room containing the university's vast collection of Lincolniana will be thrown open for the Friends to view it.

The shrine room will be open to the public thereafter on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays from 2 to 5 o'clock, and from 9 to 12 on Saturdays. Mrs. Thorne is vice president of the Friends, of which organization John S. Miller is president.

According to custom Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen is opening her handsome house at 1430 Astor street next Tuesday for the annual holiday sale of the Eli Bates settlement. Last week Mrs. Donald F. McPherson opened her Winnetka home for a north shore selling that netted more than $1,200, so it is expected that the sale in town this year will be more remunerative than ever.

With a number of prominent society women assisting and others entertaining these assistants at luncheon, the Tuesday selling will assume social as well as philanthropic significance. All of the details of the day are under the direction of Mrs. Bowen's daughter, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, who is chairman of the Eli Bates shop committee.

Tea for Opera Box Committee.

The tea at which the member of the opera box committee who sold the most boxes this year will be given a reward was postponed from yesterday until today. Mrs. Jacob Baur, vice chairman of the committee, will be the hostess and the committee members have been asked to assemble at her home, 1511 Astor street, at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Robert J. Thorne will give a tea today for the heads of committees working on the Christmas Merry-Go-Round to be given at the Hotel Sherman the first week in December for the benefit of the Chicago Lying-In hospital and dispensary.

Mrs. Thorne is chairman of the program for the entire week's entertainment, which means that she will be very busy, for there will be a feature to amuse children every afternoon in the ballroom and an hour of entertainment for adults every night, followed by dancing.

Added to that nearly every booth will have some feature designed to attract crowds, and the exposition hall will be turned into a miniature World's Fair with side shows and games of all sorts.

Gives Tea Today for Visiting Artist.

Mrs. Frank M. Pebbles is giving a tea today from 4 to 6 o'clock at Le Petit Gourmet for Mr. and Mrs. Josef Binder of Vienna. Pouring will be Mrs. George W. Dulany Jr., Mrs. Harold Stark, Mrs. George Woodruff, Miss Norma Stahle and Mrs. George Rasmussen. Mr. Binder is in Chicago to give a special course in modern applied graphic art to the Art Directors' club of Chicago at the American Academy of Art, and instruct at the Art Institute school.

This morning at 11 o'clock in the ballroom of the Drake hotel Miss Anna Fitziu and Edna Kellogg will give the second of their opera interpretations. "Salome" will be the subject this morning.

Gay orange announcements lettered in brown bring word of the first oyster bar buffet dinner and dance at the Glen View club on Friday, Nov. 23. This will inaugurate the winter activities.

What a lot of interesting and varied experiences Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes will have to relate when she tells the Associate alumnae of Northwestern university of her last two years as the first lady of A Century of Progress. Mrs. Dawes is to speak at 12:30 on Nov. 23 at the Casino at the luncheon that will open the fall and winter season for the associate alumnae.

Mrs. I. A. Smothers, as president of the group, has arranged with the general alumni association for a suspension of dues.

Members of the Field Museum of Natural History are to hear Air Commodore P. F. M. Fellowes, D. S. O., A. D. C., of London, England, speak on "The Conquest of Everest" Sunday afternoon, Nov. 25, at 3 o'clock. The speaker is one of Great Britain's most famous aviators and was leader of the Houston-Mount Everest expediton.

The finance committee of the Margaret Etter Creche will give a dinner-dance on Dec. 8 at the Bal Tabarin, and a very gay party it will be, too, for the Creche always has had amusing benefits given for it . . . usually at the Racquet club. Mrs. John Dingle is chairman of the finance committee, with Mrs. Richard Hackett as co-chairman.

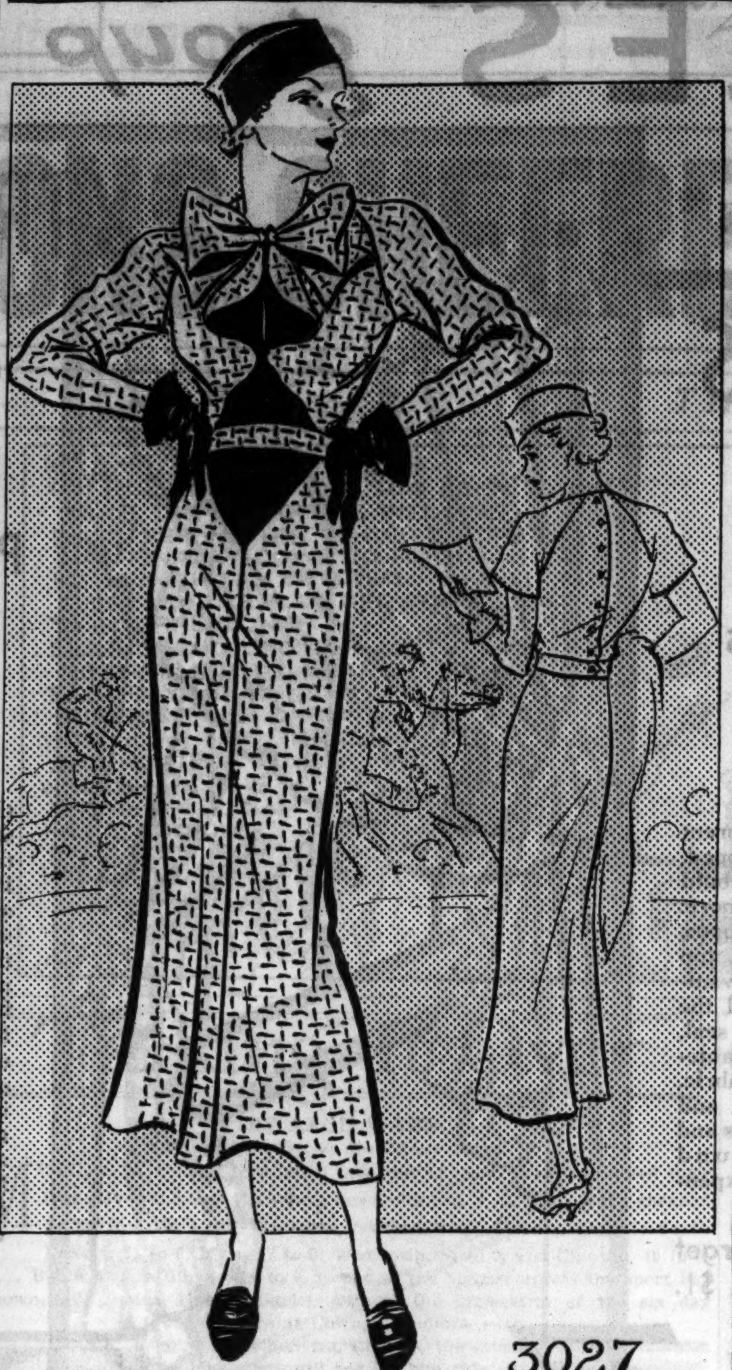
Unusual Bodice Is Effective



JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

The lovely model sketched is a type many smart girls are using for general day wear. The unusual cut of the "trim" on this dress makes it most distinctive. The bodice fronts are underfaced and turned back, forming a jabot effect. The raglan sleeves are cut in one with the shoulders, and it's an easy dress to make. Black Canton crêpe with lipstick red silk crêpe for the contrast, and a royal blue woolen mixture with velveteen in a matching shade, are two suggestions.

The pattern, No. 3027, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years.

Cold Shower in Morning Is Aid to Loveliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I tried out a little experiment recently and found that, as a sex, we are not much addicted to cold showers. In fact, we women are accused of not taking to water like the ducks we are, as one critic diplomatically put it.

But why, say you, talk about showers at this time of year? Br-r-r-r! The mere thought of cold water trickling over the hand is bad enough.

But why not? I ask. It's the perfect season of the year to begin letting the morning shower do for you what you obviously won't let exercise do. I mean jump up the circulation, keep you from getting gooseflesh and that red nose that often blights your otherwise fascinating self! If you know anything better for preventing these common, cold weather beauty blights, then I want to hear about it.

And just see for yourself what this exercise will do for you, and I mean in a beauty way, too! You feel clean, more so than after warm tubbing, and buoyant. That's the word. That's what it does for you. And you're not half so apt to go around sniffling and puffing with colds, either. You get your system so toned, you resist colds, which, while not actually belonging in this department, do play the mischief with a woman's appeal.

All schools will begin at 12:30 o'clock.

BY MARY MEADE.

A friendly flourish now and then is relished by the best of doughnuts. Of course, you may prefer your golden brown ringers sweet, simple, and ungarnished. If so, just skip it.

Smooth white frosting, snow-capping the upper half of a doughnut, may be the starting point for all sorts of departures. In the center on the frosted side place a bright maraschino cherry. Or cut the cherry and press its four quarters on to the ring while the frosting is still moist.

Candied fruits are great helps when there are round cakes to flatter. Place a half walnut meat in the center of the doughnut upon the fresh icing. Cut bits of candied pineapple or glacé fig into neat shapes, arranging six of these on the white rim around the nut. Chopped pistachio nuts on white frosting or shaved almonds on iced, pale green doughnuts disappear magically when good fellows get together.

But doesn't the triumph of taste thrills arrive with the chocolate doughnut? Bakers say 'tis so. A good chocolate dipping icing is the thing. Always keep in mind that we're not coating doughnuts completely, just the top half of the cake. Over this warm chocolate brownness may fall candy sprinkles [chocolate, white, or varicolored] or coarse crystalized sugar, colored and packaged for cake decorating.

Or let there be a pastry tube and watch yourself grow adroit with bright frosting lattice work over the chocolate coat. Four bars of icing run in one direction on top of the doughnuts. Then they are crossed by four more, perpendicular to them. Tiny rosettes lined up on the brown frosting will add a pert staccato touch. If green leaves are in your pastry tube répertoire try a frosting wreath upon a few of the offerings.

Fruit filled and fruit frosted doughnuts are vastly beloved by children. Jelly is an excellent substitute for frosting and often much more practical. Simply dip the top half of said doughnut in a smooth, softened red jelly. Even it over with a spatula, then dip it in fluffy white toasted or tinted coconut shreds or coconut crumbles. Or frosting may be the basis for any of these coconut dippings.

There seems to be an affinity between the flavors of doughnuts and maple. White frosting flavored with maple or with enough maple sugar in it to give it a creamy tan color may be mixed with chopped walnuts and spread with a spatula over the tops of doughnuts.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

RAISE OR TAKEOUT?

When you have four trumps in support of your partner's bid, and also a biddable five card suit, I explained in the last few articles why it is a bad policy to take out in a lower ranking suit unless you intend your subsequent bids to be invitational for game purposes—or at least not signoffs. In the hands then considered the opening bid was in a major suit; consequently the responding hand, having four supporting trumps, knew from the start that the game could always be bid in that major suit if no trumps appeared to be inadmissible. The situation is somewhat different

When No Major Suit Contract Can Be Foreseen.

This happens when your partner bids a diamond, and your choice is between bidding clubs or raising the diamonds. That is your immediate choice; but your ultimate destiny for game purposes is really limited to no trumps; seldom can you make game in a minor suit unless your combined holdings are so freakish in distribution that either one of you can force at some time or else both of you can rebid naturally on optimistic lines. In this contingency I feel much more hopeful about distributed strength than I do about strength concentrated in the club suit. My partner having bid a diamond, I would raise to two diamonds on because I would not know what to do if my partner bid no trumps as a result of my showing the clubs.

Sp.—x x Di.—Q x x x
Ht.—x x Cl.—K Q 10 x x

When the Means Justifies the End.

If the bidding went one diamond, two diamonds, two no trumps or two in a major suit, three clubs, three no trumps, now I would not be apprehensive. I have neither overbid my hand nor misled my partner. He must have the major suits under proper control on this bidding; probably he has the ace of clubs. However, if the bidding were one diamond, two clubs, two no trumps or two in a major, now I would have to bid three diamonds and my partner would feel obliged to go three no trumps, even with only a single stopper in each major, since we appear to have two suits to work with. Unless he holds the ace of clubs, our prospects will be almost hopeless. With that card he could presumably have bid two no trumps over a raise in diamonds, having protection everywhere. Why assume a needless risk? If the game in no trumps is there, or should really be bid, we will not fail to get there through being careful over the first response.

Approximate Requirements for the Takeout.

To bid two clubs over an opening diamond bid by my partner when able also to raise in diamonds, I would need something like

Ht.—x x Cl.—A K J x x

because I have the time factor in my favor in the play of the club suit. If he can stand off the major suits by one stopper in each, we will have at least a finesse in clubs to take in the next nine tricks without surrendering the lead. If the bidding goes one diamond, two clubs, two no trumps, three diamonds, three no trumps, my partner is quite likely to have the queen of clubs, especially if he cannot stop the major suit lead more than once.

Sp.—K x Di.—Q x x x
Ht.—J 10 Cl.—K Q 10 x x

now I can restfully let my partner be declarer in three no trumps.

Sp.—K x Di.—K x x x
Ht.—Q 10 Cl.—K J x x x

with this hand, if the bidding goes one diamond, two clubs, two no trumps, I would raise to three no trumps without mentioning my diamond support.

Sp.—x Di.—Q x x x
Ht.—Q J x Cl.—K Q x x x

With this hand I could stand three no trumps if my partner could bid spades secondarily; otherwise I would be willing for him to try for game in five diamonds. He will hardly get there unless he has two aces and our diamonds are solid. If he has the major aces, he can probably ruff out my clubs and get some discards. With K J in one major and x x in the other and the same minor holdings, the same considerations would apply, or with A x and x x.

5-10 Heiress Gives $10,000 Party in Paris

Princess Mdivani Marks 22d Birthday.

An all-night party of pre-depression splendor, the cost of which was estimated at more than $10,000, spread through the tearoom, dining room, and ballroom of the Ritz hotel, which were taken over for dinner and dancing.

The party started with Russian hors d'oeuvres and cocktails and ended with champagne in an Arab street scene.

An orchestra was flown from London to Paris for the party, but Prince Mdivani denied reports that the music alone cost the princess, the former Barbara Hutton of New York, $10,000. He indicated that she spent only slightly more than that on the whole party.

"We don't think it fitting to spend too much in these times," he said.

Nevertheless, beds of orchids formed the table decorations and the hotel ballroom was transformed into a reproduction of a Moroccan street. There the guests danced after dinner on floors surrounded by tables closely packed in night club fashion. Each table had its silvered bucket of champagne.

The princess plans to fly to London Sunday, where she will take the Europa Nov. 22 for New York, while the prince goes to India to play polo. He said they intend to meet in Indo-China early next year.

Checkers.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Checkers" owes its inspiration to the good old fashioned table cloth. It isn't a romantic background, but one which breathes an air of permanence. Joined block to block to form a continuous pattern, it is one of the quilt designs which are highly successful for a single bed or for a boy's room. The border around a quilt of this type would be attractive made of white to match the white pieces of the block.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Expert Begins Big Hunt for Yuletide Gifts

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The last mad whirl of the shopping merry go round lands you right in front of all the warnings that there are just so many more shopping days till Christmas. There's plenty of excitement in all the shops and stores, with all kinds of new stuff ready for the rush.

Beginning today we'll prove our generosity and amiability by letting all in on all the best finds, things for anybody and everybody on your list, from the cook to the newest offspring among the relatives. We'll do a complete and thorough job of snooping, and all you have to do is to read and dash downtown and buy the stuff that suits your fancy.

So far . . . some knockout lounging suits or pajamas, slick tricks for a college gal! Two pieces of contrasting colored, very practical coolie cloth pajamas. The trousers, for instance, of pale gray, the perky, short, quaint looking jacket of soft yellow, or the "tro" of dull blue and the jacket of henna red. The jackets are honeys made with a side closing, a tiny stand-up collar and covered buttons.

Then, for a winter baby who takes the air, regardless of snow, wind, and cold, there are pram robes, the outside of pastel tinted Chinese brocade silk and white fur as a lining and for swank and warmth. You park your infant in a pocketlike slit, button the flap cozily around the neck of the dimpled darling and everything is as snug as it is good to look at.

For incurable and inveterate readers in bed, some fur lined bed jackets made with long sleeves. They are reversible, with lovely brocaded silk in all pastel tints to match any color scheme. The white fur is any one's idea of luxury and the price tags will make you gasp? Another comfortable find is the padded, quilted satin hot water bottle cover available in flesh colored soft satin. And if these won't make the most pessimistic soul believe that life begins when you own one, nothing ever will!

DRUGS?

Boys and girls who have reached their "teens" are not ready to be given powerful drugs!

For Safer Relief

of constipation in children, do this: Stop all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

Use a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not harm or upset a child's system.

When you change to pure California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer, more satisfactory result. Those little upsets and complaints just disappear as a rule when this treatment is followed.

Proof

Give that headachy, bilious child a little of this gentle laxative when constipated, and a little less, if dose is repeated, until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

Get the true California Syrup of Figs containing senna and cascara, which will not weaken the bowels or irritate the kidneys. You'll soon have evidence that it safely relieves constipation in children.

THE "LIQUID TEST"

This is the way to treat occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose, if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.

Leader—Reboli.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Tino Reboli and Avanti Martinetti celebrated Jewish night at the Chicago Stadium last night by taking the lead in the six day bike race for the first time since the affair got under way last Sunday evening. They cycled to the fore shortly after a motor paced interlude feature, in which the field rolled on the flat of the track while Al Letourner, motor paced champ, outsped Franz Deulberg in a five mile race.

The afternoon and evening produced the best racing of the week, a not unusual development inasmuch as six day pedalers usually "ride into condition" during the first three nights of a grind and reach their peak on the fourth day. This was reflected in the rapid shuffling of the standings.

C. Y. O. Boys Drop to Fifth.

Throughout the afternoon Rodak-Ritter, the Catholic Youth organization team, was able to protect a one lap lead gained shortly before midnight Tuesday night. But the rest of the field had moved up so that six teams were in a mileage tie for second, one lap back of the youthful pair, evidence that Rodak and Ritter were to have a blistering challenge during the course of the evening's endeavor.

The Catholic Youth team managed to hang on to undisputed lead until shortly after the 9 o'clock sprints, but at 9:15 o'clock five teams were in a tie with them, Letourner-Debaets becoming the technical leaders because of their sprint points. On the sprint point basis Rodak-Ritter, though still tied in mileage, were fifth in the standings.

New Leaders Again.

At 10:30 o'clock Reboli-Martinetti had grabbed the lead and they were able to protect their advantage until 11:05 when Letourner-DeBaets overtook them. Al's and Gerard's sprint points gave them the technical lead.

In the hard riding after the 11 o'clock sprints started, the boys got fresh with the rules and were squelched by Referee Kramer, who first penalized Rodak-Ritter, Spencer-Walthour, and Lipsett-Croley a lap each for phoney pickups. A few minutes later he again assessed Lipsett-Croley for a similar offense and also stung Yates-Wagner for a lap. The second penalty against Lipsett-Croley should have discouraged the boys in their hopes of winning the race, for it put them two miles and a tenth back of the leaders.

A Few Go Down.

Though the riding was most earnest throughout the entire evening, there were no serious spills, though several of the boys bounced off the timber. Grimm and Garrison were the only ones scuffed enough to require medical attention.

The race management will try out the motor paced business again tonight, a match having been arranged between Debaets and Reboli, the winner to meet Letourner tomorrow night.

Results of 1 a. m. sprints:

2—McNamara, Rodak, Wagner, Schaller.
4—Grimm, Debaets, Wagner, Reboli.
5—Deulberg, Wissel, Spencer, Sheehan.
6—Dempsey, Thomas, Debaets, Croley.
7—Martinetti, Yates, Lands, Lipsett.
9—Wissel, Spencer, Cohen, Ritter.
10—Rodman, Walthour, Ritter, Garrison.

TRAINER DENIES EQUIPOISE IS TO BE RETIRED

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Reports that Equipoise, handicap champion owned by C. V. Whitney, would be retired were denied today by Tom Healy, trainer for the Whitney stables.

"There is no truth to the reports," Healy said. "Mr. Whitney plans to send Equipoise to the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap in an effort to pass Sun Beau's money winning record."

German Team Captures Bike Race at Cleveland

Cleveland, O., Nov. 15.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—The German team of Gus Kilian, Heinz Vopel, and Werner Miethe won the six day bicycle race here on points early today. A British team consisting of Reggie Fielding of Australia, Al Crossley of England, and Saveer van Slambrouck, transferred from a Belgian trio which withdrew, was tied in laps with the winners, but placed second because of a 1,221 deficiency in points.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

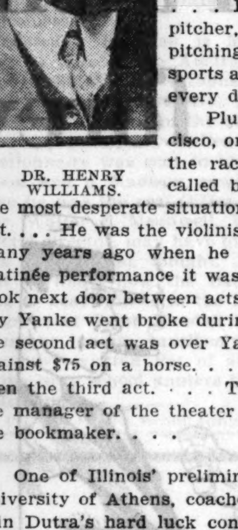
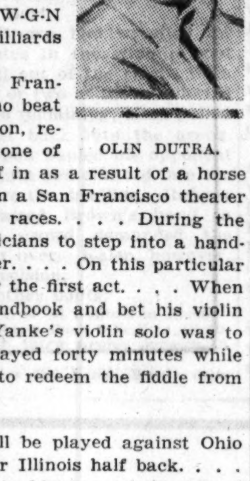
MINNESOTA football fans, until this year at least, have considered their 1916 eleven the best the school has developed. . . . That team, coached by the late Dr. Henry Williams, crushed North Dakota, 47 to 7; South Dakota, 81 to 0; Iowa, 67 to 0; Wisconsin, 54 to 0, and Chicago, 49 to 0. . . . But it lost to Illinois, 14 to 9, in one of the biggest upsets the sport has known. . . . Mrs. Harry Mendel, wife of the impresario of the six day bicycle race at Chicago Stadium, each year buys her son, Charles, the latest in bikes, but will not let him ride except when the family is at its summer place, Avon-by-the-Sea, on the Jersey shore. . . . Mrs. Mendel, who is attending the current race, says bicycles are instruments of the devil, except in the hands of experts. . . . An English women's hockey team is going to Egypt. . . . Floyd Newkirk, Yankee rookie pitcher, has only three fingers on his pitching hand. . . . Bob Elson, W-G-N sports announcer, plays pocket billiards every day. . . .



DR. HENRY WILLIAMS.



OLIN DUTRA.

Plunger Bill Yanke of San Francisco, one of the few players who beat the races in Chicago this season, recalled before leaving for home one of the most desperate situations he ever found himself in as a result of a horse bet. . . . He was the violinist and orchestra leader in a San Francisco theater many years ago when he began wagering on the races. . . . During the matinée performance it was customary for the musicians to step into a handbook next door between acts and try to pick a winner. . . . On this particular day Yanke went broke during the intermission after the first act. . . . When the second act was over Yanke rushed into the handbook and bet his violin against $75 on a horse. . . . The nag lost. . . . Yanke's violin solo was to open the third act. . . . The performance was delayed forty minutes while the manager of the theater dug up enough money to redeem the fiddle from the bookmaker. . . .

One of Illinois' preliminary games next fall will be played against Ohio university of Athens, coached by Don Peden, former Illinois half back. . . . Olin Dutra's hard luck continues. . . . En route to his new winter job at Miami, pickpockets got to him at Jacksonville for $25, which is as much as he has made net to date out of his national open golf title. . . . Ray Miller, former mayor of Cleveland, is now secretary of the Cleveland Falcons hocky team. . . . Stanislaus Kostka, Minnesota full back, wears a size 18 collar. . . . Braven Dyer has been made sports editor of the Los Angeles Times, succeeding Bill Henry. . . . Except for two long scouting trips, Frank Murray, Marquette coach, has never missed a fall practice with his football squad in his thirteen years of coaching there. . . .

Tiny Thornhill, Stanford coach, recently gave his team the following instructions: "Don't fool around with forward passes until after you have scored two touchdowns, then go ahead if you want to amuse yourselves." . . . Elmer Layden is going to arise a couple of hours before the train hits town on Notre Dame trips hereafter. . . . He learned his lesson at the Navy game, when he waited until the train was in the Cleveland station before getting up. . . . He was half dressed when a group of photographers took charge of the car and insisted that he pose for them in his berth. . . . He had to go back to bed to oblige them. . . . There will be a qualifying round for the 1935 Bobby Jones Tournament of the Masters, admitting to the field some of the pros who make the winter circuit but who are not sufficiently established as masters to receive invitations. . . .

Nelson A. Kellogg, athletic director at Lehigh university, contributes the following: "It looks to me as if there is a strong possibility Minnesota, Illinois, and Purdue will go through their conference schedules undefeated and that there may be a tendency to belittle the achievements of the Purdue team because its Big Ten schedule is not as strong as that of Illinois or Minnesota. In the days when the 1934 schedule was arranged I was athletic director at Purdue and Noble Kizer and myself made every effort to schedule additional games. We even offered to go to other schools without a return game the following year. In fact, we did everything to add two conference games to our list without success, so we had to turn to nonconference competition to fill out our schedule. It seems that in any discussion of the relative merits of the three teams the above ought to be taken into consideration." . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Coach Bob Zuppke announced Red Grange would be out of the Ohio State game on account of a shoulder injury. . . . Grange's 78 points gave him a one point advantage over Tod Rockwell of Michigan for the Big Ten scoring lead. . . . The Chicago Bears and Racine battled to a 3 to 3 tie at Cubs park. . . . The Chicago Cardinals defeated Akron, 13 to 0.

Louis Knocks Out Poreda in First Round

Joe Louis of Detroit, Mich., who won a Golden Gloves light heavyweight title only a few months ago, knocked out Stanley Poreda of Jersey City, N. J., in the first round at Arcadia Gardens last night. The abrupt end to the scheduled 10 round bout surprised many in the crowd of 2,450 who paid $3,181, but there was action aplenty in the 2 minutes and 50 seconds it lasted.

Poreda, who weighed 208¼ pounds, waded into his opponent as the fight started and landed lefts to the mouth. The 193½ pound Louis welcomed the opportunity to exchange punches and he got the better of the mixup. One of his blows knocked Poreda into the ropes.

After a slight pause, Louis rushed out of a neutral corner determined to finish the Jersey City heavyweight. He sailed into Poreda with both hands and the latter again fell into the ropes. Then Joe landed several hard body blows and Poreda slumped to the canvas for the count of seven.

New Losing Mark Found for Knox Elevens to Beat

Arkansas City, Kas., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Gangway, Knox and Hobart, it's high time Arkansas City got in this argument over the losing football record.

Records of the local junior college dragged out today showed 28 straight losses. Knox college of Galesburg, Ill., has a mere 25 straight, topped by Hobart's 27 losses in a row.

Some concern was expressed here over the fact that Knox's record is a live one, still in the making, whereas Arkansas City, as well as Hobart, has had its losing streak ended in bitter victory.

C. Y. O. FIGHTERS THRILL 2,300 IN SEMI-FINAL TILTS

Wozniak Wins Decision Over Sluka.

BY FRENCH LANE.

When the Kellys whip the Muldoons, when Pat Berns trounces Eddie Millen, and when Mike Murphy knocks out Bill Bittner, that's fighting. Faith, and you'll know that there will be fightin' all night long.

So it was at the C. Y. O. gymnasium, 31 East Congress street, last night.

The Catholic Youth Organization's great amateur boxing tournament had reached the semi-final round. Sixty-four boys, the survivors from a field of 2,000, were fighting their way on toward the C. Y. O. championships, to be determined at the Chicago Stadium on the night of Dec. 5.

Draws Crowd of 2,300.

They battled furiously and a crowd of 2,300—all that could crowd their way into the C. Y. O. center gym—filed out into Congress street and Wabash avenue just before the clock struck 12, most of them shadow boxing with an imaginary foe as they started to wend their way home.

The Irish had fought nobly. They had punched one another all around the ring. They had stolen the show of this great melting pot athletic event until a couple of Polish lads—Charley Wozniak of St. Alexander's parish in Villa Park and George Sluka from St. Leonard's parish in Berwyn squared away for a tussle in the 160 pound class of the championship division.

Then came the most spectacular scrap of the night. These boys hammered one another on the jaw, on the head, and in the midsection throughout three rounds. Any instant it looked like one or the other would go tumbling down and stay there until Referee Joe McNamara could count ten.

Wozniak Wins Decision.

Neither went down. At the final tap of the bell they were belting each other with solid punches. The decision, by a very narrow shade, went to Wozniak, who is one of the few defending champions in the tournament. He captured the middleweight crown last year.

This scrap was the climax of the program, although nearly all the other bouts offered about as much excitement.

He clashed with Bill Bittner of St. Paul's parish and during the first minute of fighting Bittner had Murphy hanging on the ropes and any instant the crowd expected to see the Murphy kid down on the canvas with the referee counting him out.

Suddenly Murphy's left—it was a short but powerful one—landed squarely on Bittner's solar plexus. Down went the tall shifty kid from St. Paul's parish and he wasn't able to get up until the referee had chanted out the count of ten.

CLASS A.

CHAMPIONSHIP CLASS.

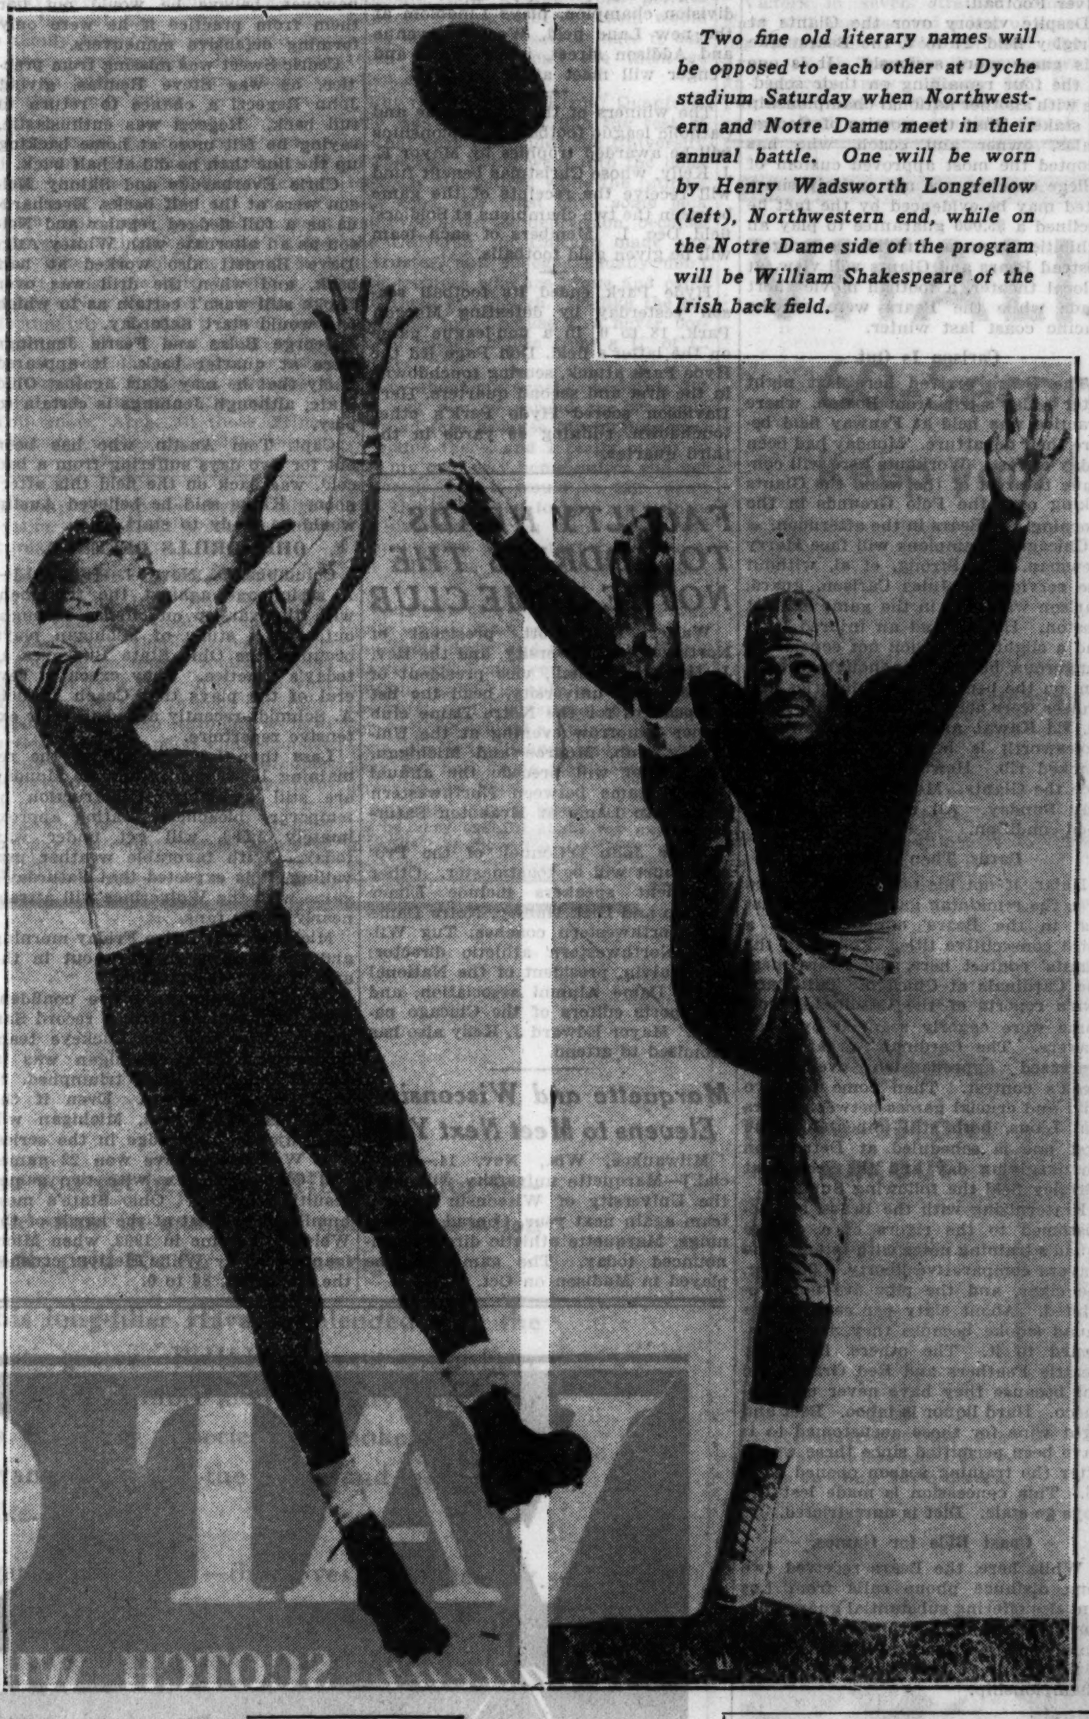
Heavyweights—Tom Kenneally, St. Bernard's, knocked out Mike Zene, St. Joachim's [2].

Sixteen bouts, the first starting at 8 o'clock, will wind up the semi-final round tonight. Then the winners can look forward to the championship battles in the Stadium.

WATCH YOUR IAMBIC PENTAMETERS, BOYS!



Two fine old literary names will be opposed to each other at Dyche stadium Saturday when Northwestern and Notre Dame meet in their annual battle. One will be worn by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow (left), Northwestern end, while on the Notre Dame side of the program will be William Shakespeare of the Irish back field.

Mention of Notre Dame Keys Northwestern and Vice Versa

Dick Hanley and Elmer Layden, rival coaches in Saturday's football game at Dyche stadium between Northwestern and Notre Dame, have one thing in common this week: Neither is faced with the problem of keying up his team for this particular encounter. Any fight talks would be superfluous, for the players have a habit of taking care of this item of their own accord, as previous games in the series have proved.

Since 1920 when the modern series between the schools was originated the games have been marked by brilliant individual performances. The 1920 game saw the immortal George Gipp play a leading rôle in Notre Dame's 33 to 7 victory. It was the last game played by the famous half back, who a few days later contracted pneumonia which resulted in his death.

That Four Horsemen Game.

Four years later the Four Horsemen rode to a 13 to 6 victory over the Wildcats at Soldiers' field. Both teams had their heroes in this game. It was Moon Baker, one of the greatest half backs in Northwestern history, who booted a pair of drop kicks in the first quarter, only to have this lead wiped away by a touchdown scored by Harry Stuhldreher, Irish quarter back, who also kicked the extra point. Elmer Layden, present Notre Dame coach, clinched victory in the closing minutes when he intercepted a pass and returned it for a touchdown.

The following year saw another heated engagement end in favor of the Irish, 13 to 10. Here again Northwestern jumped into an early lead when Tim Lowry blocked a punt and carried the ball over for a touchdown. The Wildcats scored again on Tiny Lewis' field goal to give them a 10 to 0 lead at the end of the half. Notre Dame returned after the intermission to sweep over two touchdowns. Christy Flanagan, speedy half back, was the king pin of this attack.

Fourteenth Game Saturday.

Art Parisien's left handed pass to Niemic in the final minute of the 1926 game won for the Irish, 6 to 0. Reb Russell pounded through the Notre Dame team on three long marches in 1930, only to have each assault founder at the goal line as a result of fumbles. In the fourth quarter Marchy Schwartz sprinted 25 yards for a touchdown and later Frank Carideo intercepted a pass for the second and final score. Last year it was Andy Pilney's 20 yard run in the third quarter that gave Notre Dame a 7 to 0 victory.

Saturday's game will be the fourteenth in the series.

At Northwestern there is no discounting the power of the present Irish attack led by Pilney, Shakespeare, Elser, and Melinkovich. The Wildcats well recall how Elser split their ranks wide open with his pile driving plunges last year.

Can't Match Power.

Northwestern does not hope to equal Notre Dame's power on attack. The nearest approach is Hugh Duvall, hard

N. U. Movies Show Illini Offside on Disputed Play

Northwestern football authorities yesterday watched the moving pictures of the play in the Northwestern-Illinois football game last Saturday during which Wally Cruice ran 44 yards to the Illinois 2 yard line and was called back because of an offside penalty on Northwestern. The movies showed that Chuck Galbreath, Illinois right tackle, was offside, it was reported, but it also showed that Harry Leeper, Northwestern left end, had risen to meet Galbreath's charge.

Whether Leeper was offside or guilty of an infraction of the rules was not announced, for neither K. L. Wilson, director of athletics, nor Dick Hanley, Northwestern coach, would comment on the pictures.

Cruice's run was made when Illinois was leading, 7 to 3. Many, of course, believe Northwestern might have scored and taken the lead. Illinois eventually won, 14 to 3.

Erickson, Amateur Golfer, Leads in Westwood Open

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Don Erickson, Los Angeles public links amateur, set the pace in the opening round of the $1,000 Westwood open golf tournament today, shooting 33—34—67, 5 strokes under par for the first 18 holes. Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles pro, had 34—34—68. MacDonald Smith, Nashville, Tenn., took a 75.

TEAM LEAVES TONIGHT TO TEST GOPHER POWER

35 Men Will Make Trip.

Jay Berwanger, who is several fractions more than one-eleventh of the University of Chicago football team, was back in action yesterday, galloping with the varsity as Coach Clark Shaughnessy drilled his men on plays to be used against the Minnesota Gophers at Minneapolis Saturday. Berwanger appeared none the worse for his ten day layoff due to injuries. His presence added renewed confidence to the entire squad.

Thirty-five Chicago players will leave for Minneapolis tonight at 10:30 from the North Western station. With the official party limited to 40, the maximum number of players will make the trip, and no assistant coaches will be taken. In addition to the squad, only Coach Shaughnessy, Director Metcalf, the team physician, the trainer, and an equipment man, are going as members of the party. The squad list is not to be posted until today.

Bartlett in Action.

Though ten members of the squad were in the training room before yesterday's practice to have aches relieved, the health situation was looking up. Ned Bartlett was in action most of the afternoon, and Clarence Wright, who had been out of the last two games, was traveling with the second team, John Womer taking his place at left tackle on the varsity. An effort was being made to devise a headgear adequate to protect Johnny Baker, end, whose nose was broken in the first few minutes of the Ohio State game.

Use Similar Styles.

The second team worked especially on defense. The game is likely to hinge on the superior man power of Minnesota, for the tactics of the Gophers on both offense and defense are reported to be surprisingly similar to those of the Maroons. This is less surprising when it is remembered that the two coaches, Shaughnessy and Bernie Bierman, were teammates at Minneapolis and fellow coaches at Tulane.

Despite Chicago's slim chance for victory a large delegation of rooters will follow the team to Minneapolis. Up to yesterday 1,500 tickets to the game had been sold at Bartlett gymnasium. Some fans are discussing going north by plane Saturday morning.

GOPHERS ADD TO POWER.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The Gophers of Minnesota have been famed for their power this year, but if matters work out as planned, Western conference fans haven't seen anything yet. The way for even greater power has been cleared, surprisingly enough, by the injury to Glenn Seidel, signal caller and blocker extraordinary.

Here's a Hefty Back Field.

With Seidel regarded as out of the lineup because of the severity of his injury and the danger of aggravating it, Babe Levoir will get his chance to be a starter at the head of the back field against Chicago Saturday. But if Levoir is out of there at any time, for rest or instructions, here is what will happen:

Sheldon Beise, about the most punishing blocker in the back field with his 190 pounds, will move up to blocking back. Stan Kostka will go to full back, but Capt. Pug Lund and Julie Alfonse will remain at their half back posts. This will give the Gophers the heaviest back field of the year, with an average close to 190 pounds. Signal calling duties will rest either with Capt. Lund or Beise, with the former favored for that added task, in addition to his passing, kicking, safety play and ball carrying.

See Crowd of 45,000.

Both Seidel and Vern Oech, red haired guard, once more remained on the side lines, though Lund saw more practice activity than any time since he broke his thumb. Butch Larson also indicated that he was ready for duty, but he by no means is a certain starter because of the fine play of Maurice Johnson.

Things point to the second largest crowd of the season Saturday, with upwards of 45,000.

SELL 12,000 TOO MANY SEATS FOR ARMY VS. NAVY

Annapolis, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Swamped beneath a deluge of ticket applications for the Army-Navy football game on Dec. 1 that exceeds the 78,079 seats available at Franklin field, Philadelphia, the Navy athletic authorities today urged that no more requests be sent in.

Lieutenant Commander Morris D. Gilmore, in charge of ticket distribution, said the game already was 12,000 seats oversold. He said that both West Point and the Navy had 5,000 more applications than they have seats available. The University of Pennsylvania has disposed of 10,000 tickets and has on hand applications for 2,000 more, he said.

BIG TEN RACE DEVELOPS THREE MAJOR CHANGES

Kostka Looms as Season's Greatest Find.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This Western conference football year, about to be concluded, has brought only three major changes in the results. First, of course, is the fall of Michigan, which a year ago was undefeated at this time and now has failed to win a conference game. Second is Illinois, undefeated this season, which one year ago finished with two 1 point conference defeats and a licking by Army. And third is Minnesota, now undefeated.

In the main other teams have followed the same course as in 1933 with minor deviations. Chicago perked up with consecutive triumphs over Michigan and Indiana, but now has lost two games and probably would settle its remaining contests with Minnesota and Illinois on the basis of a .500 average. Iowa began brilliantly, but so far has not had as much success and has only one game left, against Ohio State. Wisconsin has added to Michigan's distress, but its fate rests with Illinois and Minnesota.

Gophers Appear Strongest.

Despite the ultimate outcome of the campaign Minnesota will probably rate as the strongest team in the conference, barring a defeat by Chicago or Wisconsin. Illinois, if undefeated, can claim that its open field play and passing gives it the honor of making the utmost of its material, while Purdue, by avenging a 1933 defeat by Iowa, promises to tie for the Big Ten title despite defeats by Rice institute and Notre Dame and disregarding the outcome of this week's game against Fordham in New York.

In style of play, Ohio State under Coach Francis Schmidt has made the greatest contribution. The lateral-forward passes, plus general blocking and tackling improvement, has stirred Buckeye fans as they have not been excited for several years. And this despite last year's record when Michigan was the only eleven to defeat Ohio. Of course, Ohio State must whip the Wolverines Saturday if this year's record is to be considered satisfactory.

Kostka Season's Find.

Outstanding intersectional victories by the Big Ten have been: Minnesota's victory over Pittsburgh, Ohio's victory over Colgate, and Illinois' victory over Army. In all three instances these defeated elevens have perfect records otherwise.

Stan Kostka, Minnesota's hard driving full back, is the outstanding new player in the conference. Kostka is listed in the records as 210 pounds, but Iowa players report they were told he weighs 230 pounds. Perhaps, he seemed to weigh that much when the Hawkeyes tried to stop the Pole during the 48 to 12 victory Minnesota rang up over Iowa.

This is Kostka's first and last year of play at Minnesota unless the conference rule on eligibility is changed, for Kostka came to Minnesota [although a South St. Paul high school player] from the University of Oregon where he played freshman and sophomore football. Under the Big Ten rules, the freshman year counts as a year of varsity competition if the freshman teams play a definite schedule.

Simmons Is Discouraged.

Oze Simmons, Iowa's Negro half back from Fort Worth, Tex., might have challenged for the title of most promising sophomore player had he continued as he did against Northwestern in the opener. Simmons, after that game, was the natural target of all opponents and, lacking adequate protection when Hawkeye stars were injured, Simmons took a lot of punishment, which finally completely discouraged him.

He left the Purdue game after receiving an ordinary hard tackle when throwing a forward pass. It is considered unlikely that he will continue in the university, and if he does, the betting is prohibitive that he remains eligible. Simmons failed in two subjects during his freshman year.

No Post-Season Games.

The conference games remaining to be played form an anti-climax for the season. Minnesota probably cannot be beaten. Illinois may lose one game, but is favored against both Wisconsin and Chicago. Purdue certainly should expect to whip Indiana in its finale. Michigan still has a chance to win one game against Northwestern, although lack of offense would seem to indicate that the best the Wolverines can hope for is a tie. Iowa is apparently doomed to defeat in its windup at Ohio State.

And there'll be no post-season games for Minnesota, nor will there by any ballyhoo as was the case with Michigan when it seemed the Wolverines might get a chance to go to the Rose Bowl two years ago.

Bears Face Biggest Test from Here On

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 14.—Chicago's Bears, National Professional Football league champions, today began practice at the Polo Grounds, following their victory Sunday over the Boston Redskins, for their important contest next Sunday against the New York Giants, on whose roster is Harry Newman, once of Michigan, 1932 winner of THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Football.

Despite victory over the Giants at Wrigley field, 27 to 7, the Bears take this game more seriously. It is one of the four remaining on their schedule with another national championship at stake. That the worries of George Halas, owner and coach, who has adopted the most approved custom of college coaches, are not entirely simulated may be evidenced by the fact he declined a $5,000 guarantee to play an exhibition game at Providence tonight. Instead Bears and Giants will view, at a local theater, a football movie short made while the Bears were on the Pacific coast last winter.

Carlson Is Out.

The Bears arrived here last night after a day's trip from Boston, where practice was held at Fenway field before their departure. Monday had been a day of rest. Workouts here will continue the rest of the week, the Giants taking over the Polo Grounds in the morning, the Bears in the afternoon.

Chicago's champions will face Harry Newman, Ken Strong, et al, without the services of Jules Carlson, guard. Carlson was hurt in the game against Boston. He suffered an injured back and a slight concussion not considered dangerous, but serious enough to keep him on the bench. Minor injuries and bruises were accumulated by Bill Hewitt, Ed Kawal, and Keith Molesworth. Molesworth is being x-rayed for a cracked rib. Hewitt and Kawal will face the Giants. Molesworth also may play Sunday. All the others are in good condition.

Cards, Then Detroit!

Halas, if not his team, is concerned over the remaining games, the hardest test in the Bears' effort to land a third consecutive title. Following the Giants' contest here, the Bears meet the Cardinals at Chicago. THE TRIBUNE'S reports of the Cardinal-Detroit game were eagerly scanned by Bear players. The Cardinals' great stand increased apprehension over next week's contest. Then come the two final and crucial games between Bears and Lions, both still unbeaten. The first one is scheduled at Detroit on Thanksgiving day and the second at Wrigley field the following Sunday.

Fraternizing with the Bears, one accustomed to the rigors of a college squad's training notes with interest the players comparative liberty. The fag, the cigar, and the pipe are not prohibited. About sixty per cent of the squad smoke because they are accustomed to it. The others, including Beattie Feathers and Red Grange, do not because they have never used tobacco. Hard liquor is taboo. Beer and light wine for those accustomed to it have been permitted since three weeks after the training season opened Aug. 15. This concession is made lest the boys go stale. Diet is unrestricted.

Coast Bids for Games.

While here, the Bears received two long distance phone calls from Los Angeles offering substantial guarantees for games in January. Thus another California trip practically is assured—if the Bears go through to the league championship.

PABST BOWLING TEAM WINS 3 CLASSIC GAMES

The Pabst Blue Ribbons shot a 3143 series last night and won three games from Budweiser in the Classic Bowling league matches at the Windy City alleys. The victories enabled the Pabsts to slip into second place as the leading Monarchs knocked the Baby Ruths back to third position by taking two out of three games. Score:

Site Is Changed for Leo, De Paul Game Sunday

The football game between Leo High school and De Paul will be played Sunday afternoon at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets, instead of De Paul field as originally scheduled. Announcement of the change in the site of the game was made yesterday by Brother William O'Sullivan, Leo athletic director.

Lane Tech, Fenger, Lindblom, and Crane Tech continued preparations yesterday for semi-final games for the Chicago Public High School league championship Saturday. Lane, north division champion, plays Lindblom at the new Lane field, Western avenue and Addison street, while Crane and Fenger will meet at Stagg field.

The winners of the City league and Catholic league football championships will be awarded trophies by Mayor E. J. Kelly, whose Christmas benefit fund will receive the receipts of the game between the two champions at Soldiers' field Dec. 1. Members of each team will be given gold footballs.

Hyde Park ended its football season yesterday by defeating Morgan Park, 18 to 0, in a non-league game on the latter's field. Don Page led the Hyde Park attack, scoring touchdowns in the first and second quarters. Herb Davidson scored Hyde Park's other touchdown, running 50 yards in the third quarter.

FACULTY HEADS TO ADDRESS THE NOTRE DAME CLUB

Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, and the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, vice president of Notre Dame university, head the list of speakers for the Notre Dame club dinner tomorrow evening at the University club, Monroe and Michigan. The dinner will precede the annual football game between Northwestern and Notre Dame at Evanston Saturday.

Judge John O'Connell of the Probate court will be toastmaster. Other prominent speakers include Elmer Layden and Dick Hanley, Notre Dame and Northwestern coaches; Tug Wilson, Northwestern athletic director; Tim Galvin, president of the National Notre Dame Alumni association, and the sports editors of the Chicago papers. Mayor Edward J. Kelly also has promised to attend.

Marquette and Wisconsin Elevens to Meet Next Year

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Marquette university will meet the University of Wisconsin football team again next year, Conrad M. Jennings, Marquette athletic director, announced today. The game will be played in Madison on Oct. 5.

Kipke Plans Big Surprise for Buckeyes

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The second secret practice in two days on South Ferry field suggested today that Coach Harry Kipke is preparing a surprise for Ohio State Saturday. Previous to the practice Kipke announced the whole afternoon would be spent in setting up a defense against Ohio State's forward and lateral passing attack. Correspondents, however, believe he would not bar them from practice if he were only forming defensive maneuvers.

Cedric Sweet was missing from practice, as was Steve Remias, giving John Regeczi a chance to return to full back. Regeczi was enthusiastic, saying he felt more at home backing up the line than he did at half back.

Chris Everhardus and Skinny Nelson were at the half backs, Everhardus as a full fledged regular and Nelson as an alternate with Whitey Aug. Dave Barnett also worked at half back, and when the drill was over Kipke still wasn't certain as to which one would start Saturday.

George Bolas and Ferris Jennings were at quarter back. It appeared likely that he may start against Ohio State, although Jennings is certain to play.

Capt. Tom Austin, who has been out for two days suffering from a bad cold, was back on the field this afternoon. Kipke said he believed Austin would be ready to start.

OHIO DRILLS OFFENSE.

Columbus, O., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—A scrimmage against the freshmen, with the varsity on offense throughout, and a study of Michigan plays occupied the Ohio State Buckeyes at today's practice. They executed several of the plays that Coach Francis A. Schmidt recently added to their extensive repertoire.

Less than 5,000 tickets of the remaining 15,000 placed on sale Monday are still available. Construction of temporary bleachers, seating approximately 1,500, will get under way today. With favorable weather prevailing, it is expected that Saturday's game with the Wolverines will attract nearly 70,000 fans.

Michigan will arrive Friday morning and the team is to work out in the afternoon at the stadium.

Ohio State partisans are confident their team will establish a record Saturday. The worst a Buckeye team has ever defeated Michigan was in 1931, when Ohio State triumphed, 20 to 7, at Ann Arbor. Even if the Buckeyes should win, Michigan will still enjoy a huge edge in the series. The Wolverines have won 22 games and Ohio State six, with two games resulting in ties. Ohio State's most humiliating defeat at the hands of the Wolverines came in 1902, when Michigan, paced by Willie Heston, crushed the Buckeyes, 86 to 0.

Stanford Now 2d to Minnesota in Football Poll

New York, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Stanford's Indians, now on the warpath on Pacific coast gridirons, replace Alabama as the runner-up to Minnesota tonight in the national ranking list of college football teams, compiled by the Associated Press from more complete returns in a poll among the country's leading newspaper observers.

Here's the revised order of the ranking in the first ten, which includes five teams from the east, three from the middle west, one each from the south and far west:

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
1. Minnesota	6	0	0
2. Stanford	7	0	1
3. Alabama	7	0	0
4. Pittsburgh	6	1	0
5. Princeton	6	0	0
6. Illinois	6	0	0
7. Navy	7	0	0
8. Colgate	4	1	0
9. Ohio State	5	1	0
10. Syracuse	6	0	0

Additional and more representative returns today did not slacken the landslide for Minnesota. The Gophers have the votes of 50 out of a total of 65 experts for first place. The remaining fifteen observers listed Minnesota second, with Stanford getting 8½ nominations for the top of the heap, Alabama 5½, and Pittsburgh 1.

Alabama's previous lead over Stanford for second place was wiped out by a rush of support for the Indians from west coast observers. Opinions of all major gridiron sections are well represented in the poll, however. They include 20 sports writers and editors from the east, 19 from the middle west, 14 from the south, and 12 from the far west.

Today's tabulation resulted in Illinois and Navy each advancing one notch in the standing, whereas Colgate dropped two places, from sixth to eighth. Only 2 points—figured on the basis of 10 points for first place, 9 for second, etc.—separate these three teams.

It is noteworthy, however, that Colgate, although beaten by Ohio State, enjoyed a slight margin over the Buckeyes.

Outside the first ten are such strong teams as Santa Clara, Rice Institute, and Louisiana State, all undefeated but tied at least once. Today's returns enabled Santa Clara to hurdle Rice in a tussle for eleventh place. All told, twenty-two teams received at least one vote.

HUEY IS INDIGNANT.

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long was indignant tonight at a poll of football observers placing Louisiana State university thirteenth in the national rating.

"T-h-i-r-t-e-e-n-t-h!" snorted the Kingfish, patron of the L. S. U. football team, drawing his exclamation out that way. "Where do they get that stuff?"

"Who conducted that poll? If I conducted the poll and could pick my own election commissioners it would be different."

IRISH WORK ON PUNTS.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—In anticipation of a punting duel Saturday between Steve Toth of Northwestern and Bill Shakespeare of Notre Dame, Coach Elmer Layden sent the Irish regulars through a long workout on punts this afternoon.

Today's drill gave the centers a chance to improve their passing to punters, the linemen a chance to cover on kicks in a shadow workout, and the receivers a chance to judge and handle the ball better than they have been in games to date.

The team will not leave here until Saturday morning and will stay in Chicago over night, returning Sunday.

WENTZ TOO SICK TO GIVE BREADON ANSWER ON SALE

Will Decide on Purchase of Cardinals Today.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Louis Haines [Lew] Wentz, Oklahoma oil magnate, was sick today and delayed his answer to Sam Breadon's proposal for the sale of the St. Louis Cardinals.

P. W. Prentiss, Wentz's secretary, said Wentz was "too sick to attend to business, but he is greatly improved and probably will be entirely well by tomorrow." Prentiss described the oil man's illness as "nothing more serious than a severe headache."

"Mr. Wentz has Mr. Breadon's figure and is considering it," Prentiss said. "Nothing further has been done."

"I have not seen Mr. Wentz since Sunday," Breadon said. "However, he has my terms and the transfer of the Cardinals is up to his acceptance."

Rickey May Head Club.

While Breadon's terms have not been announced officially, it is understood he is asking between $1,000,000 and $1,250,000 for his 77 per cent of the stock of the National league baseball club and its minor league "farms."

Branch Rickey, vice president and general manager of the Cardinals, is expected to become president of the organization if Wentz buys control, with the oil operator serving as chairman of the board.

Breadon Is Tired.

Wentz has been negotiating for the Cardinals since before the world series.

Reports from the east that Breadon might seek to gain control of the Brooklyn National league club are not taken seriously by his friends, who believe he has tired, temporarily at least, of the perilous business of making profits out of baseball.

Gopher Student Petition Urges Princeton Game

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Students at the University of Minnesota today began circulating petitions on the campus requesting a post-season football game between Minnesota and Princeton. The petition sponsors said the contest would settle "the national championship." Neither Minnesota nor Princeton has been beaten or tied this season.

The official attitude at Minnesota has been to frown on suggestions of post-season play and the petition circulars held small hope their request would be heeded.

Frank McCormick, Gopher athletic director, said no one had consulted him about a Princeton-Minnesota battle. "There have been no negotiations about a post-season game and nothing has been said or written about it to this office," he said.

The university senate committee on intercollegiate athletics, which governs Gopher sports, held a routine meeting today. E. B. Pierce, committee member, said a post-season game "was not even mentioned."

COAST ALUMNI AT IT.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 14.—(AP)—In the face of the stern rebuffs they have met in recent years, the 10,000 Western conference alumni on the Pacific coast are uniting for another fight to bring a Big Ten team here for the Rose bowl game.

A special meeting of the alumni associations of the Big Ten schools will be called shortly, it was learned today, to get behind Minnesota in a drive against the conference faculty stone wall, which has stood since California swamped Ohio State here in 1921.

HAWKS TO OPEN MAROONS' HOME SEASON TONIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 14.—The Montreal Maroons, already recognized as the dark horses of the National Hocky league, will open their home season tomorrow night when they meet the Chicago Blackhawks, holders of the Stanley cup and the world's championship, at the Forum.

Several of the most important individual changes in the makeup of the league will be evident when the Maroons and Hawks each skate onto the ice in search of their second straight victory, each having won its opener from a common opponent, the St. Louis Eagles. First of these will be the presence of Tommy Gorman as the Maroons' manager. It was Gorman who last season piloted the Hawks to a world title, and then resigned with the statement that he was through with hocky, only to turn up here and take over the Maroons' reins.

Conacher in Maroon Uniform.

With Gorman will be his longtime friend, Lionel Conacher, who was the defense star of the league with the Hawks last year. Conacher went to the Montreal Canadiens in exchange for Goalie Lorne Chabot, who came to the Chicagoans to take up the post vacated by Charley Gardner's death last spring. Lionel subsequently was traded to the Maroons.

Montreal fans tomorrow night also will have an opportunity to see their greatest hocky hero -Howie Morenz—in a strange uniform, after 11 years of brilliant service with the Canadiens. In the deal which sent Morenz to the Hawks also went Marty Burke, long defensive standby of the Frenchmen.

The experts' contention that the Hawks weakened their defense considerably by trading Conacher will receive its test in the game tomorrow. The Chicagoans' first defense line consists of Burke and Art Coulter, with two rookies, Art Wiebe and Ernie Kenney to back them up.

Hawks' Offense Strong.

The Hawks will have no complaint in the matter of goalie and offense. Chabot led the Canadian section last year, and has never missed a Stanley cup playoff. Chicago is well supplied with forwards, their front line of Morenz, Johnny Gottselig and Lolo Couture ranking with the best in the league.

In their first game, the Hawks defeated St. Louis, 3 to 1, a week ago tomorrow, while the Maroons were forced to go 70 minutes last night to win, 2 to 1, on Dave Trottier's overtime goal.

Wisconsin Alumni Rally to Greet Pat O'Dea Today

Mr. Charles J. Mitchell will arrive in Chicago this morning and will receive a welcome considerably more hearty than accorded most lumber company clerks from Westwood, Cal.

For Charles J. Mitchell is Pat O'Dea, most famous of all University of Wisconsin football heroes, who on Sept. 19 announced his identity to a world that had thought him killed in the world war.

At the North Western station when O'Dea's train comes rolling in from California at 8:45 o'clock this morning will be prominent Wisconsin alumni from Chicago, Milwaukee, and Madison. They will take the Badger full back of 1897, 1898, and 1899 to the Union League club, his headquarters for the day, and Dr. Arthur Curtis of Chicago, teammate of O'Dea in '98 and '99, will head a committee of old timers who will entertain him.

Alumni Banquet Tonight.

At 6:30 o'clock this evening 400 Badger graduates will gather at the Union League club to welcome O'Dea at the annual banquet of the Wisconsin Alumni club of Chicago.

Judge John C. [Ikey] Karel of Milwaukee will be there to talk over old times with the man whose teammate he was in 1898. They may mention that 62 yard drop kick that O'Dea sent whirling over the bar against Northwestern. And Earl S. [Slam] Anderson of Stoughton, Wis., who played end for the Badgers in 1898 and 1899, probably will be on hand. Some of Pat's 75 and 80 yard punts are sure to be discussed.

Anderson's birthday is March 17 same as that of the Australian who came to the Madison campus to win a place as the Badgers' No. 1 football star. That was one of the queries answered correctly by O'Dea when a questionnaire was sent to him by Anderson and a Madison newspaper to prove he was the real O'Dea.

Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, Wisconsin athletic director, may have other questions to ask Pat tonight. He may want to know how the Badgers are going to beat Illinois in the homecoming game at Camp Randall Saturday. He might inquire cautiously if relatives have written Pat of any likely looking prep school punters in Sydney or Melbourne.

A talk by O'Dea heads tonight's banquet program. Others at the speakers' table will be Dr. Curtis, Dr. Meanwell, John Richards of Los Angeles, Wisconsin coach in 1911, 1917, 1919-'22; Judge Karel, Coach Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago, Dick Hanley and Tug Wilson of Northwestern, and Prof. James Weber Linn of the Midway. Lowell Leonard heads the banquet committee.

Goes West After College Days.

When Pat O'Dea's college days were over he settled down in San Francisco to practice law. He coached the Stanford crew in 1914. Sometime between 1917 and 1919 he decided to drop from sight. He was tired of his position as a former football hero; the publicity and praise piled up, year after year until he decided to seek a quiet life in a small city.

So O'Dea went to Westwood, assumed the name of Charles J. Mitchell (Mitchell was his mother's name), and prospered with the lumber company. A magazine reported he had joined an Australian regiment and had gone overseas. This led to the belief at the Wisconsin alumni records office that he had been killed in action.

WELL, IT SEEMS BROWN JUST HAD TO WIN THIS BOUT

Jack Brown, who conducts his wrestling activities according to no rules of etiquet, earned the loud disapproval of 1,200 at Marigold Gardens last night, but emerged with what Referee Les Kalen said was a victory over Frankie Hart.

Hart and Brown had wrestled for only 10 minutes in the windup bout when both fell out of the ring. With only a second or two of the 20 allotted them to return remaining, Hart pulled himself almost back into the arena. Brown thereupon hauled his opponent to the floor again and climbed into the ring just before the deadline. Referee Les Kalen raised Brown's hand in victory. The crowd demanded the wrestlers start over. Kalen, however, stuck to his decision.

Mike London threw Buck O'Neill in 18:00.

BADGERS HALT ILLINI PLAYS IN HARD PRACTICE

Madison, Wis., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The famous Flying Trapeze play, the passes of Les Lindberg and Capt. Jack Beynon, and the end around jaunts of little Crain Portman, put on by the freshmen this afternoon at Camp Randall, were halted effectively by the Wisconsin varsity as it completed hard work in preparation for the Illinois homecoming game here Saturday.

With the exception of Captain Bender, who may start at tackle for Jensen, and Karl Schuelke, who may start at right half back for Donaldson, today's lineup probably will take the field against the Illini. Five of the players are sophomores.

ILLINI USE LIPPOLD.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—John Lippold played center on the Illinois varsity today, while El Sayre, regular pivot man, was moved to the second team, but the shift was only temporary and made to give the reserve experience with first string players.

Lippold, a full back as a freshman, was converted into a center by Coach Bob Zuppke this fall, and, along with Harry Palmer, will relieve Sayre if the Waukegan sophomore is forced to retire. Sayre, however, has played nearly every minute of the four major contests to date.

Crain Portman, half back, who scored on Army and Northwestern, was another new man in the first back field, but whether he or Frank Froschauer will start against the Badgers is undetermined. John Theodore, who has not played for two weeks, was at full back.

Today's practice consisted of dummy scrimmage with the freshmen. There will be little actual scrimmage the remainder of the week.

The squad will depart Friday noon and camp at Freeport Friday night, traveling to Madison by special train Saturday morning.

HOOSIERS' DRILL LIGHT.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Coach Bo McMillin cut down on hard work this afternoon while the Indiana university football squad tapered off in a light drill. Believing that the players are in good condition, McMillin put them through a light practice on timing plays and defensive measures. He believes that the squad will have to be on its toes every minute of the game Saturday if Maryland's fleet backs are to be stopped when the easterners invade Memorial stadium.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WANDERING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Friend Arch: Well, Arch, here I am in New York City and probably you wonder why I'm here and so do I. It was impulse, but I'll tell you about that later. Now that I'm here, however, I was wondering whether you would like to have me run down to Princeton and cover the Yale game Saturday, and maybe come back to see the Bears play the Giants here next Sunday.

Please telegraph me, not collect, what you think because otherwise I better hurry right home while my poke is not absolutely flat.

Now about the impulse. You see a friend of mine drove east with his wife and daughter for the Yale-Georgia game and the ladies decided to stay over for Princeton-Yale because the gal has a suitor at Yale the family hopes will marry her, but he needs encouraging. Dad had to return to business to earn money to keep the family going.

So dad came back by train and he had a choice of a one way ticket or one of these so-called limited excursion things, round trip for one fare plus 30 cents, and he couldn't resist the bargain, although he wasn't going back. When he told me about it I couldn't resist the bargain either, so I came to New York for 30 cents, but, unfortunately, I didn't give much thought to how I was going to get back. If you don't happen to think I better go to Princeton, perhaps it wasn't such a bargain after all.

You know, Arch, all those Princeton varsity coaches are middle western chaps and perhaps that's the reason Princeton is on a winning streak, unbeaten for two years, but one couldn't talk much about that down here without becoming unpopular. There's Fritz Crisler, head coach, long Stagg's assistant and then Minnesota coach, and Tad Wieman, once Michigan head coach and later with Crisler at Minnesota; Earl Martineau, Minnesota player and Purdue coaching staf, and Campbell Dickson, Chicago player and coach at various points west. So there might be some good human interest stories like you always ask me to get.

About finances. Of course I'm short, but I think I can arrange that here. There are three chaps on whom to try the bite. They're Jack Curley, wrestling promoter, once of Chicago, and John Hertz, former Chicago taxi magnate, now a New York private banker. I think either of them would come across, but I sort of hate to ask them because I don't see them so often any more.

But there's E. S. [Ernie] Quantrell, who was a poor boy like the rest of us that year I attended the University of Chicago. Ernie went into the bond business and retired while the retiring was good. He must have some jack yet, even after the depression, because the University of Chicago made him a trustee, and colleges usually don't pick trustees who are broke and can't will them any dough. I'd like the experience, too, because I've never borrowed money before from a U. of C. trustee.

Now about my expense account. I'll not ask you to refund the 30 cents railroad fare because my impulse was to blame there, and I really ought to pay my own way home unless you get generous, but it would be fair, don't you think, for you to pay my Princeton expenses if you want me to go? I'm not sure about taxi fares there, but I'll be as economical as possible.

Were you ever at Princeton? I was quite embarrassed at Champaign when you came down and George Huff and his son and I met you at the railroad station, which is only a block from the hotel, and I whispered to George's son to drive around a little so it would seem like taxi distance and he didn't hear me and drove right across the street to our hotel.

Anyway, if you think I better go I'll be very careful about my expense account. Hoping you are the same. Regards,

Harvey T. Woodruff.

NAVY ASKS NO ODDS IN GAME WITH PANTHERS

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Football experts said Navy couldn't beat Columbia, but it did; the sailors couldn't whip Notre Dame, but they did.

Pittsburgh is figured far stronger, but 1,700 midshipmen believe that group they call Navy's "team of destiny" will turn back the Panthers.

Victors in seven straight games, Navy still has reserved a bag of scoring plays for Pittsburgh and the Army. Coach Tom Hamilton promises an entirely new offense for the Panthers — new formations, new passes, and a new running attack.

PURDUE GOES EAST TODAY TO PLAY FORDHAM

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Purdue's preparation for its intersectional clash with Fordham at New York City Saturday drew to a close this afternoon with a final stiff drill on the home grounds. Coach Noble Kizer devoted most of the session to perfecting offensive details.

Although Kizer did not name a definite starting lineup, it was apparent that he intends to use the same combination that opened the Hawkeye game. In a spirited signal drill Haas and Loebs were at ends, Capt. Heldt and Burmeister at tackles, Dennis and Wayne Sandefur at guards, Bell at center, Gift at quarter back, Purvis and Carter at half back, and Drake at full back.

The squad will leave for the east at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on a special train, arriving in New York City early Friday morning.

TONELLI READY FOR BERNSTEIN FIGHT TOMORROW

Welterweights to Battle at Cicero Stadium.

Laddie Tonelli, rangy Marseilles, Ill., welterweight, who knocked out Fritz Zivic in his latest bout to demonstrate topnotch ability, did his final boxing yesterday for a 10 round main event against Richard [Toots] Bernstein of Milwaukee at Cicero Stadium tomorrow. Six rounds against Jimmy Cummings, middleweight; Eddie Cerda, welterweight, and Sammy Chivas, featherweight, satisfied Tonelli's handlers that he will add Bernstein to his list of 33 victims in 37 engagements, two of which were draws. Bernstein whipped Eddie Vlk at Circeo Oct. 19 and Puggy Weinert at Milwaukee Oct. 29.

Frank Battaglia, ex-Winnipeg, Man., 160 pound fighter, and Karl Ogren of Kenosha, Wis., accepted terms yesterday for a 10 round meeting at Arcadia Gardens Nov. 27. . . . Louis [Chip] London, Illinois boxing commission secretary, was celebrating his 18th wedding anniversary yesterday. . . . William [Pep] Kerwin, north side promoter, intends to arrange a contest involving Fred Tyus, Golden Gloves graduate, for his scheduled show at Peoria, Ill., Nov. 26.

Orville Drouillard, Windsor, Ont., featherweight, and Bus Breese of Manhattan, Kan., have agreed to box in a return encounter at eight rounds at Marigold Gardens Monday at 132 pounds. A previous battle between the two at the Coliseum was called a draw. Frank Keevil and Irish Johnny Golden, Chicago junior welterweights, meet in a four round preliminary match.

Barney Ross, lightweight and junior welterweight champion, did his first sparring yesterday since his unsuccessful welterweight title defense against Jimmy McLarnin at New York Sept. 17. Ross, appearing near the 140¼ he weighed for McLarnin, went two rounds each with Sammy Alfano and Lenny Cohen for a 10 round 140 pound championship engagement with Bobby Pacho of Los Angeles at Cleveland Dec. 10. Davey Day, Ross' 135 pound stablemate, is due to open drills next week for a 10 round supporting fracas against Jimmy Vaughn.

Chairman Joe Triner of the state athletic commission is scheduled to return from a Washington, D. C., business trip Saturday. . . . Joe Schweitzer, Milwaukee promoter, is reported recovering from an appendicitis operation he underwent the other day. . . . Walter Karpinski, Grand Rapids, Mich., heavyweight, will be idle for about five weeks while undergoing treatments for a nose injury. . . . Corn Griffin, Georgia heavyweight, who sustained a cut over his eye in a winning battle with Adolph Wiater recently, worked out yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium.

Harry Dublinsky, west side junior welterweight, will go to New York Saturday to finish workouts for a 10 round scrap there with Tony Falco of Philadelphia a week from tomorrow. . . . Davey Miller, referee, will head for Dallas, Tex., tomorrow for the balance of the race meet there. . . . The program booked at Merry Gardens tomorrow has been set back to next Wednesday. F. M.

Buddy Baer Due Saturday to Open Drill

Jacob [Buddy] Baer, heavyweight brother of Champion Max Baer, will arrive Saturday morning from Los Angeles, Cal., to prepare for his first Chicago appearance in a six round supporting bout on the King Levinsky-Art Lasky card at Chicago Stadium Nov. 23.

The champion, who is to second his young brother, will not arrive until a few days before the contest. Buddy's opponent has not been selected.

Buddy scored his third knockout in three professional starts against Gene Garner at Los Angeles Tuesday. He stopped Max Brown Oct. 10 and Jack Petric Oct. 24 at Oakland, Cal., in the others.

While Levinsky was taking a rest from gymnasium labors yesterday Lasky sparred several brisk rounds against two mates. Trainer Whitey Eckwert did not give the Kingfish a full vacation, however, for the north side heavyweight was on the road for an hour and a half shortly after dawn. He witnessed a movie at a loop theater in the afternoon. After dinner and a walk Levinsky played hearts with his trainer. By 9:30 the King was in bed.

DENIES HAMAS, SCHMELING WILL BOX IN GERMANY

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Reports that Steve Hamas and Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, would meet in a return match at Hamburg, Germany, were denied by Charles Harvey, Hamas' manager today.

"Steve will stay in the United States and fight Max Baer for the title in June. We're not going to Germany. Hamburg promoters cabled me some time ago, but I didn't pay any attention to them," Harvey said.

CRUICKSHANK AND ARMOUR IN SEMI-FINALS

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Tommy Armour and Bobby Cruickshank, the Scottish team, moved into the semi-final round of the mid-south Scotch foursomes match play tournament today, winning two matches.

They defeated Sal Dibuono and Jack Patroni of Westchester, N. Y., 3 and 2, then won from Ted Luther and Vincent Eldridge of Pittsburgh, 4 and 3.

Tomorrow's semi-finals are over 36 holes and the Scots' rivals are Jimmy Hines and Willie Klein, the long hitting Long Islanders. Klein and Hines hugged par figures today in beating Ed Dudley, Philadelphia, and Al Ciuci, Flushing, Long Island, 2 and 1, after the latter had eliminated T. Philip Perkins, the former British amateur champion, and Emmett French, former Ryder cup captain, 2 and 1.

In the lower bracket, Johnny Revolta and Billy Burke will oppose Willie MacFarlane and Joe Turnesa. Revolta and Burke defeated Tom Creavy and Herman Barron, 2 and 1, in the quarter-finals while MacFarlane and Turnesa were winning from Henry Picard and Clarence Owen by the same score.

George Diffenbaugh and Andy Merrilees, who defeated Bill Mehlhorn and Victor Ghezzi in the second round, were eliminated 6 and 5 by Picard and Owens, who later met defeat in the quarter finals.

SPRINGERS KEEP PHEASANTS AND RABBITS ON RUN

Bounce, Spaniel Puppy, Brings In His First Bird.

BY BOB BECKER.

The pheasants and rabbits in several sloughs and marshes northwest of Chicago were unable to cope with the rushing tactics of two English springer spaniels the other day when five of us joined for a hunt near Lake Villa. Mike of Barrington, our Labrador, was in the hospital since we thought he had been poisoned, so couldn't join the spaniels in crashing the thickets.

Benno Bruning, a field trial winner, and Bounce, two springers owned by A. P. Moecher of Aurora, were the dogs that made things lively for the pheasants and rabbits. They flushed the game for the guns and retrieved brilliantly in all kinds of cover. Spread out behind the two dogs was our hunting party consisting of W. W. Haerther of Lake Forest, Paul H. Davis of Kenilworth, Lyman Barr of Highland Park, and the writer. Moecher said he wanted no gun because it was more fun to work his dogs than shooting at game.

Springer an All Around Dog.

For years we have advocated the springer dog as a good little "all arounder" for hunting here in the middle west. This hunt, as has been the case on many previous trips afield, again proved the contention, because the springer just about rings the bell for the fellow who wants a medium sized dog that will kick out the pheasants, put the cottontails on the move, and do a first rate job of retrieving.

Haerther gave Benno the first chance really to go to work. We had flushed four hen pheasants in a marsh close to Crooked lake. Then Benno ousted a cottontail and Haerther shot it. But the rabbit didn't get the full charge of shot and therefore was able to get over a ridge toward the lake. Benno was sent out. All of us stood in the tall cover and watched the dog pick up the line of the rabbit. Then he put his nose down, and following the line of the wounded rabbit, away he went like a flash.

We waited in the marsh to see what would happen. It was impossible to watch Benno working on his trailing job because of a ridge between us and the dog. In a couple of minutes the dog shoved his head over the rise. He had the rabbit in his mouth. Carrying it on the gallop he brought it in to Moecher.

Bounce Gets His First Bird.

It was laughable to see Bounce, who is just an inexperienced puppy, retrieve his first pheasant. He was so thrilled that he nearly wagged his tail out of commission when he loped in with his first bird.

One little episode of this hunt proved that you must not rush your springers through heavy cover. After all of us had gone through one small marsh and flushed just one cock pheasant, we came back to the middle of the cattail area and this time let the dogs work it leisurely. You couldn't see the spaniels at all, the cover was so dense. But they burrowed around and in less than five minutes put out two cock pheasants within 75 feet of each other. The birds came out of cover that we had gone through not more than ten minutes before.

M'MILLEN AND DUSEK MEET ON COLISEUM MAT

Jim McMillen and Ernie Dusek will wrestle at the Coliseum tonight in a 90 minute match that heads a card of five bouts.

Ed White, manager of Jim Londos, heavyweight champion, is expected to bring Londos to Chicago today to see his challengers get together in the elimination tournament. White has agreed to let the titleholder meet the winner of the tournament which Promoter Maurice Feldman is staging.

In the 30 minute semi-final Richard Shikat of Germany will meet Dick Raines of Texas. Dr. Pat Mulligan is paired with Zack Malcov for 30 minutes, Harry [Baby] Jacobs will take his 310 pounds into the ring for a 30 minute struggle with Casey Birger, and Gene Almon and Jack Smith will meet in the opener, a 20 minute engagement.

ROSENBLOOM 7-5 CHOICE TO BEAT OLIN, KEEP TITLE

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Maxie Rosenbloom remained a 7 to 5 choice over Bob Olin today after they had completed heavy training in preparation for Friday night's 15 round fight for the world's light heavyweight championship at Madison Square garden.

Only light work is in store for the boxers for tomorrow. They will weigh in Friday afternoon at the offices of the New York state athletic commission. Rosenbloom, the defending champion, is expected to scale 175 pounds, the light heavyweight division limit. Olin probably will weigh a pound less.

UNION REJECTS STEEL INDUSTRY PEACE OFFERING

Plants Willing to Permit Outside Representation.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Major steel companies were reported today on the verge of making an important concession to the industrial truce sought by President Roosevelt—recognition of outside unions—but the negotiations were deadlocked on a demand of a particular labor organization.

An informed source disclosed powerful units of the industry had expressed willingness to recognize labor organizations other than "company unions," but only to the extent to which they represented their employés.

Union Rejects Proposal.

The hitch developed, it was learned, when the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, the American Federation of Labor union in the industry, rejected the proposal and demanded that the agreement specify recognition of the Amalgamated.

Michael F. Tighe, president of Amalgamated, came to Washington today ostensibly for a conference with William Green, head of the federation, regarding the A. F. of L.'s projected drive to unionize the 400,000 workers in the industry.

However, there were strong indications the two leaders would give considerable attention to the truce proposition. Neither made any statement after today's meeting.

If an agreement is not forthcoming soon some authorities believe President Roosevelt may intervene.

CALL STEEL OUTLOOK GOOD.

While expansion in iron and steel output has been hesitant, the outlook remains favorable, with scrap showing increased strength and operations gaining ½ point to 27 per cent of production capacity, according to a review released yesterday by Iron Age.

"Expected orders from the automobile industry have been slow in materializing," the magazine says. "In fact, a rise of 1 point to 31 per cent in steel output in the Chicago district was due almost solely to heavier demand from farm equipment makers. At Cleveland, where mills are mainly dependent on automotive tonnage, ingot production has declined 7 points to 32 per cent."

Changes in other centers included a drop of 1 point to 23 per cent in the Philadelphia district and gains of 4 points to 30 per cent in the valleys and 5 points to 41 per cent in the Wheeling area. Operations at Pittsburgh remain at 18 per cent of capacity for the fourth consecutive week, according to the review.

Ruberoid Company Raises Salaries Up to 15 Per Cent

Salary increases up to 15 per cent for more than 400 employés were announced yesterday by Ruberoid company, manufacturers of roofings and building products. Herbert Abraham, president of the company, said the increase "is based on improved business conditions which now prevail in our industry, as well as the progress we are making as a company."

PRESIDENT SETS UP BOARD TO CONTROL LOANS

Group to Map Plans for Future Budget.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Coördination of the work of more than a dozen lending agencies established by the federal government was begun by President Roosevelt today with the establishment of a loan committee consisting of the heads of these agencies. The committee, of which Secretary Morgenthau was named chairman, has been instructed to study the work of the various agencies with a view to preventing overlapping of efforts.

Another task expected to be performed by the committee, although this was not officially so stated, is the mapping out of probable future needs of the government lending agencies in the light of budget estimates that must be prepared between now and Jan. 1.

No Comment on Lending.

President Roosevelt today declined to express his views on the future lending policy of the government when questioned at a White House press conference.

Coincident with announcement of the new coördinating work, Chairman Fletcher of the senate banking and currency committee, who called at the White House, expressed the opinion that there would be no changes in the banking and currency laws by the coming congress.

He inferred that congressional committees interested in banking and currency legislation would give their principal efforts to studies of conditions and the operation of current measures rather than new legislation, adding that he would rather "let well enough alone."

May Form One Committee.

President Roosevelt told newspaper correspondents that the loan committee is one of probably several committees that may be formed to coordinate the scattered but related activities of a host of government departments and agencies, many of the latter creations of the Roosevelt administration.

He announced that another of a less important nature had been formed to correlate work in connection with the Merchant Marine. All of these committees, either those now formed or to be formed, will head up into the emergency council, their chairmen reporting the results of coördinating work to Donald R. Richberg.

When Mr. Roosevelt was asked if some of the emergency committees already created might be abandoned, he said that all such questions would await answers until Jan. 1.

He said that the Home Owners' Loan corporation, which recently announced cessation of loans, would have used all its available capital of $3,000,000,000 when pending applications have been approved. As for the future of such loans he was uncertain.

ICKES THREATENS TO MAKE 'UTILITY' OF OIL INDUSTRY

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, federal petroleum administrator, yesterday warned the oil industry to "put its house in order" or face the possibility of the government's declaring it a public utility.

In his address here before the American Petroleum institute, the secretary said that the administration had hoped that the oil question could be settled by the industry itself in coöperation with the states. The federal government, he said, would give only general and incidental aid as necessary.

He said that hope had not been given up, but warned that conservation of oil is a paramount interest of the country at large.

The administrator said that it definitly is up to the industry to reform its marketing practices. Independent refineries and service stations must be permitted to live and make a reasonable profit, he indicated.

MAKE LARGEST RAIL EQUIPMENT EXPORT SINCE '29

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The Baldwin Locomotive works and the Bethlehem Steel Export corporation are making this week what is described as the largest export shipment of railway equipment since 1929. The consignment, which includes ten locomotives with tenders, and fifteen passenger cars, is being loaded at Eddystone, Pa., for Valparaiso, Chile.

The equipment is of five feet six inches gauge to fit the standard of the Chilean state railways. The cars are of steel with wooden interiors and are designed for first class travel. The locomotives are of the mikado or 2-8-2 type, suitable for passenger or freight service.

The equipment is being loaded on the Norwegian motorship Belpamela, which was designed for this kind of freight.

Arguments in Peoples Trust Bank Suit Resumed

Arguments on a motion to dismiss suit of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company against stockholders of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank to recover $5,576,041 on double liability, were resumed yesterday before Circuit Judge John Prystalski. The Continental loaned Peoples Trust sufficient money to pay off depositors, but the collateral given was insufficient by the amount asked, plus interest, to cover the obligation.

Report U. S. Leaders Seek World Trade

A majority of the business men, economists, and spokesmen for agriculture and labor interviewed by the commission of inquiry on national policy in international economic relations advocate expansion of international trade by the United States in preference to a policy of economic isolation, the commission reported yesterday in a summary of the testimony taken at its hearings throughout the country.

The commission, of which President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago is president, will make its own report and recommendations on Nov. 26. The material released yesterday was a summary of statements at hearings held during the summer in New York, Chicago, Des Moines, Denver, San Francisco, Houston, and New Orleans.

Doubt Curb on Output.

The commission was appointed by the social science research council, with the approval of President Roosevelt, but functions as an independent nongovernmental body. Its expenses were paid by the Rockefeller Foundation.

"The American public," the summary says, "has acquired profound skepticism of the emergency measures designed to raise income by restricting output, according to the general trend of the opinions expressed at the hearings."

The summary also showed, according to the commission, that the American public "has been disillusioned" in its traditional faith in a protective tarif as a guarantor of prosperity. At the same time strong sentiment for the protective tarif was found in every section of the country, even the south. It was expressed not only by representatives of manufacturing interests but with a single exception by every representative of labor who was heard.

Majority Backs Gold Standard.

Among the agricultural interests, the beet sugar growers, and the California fruit industry, both of which have received important tarif protection, urged its continuance.

In the views given upon monetary matters, the majority of those heard favors the gold standard. A smaller group spoke in favor of the commodity dollar, and Milo Reno, the farm holiday leader, was the only spokesman for greenbacks.

The greater number of opinions received on war debts, according to the summary, favored cancelation. Proposals were also made that postponements or remissions of war debts be made contingent upon trade concessions.

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—With the currencies of France, Holland, and Belgium continuing below the gold shipping point in terms of the dollar today, word was received here that $20,000,000 additional of gold has been engaged for shipment to New York. This brings the total to $80,000,000.

The federal reserve bank reported today the receipt of $9,093,900 of the metal, of which $8,981,900 came from France and $112,000 from India. There were no exports and no net change in the stock held under ear-mark here for foreign account. The shipment from France was the largest single one from that country since March 2, when $9,115,600 arrived.

The S. S. Albert Ballin is scheduled to arrive late Friday afternoon with 310 cases of gold valued at about $15,000,000. The metal is consigned to New York banks.

Although easing against foreign gold currencies in trading here today, the dollar slightly improved against the British pound which dipped 1 cent to $4.99¼. French francs were ¼ point stronger at 6.59 cents, with the value of the dollar at 59.45 cents, based on the old par of the franc, against 59.47 cents yesterday. Calculated on the new par of the franc the dollar was valued at $1.0066, compared with $1.0069.

Other gold currencies were steady to better. Canadian dollars declined 3⅛ points to $1.0256¼.

RULES CHICAGO FIRMS VIOLATED RULINGS OF NRA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—The North Shore Coke and Chemical company of Chicago was today held by the National Labor Relations board to have violated Section 7 A of the NIRA. At the same time the Franklin Storage Battery company of Chicago was ordered by the NRA to surrender its Blue Eagle for alleged violations of the fair trade practice sections of its code.

The chemical company also was threatened with loss of its Blue Eagle. The violation of Section 7 A was the discharging of five men who attended a union organization meeting, the board charged.

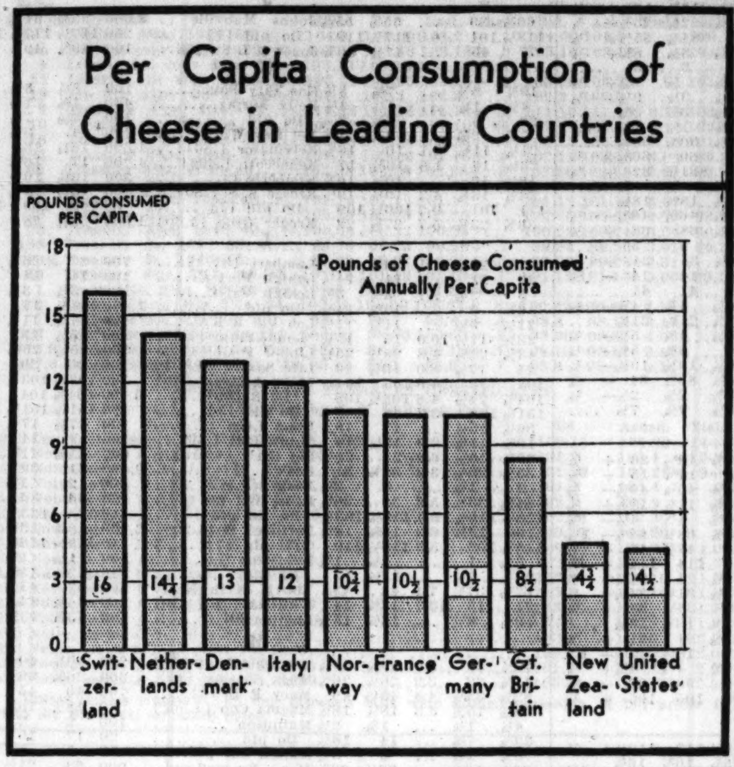
Unless the five men are reëmployed within ten days, the board said it would ask the NRA to snatch the company's Blue Eagle. It hinted other action might be taken. The company refused to appear at the hearing of the labor board when the case was discussed.

GIVES DETAILS OF DAWES LOAN INTEREST PLAN

New York, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Details of procedure for payment of interest due Oct. 15, 1934, on German government 7 per cent bonds [Dawes plan loan] were issued today by the German consulate general in New York.

After payment in foreign exchange on all coupons has been effected at the rate of 50 per cent, coupons will be perforated with the words "50 per cent paid." To obtain payment of the remaining 50 per cent in reichsmarks, coupons should be presented to the Reichshauptbank fur Wertpapiere, in Berlin.

Reichsmarks thus paid will be credited to a reichsmark account and may be used in Germany by holders with the permission of the reichsbank.



Several Firms Lift Dividends or Pay Extras

Directors of John Morrell & Co., Inc., meat packers, yesterday restored the rate on the capital stock by declaring a dividend of 90 cents a share, payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Nov. 24. In the preceding three quarters 75 cents a share was paid.

The rate of 90 cents quarterly was initiated on the stock after the issuance of present shares and public offering of a block of the stock in November, 1928.

Gypsum Pays Extra Dividend.

The United States Gypsum Co. declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock in addition to the regular payment of 25 cents a share. The regular quarterly payment of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock was also declared. The extra payment is to be made Dec. 24 to stock of record Dec. 7, while the regular payments are payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 7.

Penick & Ford, Ltd., announced a dividend of 75 cents a share on capital stock, placing the issue on a $3 annual dividend basis. An extra dividend of 75 cents a share also was declared to make disbursements for the full year 1934 equal to a $3 basis. Both dividends are payable Dec. 15 to holders of record Dec. 1. Last year the company increased its dividend basis from 25 cents quarterly to 50 cents, and declared an extra dividend of 50 cents to adjust the two previous quarterly payments of 25 cents each.

A $13 Special Dividend.

Great Western Electro Chemical will pay a special dividend of $13 a share Dec. 15, to stock of record Dec. 5, in addition to the $1 dividend previously announced for that date on common stock. Previously this year the company has paid $5 a share to common stock holders. Last year $1.50 was paid. Earnings for the first nine months of this year totaled $12.73 a share on the common stock.

Heyden Chemical corporation declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, the former payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Nov. 26, and the regular on Dec. 10 to stock of record Nov. 26.

Congoleum-Nairn Payment.

Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., voted an extra dividend of 40 cents a share on capital stock and the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents, both payable Dec. 15 to holders of record Dec. 1. Directors also authorized a special wage and salary distribution to all employés receiving $2,000 a year or less.

Burroughs Adding Machine company declared a stock dividend of 3 per cent, payable Dec. 28 to holders of record Nov. 23. The dividend is to be taken from approximately 150,000 shares of no par value stock which were reacquired after being issued and admitted to listing on the New York Stock exchange.

Rapid Electrotype company will pay a dividend of 50 cents a share on capital stock on Dec. 15 to holders of record Dec. 1. Three months ago a dividend of 30 cents a share was paid.

HALSEY, STUART JOIN FIGHT ON CONSUMERS PLAN

Halsey, Stuart & Co., the investment banking firm which distributed the first mortgage bonds of the Consumers company, yesterday notified the holders that it was opposed to the reorganization plan now pending for the company in the federal court. The banking firm's action marks the second protest lodged against the plan. A newly organized protective committee early this week warned bondholders that the company's management has not yet made public sufficient information to make possible an intelligent decision on the matter.

The plan is more attractive to the stockholders and the holders of the first mortgage notes than to the first mortgage bondholders, the investment house declared.

"We do not approve the plan of reorganization in its present form and we are negotiating with various interested parties in the hope that a plan equitable to the first mortgage bondholders will be evolved," the firm's statement said.

Stock Deposit Indicates Steel Merger Is Favored

More than half of each class of stock of Republic Steel corporation has been deposited with the management's proxy committee to be voted favorably on the recapitalization plan which will come up for ratification at the special stockholders' meeting Dec. 17, T. M. Girdler, chairman, said yesterday. The plan involves acquisition of Corrigan, McKinney Steel company's properties; acquisition of control of Truscon Steel company, and reclassification of Republic Steel's capital structure.

Harold N. Snapp, who served as assistant cashier and rail officer since the founding of the bank, was elected assistant vice president in charge of rail and public relations. Andrew F. Moeller, Byron C. Leming, and Arthur W. Sottmann were named assistant cashiers.

Mr. Armour said that the advancements resulted from the increased business that the bank has enjoyed in its new location at 33 North La Salle street.

CHICAGO AREA POWER OUTPUT DROPS SHARPLY

Output of electricity in the Chicago district last week made the poorest showing as compared with a year ago since April, 1933, declining 2.6 per cent, the Commonwealth Edison company announced yesterday.

The total for the week was 101,699,000 kilowatt hours, against 104,571,000 in the preceding week, a drop of 2.7 per cent. Output a year ago was 104,452,000 kilowatt hours.

The sharp drop last week was attributed to three factors, a seasonal letup in the industrial use of electricity, the first full week since the closing of the Fair, and unfavorable weather conditions.

The poor showing against a year ago was due to these factors in addition to extremely dark and cold weather that prevailed a year ago, causing a high output figure at that time.

Week ended.	1934.	1933.	Per cent chge.
Nov. 10	101,699	104,452	— 2.6
Nov. 3	104,571	98,298	+ 6.4
Oct. 20	104,076	103,143	+ 0.9

URGES PWA PAY TO ELIMINATE RAIL CROSSINGS

Use of federal public works and relief funds to eliminate railroad grade crossings was advocated by the Railway Business association in a statement issued last night by its president, Harry A. Wheeler. Such an allotment of funds, he declared, would reduce grade crossing deaths and injuries, provide work in a project, the labor cost of which represents more than half of the cost, and relieve the railroads in part of burdensome and unproductive expenditures.

"There are 237,000 rail-highway grade crossings in the United States of which only 31,000 are specially protected," Mr. Wheeler said.

3 CLOSED BANKS IN GROUP OF 20 MAY PAY SOON

Depositors in Eight Others Unpaid.

Five more payments to depositors during the quarter ended Sept. 30 were shown in reports issued last night on 20 more closed banks by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. Repayments by 12 of the banks in this group now range from 10 to 65 per cent. Cash accounts of three of these indicate that further "dividends" are near.

Eight of the 20 banks, however, still have not returned a cent to their depositors. The gloomy prospects are accentuated by the fact five of these eight are included in the 12 banks of this group which have borrowed money to repay before "dividends" are possible.

Four Ask RFC Loans.

Loans are being sought from the RFC to obtain money for four of the 20 banks. Only one is for a bank which has repaid nothing, while another would wipe out the present loan as well as furnish cash for depositors.

The Papanek-Kovac State bank increased its repayments from 35 to 45 per cent through return of $32,904. An RFC loan provided $33,500 of the receipts of $36,420 during the quarter. After additional disbursals, cash, all in trust, was reduced $1,050. Further dividend prospects are enhanced by book value resources still well above liabilities.

Payment of $25,315 from ordinary collections raised Park Ridge State returns from 20 to 25 per cent. Also paid were $4,169 secured claims and $3,300 expenses. With receipts of $20,300 in the quarter, cash was cut $12,500. Ultimate payout prospects dimmed by liabilities in excess of assets if the $216,000 reserved cash all is taken by disputed claims.

Parkway Increases Payments.

Parkway State increased payments from 10 to 20 per cent. Receipts of $11,437 included $10,900 from the RFC. Cash was down $150 after paying expenses, $5,174 to depositors, and $4,500 on secured claims. Losses have been high, but remaining assets compare favorably with liabilities.

Repayments of the People's State of Arlington Heights jumped from 10 to 25 per cent. Receipts of $68,008 included $64,433 from the RFC. Cash account was up $10,776 after payment of $29,605 to depositors, $6,300 on secured claims and various expenses. Losses are low to date and a

Money Exportation Ruling, Step Toward Stabilization

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The administration's order permitting the free exportation of capital from the United States is interpreted among business men as a concession to those who have been demanding stabilization of the currency as a prerequisite to business recovery.

It doesn't mean stabilization, but it is a step in that direction. The order is generally accepted as a definite indication that the administration has given up the idea of attempting to engineer recovery by debasing the dollar.

The reasoning is that if further attempts to cheapen the dollar in foreign exchange were contemplated the treasury would not leave the doors open for the wholesale flight of American capital abroad.

The new order permitting Americans to ship their capital abroad does not mean that the threat of inflation has passed, because that threat exists as long as the government is spending billions in excess of its income, but it does seem to carry the assurance that further arbitrary reduction of the gold content of the dollar is not immediately impending.

"The immediate effect," says the Uhlmann Grain company, "was the advance in the price of silver both at Montreal and London, as American capitalists now can buy this commodity on these foreign exchanges, as our market for silver is closed. It also had a depressing effect on wheat futures at Liverpool, the reason being that higher silver prices make it more difficult for the oriental nations, which are still on a silver basis, to buy this commodity except at enhanced prices."

Political Body's Ability to Rule Credit Questioned.

Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, Harvard professor of banking and finance and former special adviser on monetary policies to the Roosevelt administration, told the Bond Men's club on Tuesday that the federal reserve board had developed into a group of "yes men" for the administration.

This board, which originally was set up to serve as a check to political exploitation of the nation's banking and credit structure, he says, has descended to a point where it is merely a rubber stamp for the treasury department.

Even back in the days when the board was nominally an independent agency, says Dr. Sprague, it failed to check the inordinate credit expansion of the late twenties, because "as is always the case in periods of abounding prosperity, the reserve board has been unwilling to injure business by constriction of credit."

This raises the important question of whether any politically appointed board can ever "manage" or "control" credit. The New Dealers in abandoning the gold standard and experimenting with money tinkering have gone on the assumption that political bodies can control not only the volume of credit, but the volume of money as well.

The ability to "control" the volume of money and credit implies the courage and foresight to reduce this volume when it expands too far as well as the ability to increase it when it is too small. "Control" cannot work in one direction only. It must be able to apply the curb as well as the lash.

There is something ludicrous about the belief that any purely political body would have the hardihood to reduce credit and curtail business expansion and employment in time to prevent a collapse. Such a body would have the entire nation on its neck the next morning after such a move. Even when the federal reserve board was semi-independent it lacked the foresight and courage to act in time, although it did reduce money rates, as Dr. Sprague says, "too timidly and only at longish intervals."

A "managed" currency means a currency blown before the winds of politics and a credit system which constantly expands but never contracts. The gold standard had many faults, but it provided a certain degree of rigidity and afforded a minimum of political interference.

ACTION ON STATE LIFE OF ILLINOIS IS DUE TODAY

The hearing on the reinsurance of State Life of Illinois, Chicago life insurance company in receivership, was continued yesterday until 11:30 this morning by Superior Judge William J. Lindsay.

H. B. Hershey, receiver for the company, has recommended that the bid of the Old Republic Credit Life Insurance company, Chicago, be accepted. Other bidders are Illinois Bankers Life Assurance company, Monmouth, Ill., Service Life Insurance company, Lincoln, Neb., and Pilgrim National Life Insurance company, a Chicago assessment concern.

BENDIX VISIT TO RUSSIA HINTS ACCORD ON DEBT

MOSCOW, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Vincent Bendix, president of Bendix Aviation corporation and Bendix corporation, left Moscow for Paris tonight with several of his business associates after spending ten days in Russia. He visited automobile and airplane factories to study possibilities of the Russian market and the development of aviation.

The presence of the American party gave rise to reports that settlement of Russia's debt controversy with the United States was likely, with resultant increase in American business.

JUDGE 'REGRETS' HIS O. K. ON FARM MORATORIUM

Act Held Constitutional but Unwise.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 14.—(AP)—"The Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium act is constitutional, although it cuts farmers off from private credit," Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson declared today in overruling an attack on its validity.

Immediate appeal of the decision to the Circuit Court of Appeal, with possible submission later to the Supreme court, was announced.

Judge Dawson criticized the moratorium statute as "unfair" and "unwise." He said he changed with regret his preliminary view that it could not be sustained.

Once Assailed Law.

When the case was argued in August Judge Dawson condemned the statute in informal comment from the bench. Once he stopped John E. Tarrant, counsel for the Louisville Joint Land bank, which held a $7,063 mortgage, saying he had heard enough from that side, that he wanted to hear the act defended, as in his opinion it was "unconscionable and unconstitutional."

"If it is to be held constitutional," he added then, "to my mind there is no further use having property rights in America."

Judge Dawson's opinion today read: "The legislation, in some of its provisions, is unfair to creditors, and unwise even as to farm debtors, for it inevitably closes to them all private sources of credit."

Attitude in Washington.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Farm credit administration officials reported today that the organization's funds for farm mortgage refinancing probably would last only a few more months.

For this reason the decision in Louisville by federal District Judge Charles I. Dawson upholding the constitutionality of the Frazier-Lemke mortgage moratorium was of more than ordinary interest to the agricultural refinancing agency.

The assertion by western farm leaders that the funds and authority at the disposal of the farm credit administration were insufficient to give debt burdened farmers the relief they require was a factor in passage of the Frazier-Lemke measure.

Adverse decisions have been made in Baltimore and Richmond, one of which is almost certain to be carried to the Supreme court.

PRICE CHANGES IN STOCKS SHOW MIXED TRENDS

Recent Selling in Utility Shares Is Checked.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 14.—Mixed trading was the order of the day on the share exchange. Business continued fairly brisk, but price changes were narrow and generally without significance. The turnover was close to a million shares.

Selling in the utilities dried up, but the group failed to show any rallying power and this had a depressing effect on operations elsewhere. Threats of public ownership and reduced rates in various parts of the country have given the power and light shares a blow that will cling to them for a long time, usually well informed observers declare.

Had Suffered Sharp Setback.

Before the drive on the group, which began the day after election, spent itself around noon today, Consolidated Gas had established a new record low and losses of 1 to 2 points had been recorded in various other issues, including Brooklyn Union Gas, Peoples Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, American Water Works, and Detroit Edison.

Interest on the buying side of the market converged in a few specialties, some of them allied with the building trades. Air Reduction was marked up a couple of points and Johns-Manville continued its climb by a half point or so.

Usual Leaders Firm.

"Big steel" and other industrial standbys held firm. The street displayed fresh interest in the continued improvement in steel operations as revealed by Iron Age. Talk was heard in some quarters of a vigorous recovery drive by big business in the coming months in an effort to prove it is able to shoulder a big share of the recovery burden. Farm equipments were bought largely on reports from the steel industry that orders for farm work are increasing.

Carmody Would Set Up New Billion Dollar Unit.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Creation of a billion dollar federal corporation to build new railroad equipment to be rented to the carriers was suggested today by John Carmody, a member of the national mediation board.

Speaking at the reëmployment discussion of the economic security conference, Carmody predicted such a corporation, coupled with a coöperative reëmployment program by labor and industry, would give jobs to two or three million persons within eight or nine months.

The government corporation would advance funds to the builders of new equipment, the railroads would rent it.

Carl Gray Against Plan.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Carl R. Gray, president of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway, commenting on the proposal to rent carriers equipment built through federal aid, today said he prefers that modernization of equipment for his line "be done in our own shops with our own men."

Would Revamp I. C. C.

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Reorganization and expansion of the interstate commerce commission on the basis of four fundamental theories was advocated today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of railroads, in a speech before the National Industrial Traffic league.

"Without disturbing the commission essentially," he said, "it can be expanded and reorganized. Extension of the commission's jurisdiction over other forms of transportation will enable it to perform its work more effectively and efficiently."

He said the four fundamental transportation requirements are: Best and cheapest means of transportation; protection against unnecessary duplication or waste in transportation, whether by older or newer agencies; safe, convenient, and efficient service by reliable and responsible operators, and rates that are known, dependable, reasonable, and relatively fair to all shippers, places, and localities.

URGES "AD" DRIVE TO "HUMANIZE" INVESTMENTS

New Orleans, La., Nov. 14.—(AP)—"Humanization" of investment banking and a million dollar advertising campaign of education to put the idea over to the public was advocated here today in an address before the National Association of Securities Commissioners.

Auville Eager, Baltimore broker, who made the proposal, said: "There could be no better expenditure of a million dollars than to finance a national advertising campaign of education in newspapers and other periodicals."

Standard Brands.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information concerning Standard Brands.—N. C. B.

Answer: Although the consolidation of several companies that resulted in Standard Brands, Inc., was effected at what now might appear to have been an inopportune time, August, 1929, subsequent earnings have been marked by an unusually high degree of stability.

The company manufactures and distributes Fleischmann's yeast, Chase and Sanborn coffee, Royal baking powder, gelatin desserts, mayonnaise, vinegar [a yeast byproduct], and similar products. The Fleischmann unit, before prohibition, was one of the leading producers of gin, which at that time was a byproduct of yeast. Although changed production methods no longer permit manufacture of gin as a yeast byproduct, the company reëntered the field with the repeal of prohibition. Profits of the liquor division have helped swell 1934 earnings.

Net income for the first half of 1934 was about $640,000 greater than in the corresponding 1933 period, but third quarter earnings dropped about $120,000 under the third quarter of 1933. For the first nine months of 1934 net income was $10,938,000, or 84 cents a common share, against net of $10,417,000, or 79 cents a common share, for the first 9 months of 1933.

Net income for 1933 was $14,674,000, or $1.12 per common share, against $15,001,000, or $1.14 per common share, for 1932. Per share earnings on the common in 1931 were $1.12 and in 1930, $1.22.

Strong current position, with cash assets at the close of 1933 well over three times total current liabilities, has permitted the company to disburse practically all earnings as dividends on the common stock. The stock pays 25 cents a quarter.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 70,274 shares of $7 dividend no par preferred and 12,645,380 shares of no par common.

Three Closed Banks in Group of 20 Near Depositor Payments

favorable comparison of remaining liabilities and resources is shown.

The Roseland State Savings bank raised payments from 35 to 40 per cent by a $79,860 dividend. Cash, all in trust, was cut $67,700 because receipts of the quarter were only $21,500. Attorneys received $1,200 and other expenses were $8,150. Conversion losses are exceptionally small and no borrowed money is to be repaid, lending cheer to further dividend prospects.

Has $72,290 Cash Account.

The best available cash account is that of the Second Northwestern State—$72,290. During the quarter nearly $22,000 was netted from $35,000 receipts. Expenses took the rest. About $94,000 is needed for another 5 per cent payment. An RFC loan also has been asked. Returns now 30 per cent. Remaining holdings fair.

The Second Humboldt State has $13,628 cash available for repayments, and needs about $22,000 for a 5 per cent return. It has paid 15 per cent. Loss in conversion under 20 per cent, but assets list little above liabilities. An RFC loan has been asked.

Also approaching another 5 per cent dividend is the People's State of Maywood with $21,025 available cash, against about $24,000 required. Only $2,400 of $12,546 receipts last quarter were consumed by expenses. Returns now are 25 per cent. Losses small, but remaining assets are less than liabilities.

Phillip State Record.

Phillip State—No dividends. Owes $104,255 on borrowed money after $41,094 payment last quarter from receipts of $51,466. Cash reduced $3,500 after other expenses, including $7,225 to protect assets which now have cost $113,000. Cash in trust now $216,121 to meet claims, etc. Losses comparatively heavy. Outlook poor, with liabilities nearly equal book value of assets.

Pinkert State—No dividends; liquidations slow; borrowed money not yet repaid. Losses under 20 per cent and remaining book value assets nearly double liabilities. Cash up $1,200 after paying expenses out of $6,842 receipts.

Progressive State—Returned 65 per cent since closing Dec. 27, 1929, but only $481 collected last quarter. Cash down $8,300 after expenses, including $8,335 to attorneys. Favorable outlook.

Pays No Dividends.

Proviso State—No dividends, discouraging figures on losses, and remaining assets and liabilities. Collections, $2,345, went to meet expenses.

Prudential State Savings—No returns. Used $39,933 to reduce balance on borrowed money to $222,343. Also paid $17,000 interest out of $61,891 collections. Loss record good, but liabilities almost equal book value of remaining resources.

Reliance Bank and Trust company—No returns. Of receipts of $60,000 protection of assets took $31,400 more for a total of $555,956—one-fourth of all receipts. However, $453,244 was realized from this source. Attorneys were paid another $17,700, interest took $7,720, and expenses $11,000. Borrowed money was cut $8,300 to $228,775, balance to be met before any money goes to depositors.

Ridge State—No returns. Receipts only $410! Attorneys paid $4,317 and cash cut $5,800 after all expenses. Future shown favorable by figures on losses, remaining assets and liabilities.

Repays 15 Per Cent.

Ridgeway State—Repaid 15 per cent. Quarter receipts of $3,382 all taken by expense. Loss record satisfactory; assets in excess of liabilities fair.

Roosevelt-Bankers State—No returns. Two-thirds of receipts to date taken by expenses. Losses double cash obtained in liquidation. Balance due creditors more than remaining assets. Receipts, $2,780; cash up $1,500.

Service State—Returns 10 per cent. Quarterly receipts of $2,660 taken by expense. Excellent loss record. Balance of remaining assets over liabilities fairly good.

Sheridan Trust and Savings—Returns 10 per cent. Quarter receipts of $135,303 netted $21,600 cash. Paid $72,967 more to protect assets which now have cost $512,691. Paid $31,000 on borrowed money. Liabilities heavy.

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The listed bond market continued its irregular trend today. Domestic corporation issues were lower, on the average, while United States government long term issues and leading foreign loans were generally higher. Trading continued active, aggregating $12,358,900, compared with $12,148,400 the day before.

Issues of the United States government group closed up 8-32ds to down 2-32ds point. Home Owners' Loan corporation issues, which generally failed on the day before to respond to the news that the corporation would accept no further applications for loans, moved up 1 to 7-32ds point today. The 2¾s, due 1949, established a new high today at 95 13-32ds.

The improved tone in the foreign section of the list came in the face of generally maintained strength in the dollar against many leading exchange rates.

The principal setbacks in the domestic corporation list ranged from 1 to more than 3 points on the day. Chicago and North Western and Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific issues were heavily sold.

U. S. Weighs Buying More Cattle If There Is Money

CORN USURPS PLACE OF WHEAT AS PIT LEADER

All Grain Prices Show a Slight Decline.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Wheat played a subsidiary rôle in the trading in the grain market yesterday. It was corn again that stole the show, although it failed to continue its advance of the preceding day. Quotations on all grains were moderately lower, with the pressure on corn apparently resulting from profit taking sales.

Unaffected by foreign influences to the same extent as wheat, corn has become the center of much of the speculative operations that normally goes into the wheat pit. The background of domestic news on corn is uniformly bullish. The rising corn price has a direct bearing on the wheat situation in that it encourages in feeding of the latter grain, but wheat prices for the moment are under the influence of foreign markets. With the Argentine and Australian wheat crops hanging over the world market at present, there is a tendency for prices to be held in check.

Wheat Prices Decline.

Wheat prices lost ¼ to ½ cent a bushel yesterday, while corn gave up ⅜ to ⅞ cent. The early deliveries of rye and oats were a trifle lower, but the later futures were steady. Final prices on December futures were:

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Week ago.
Wheat	$ .99⅞	$1.00⅛	$1.01
Corn	.81⅛	.81⅝	.79
Oats	.51⅛	.51⅝	.52
Rye	.70⅛	.70⅝	.70

Switching of long commitments by traders from wheat to corn was indicated in yesterday's trade. Wheat was the target of sales against purchases of all other grains. Natural profit taking in corn arose because at the high quotations yesterday the price was the best in over two months and speculators who have been carrying the grain for several weeks took the opportunity to get out. Scarcely any corn is being bought in the country for shipment here, and the primary distribution of the crop through sales by farmers direct to consumers is continuing on a large scale.

Liverpool Ignores Advances.

The moderate decline in wheat prices yesterday was not discouraging in view of the action of the foreign prices. The Liverpool market ignored the advance which took place here Tuesday and closed a cent lower again yesterday. In Winnipeg prices also eased about ½ cent a bushel.

Two additional cargoes of Argentine wheat are on the way to this country, according to reports from New Orleans yesterday. The continued importations are having a depressive effect on prices, although if all the exportable Argentine surplus were brought into the country it would make up only a small fraction of the deficiency in the domestic production.

COBB'S SPEECH EMBARRASSES SEC. WALLACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace was embarrassed today by a conflict on the statement of administration policy with respect to continuation of the radical Bankhead cotton control law. A sharp reprimand was believed to be in the offing for Cully A. Cobb, chief of the cotton section of the AAA, who told farmers at Shelby, N. C. that he was "unequivocally for the Bankhead act."

While Cobb was making this plea to the farmers, presumably as the spokesman for the administration, the department of commerce issued a report showing that cotton exports for the three months ended Oct. 31 declined more than 1,000,000 bales over the same period of 1933.

Export Market Imperiled.

The report tended to confirm fears expressed in many quarters that the nation's cotton export market is imperiled by the crop reduction schemes of the New Deal which have sent prices higher in this country than the world levels and encouraged increased production in Egypt, Brazil, India, China, and other countries.

Secretary Wallace, in a statement last Sunday proclaiming a referendum in the south on continuation of the provisions of the Bankhead act, said the administration would not seek to impose its views on the farmers, that it was strictly up to them to choose. He reiterated this policy at his press conference today and was left speechless when apprised of what Cobb had told the farmers.

What Cobb Told Farmers.

"The Bankhead bill under which we now operate was written at the express demand of the farmers," said Cobb in his Shelby speech. "Even though it has been criticized, the Bankhead bill kept the graveyard of the south from being planted in cotton. My candid opinion is that unless we have the Bankhead bill continued we shall be faced with another excess and ruination. I am unequivocally for the Bankhead act."

This was obviously going a little farther than Secretary Wallace's announced plan of giving the farmers only the necessary data and letting them decide for themselves. The administration adopted the noncommittal attitude, it is said, because of the widespread unpopularity of the Bankhead act.

The report of the department of commerce disclosed that cotton exports during October were 615,593 bales, as compared with 1,044,824 bales in the same month last year. For the three months ended Oct. 1 exports were 1,363,016, as against 2,444,695 in 1933. The report also dis closed that the world cotton surplus for the 1933-'34 crop year was only 127,000 bales.

STRENGTH IN LARD LIFTS HOG PRICES AFTER EARLY DIP

Favorably influenced by the behavior of the lard market yesterday, hogs rallied after an early break and finished in line with the average of the preceding session. Pressure of some of the largest midweek receipts of the year and weakness in fresh pork were the contributing factors to the early 5 to 10 cent setback in the hog market, but buying orders on local account expanded quickly as the price level sagged and weak points in the trade were quickly propped up again.

Packers paid up to $8.25, yesterday's top, for prime 250 to 330 pound butchers, including the $2.25 processing tax to the federal government.

Price trends in cattle yesterday were mixed. A two way market developed for the steers, the better grades selling to slightly better advantage in places, while most of the plainer classes and some of the good kinds were bought at uneven reductions during the afternoon.

COTTON FUTURES SHOW NET LOSSES OF 3 TO 10 POINTS

Selling of cotton futures by the south and spot interests resulted in a lower level of prices yesterday, the finish being about the bottom with net losses of 3 to 9 points in Chicago and 7 to 10 points in other markets.

Consumption of cotton in the United States in October, according to official report, was 520,000 bales, against 296,000 in September when the textile strike was under way, and compared with 504,000 bales last year. Total consumption during the last three months aggregated 1,237,000 bales, or 355,000 bales less than during the same period in 1933.

Spot cotton declined 10 points, with Galveston and Houston 12.60 cents; New Orleans, 12.55 cents, and New York, 12.50 cents per pound. Prices follow:

LARD EASES WITH HOGS AND GRAIN FOLLOWING NEW HIGH

January and May lard sold at a new high for the season at the opening on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, but profit taking developed in sympathy with the easier tone in hogs and grain. A rally came toward the last, however, with the close unchanged to 2½ cents lower.

Trade in bellies was somewhat larger, with the close 25 cents higher. Cash lard was quoted at 10.47 cents; loose and leaf, 10¼ cents, and bellies at 14.17 cents per pound. Prices follow:

EGG FUTURES REACH NEW HIGH LEVEL FOR SEASON

Egg futures advanced to new high levels for the season in heavy buying on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, closing ¼ to ⅝ cent higher. Butter was active but closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. January reached a new high at 28⅛ cents.

Eggs eased slightly under profit taking and new selling early but suddenly started moving higher. Receipts were light and the movement of eggs out of storage was heavy, totaling only 3,400 cases less than last year.

Butter figures generally were bullish but buyers and sellers alike preferred to move cautiously. The four markets took out 849,000 pounds more than last year and the Land o' Lakes reported production 16 per cent less than last year.
